THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

October 19, 1995

The Honorable Edward M. Kennedy
United States Senate
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Ted:

I am writing in regard to the Employment Non-Discrimination Act, which you and Senator Jeffords have reintroduced in the current session of Congress.

As you know, discrimination in employment on the basis of sexual orientation is currently legal in 41 states. Men and women in those states may be fired from their jobs solely because of their sexual orientation, even when it has no bearing on their job performance. Those who face this kind of job discrimination have no legal recourse, in either our state or federal courts. This is wrong.

Individuals should not be denied a job on the basis of something that has no relationship to their ability to perform their work. Sadly, as the Labor and Human Resources Committee documented last year, this kind of job discrimination is not rare. Cases of job discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation are seen in every area of our country.

The Employment Non-Discrimination Act, however, is careful to apply some exemptions in certain areas. I understand that your bill provides an exemption for small businesses, the Armed Forces, and religious organizations, including schools and other educational institutions that are substantially controlled or supported by religious organizations. This provision, which I believe is essential, respects the deeply held religious beliefs of many Americans.

Moreover, your bill specifically prohibits preferential treatment on the basis of sexual orientation, including quotas. It also does not require employers to provide special benefits.

The bill, therefore, appears to answer all the legitimate objections previously raised against it, while ensuring that Americans, regardless of their sexual orientation, can find and keep their jobs based on their ability and the quality of their work. The Employment Non-Discrimination Act is designed to protect the rights of all Americans to participate in the job market without fear of unfair discrimination. I support it.

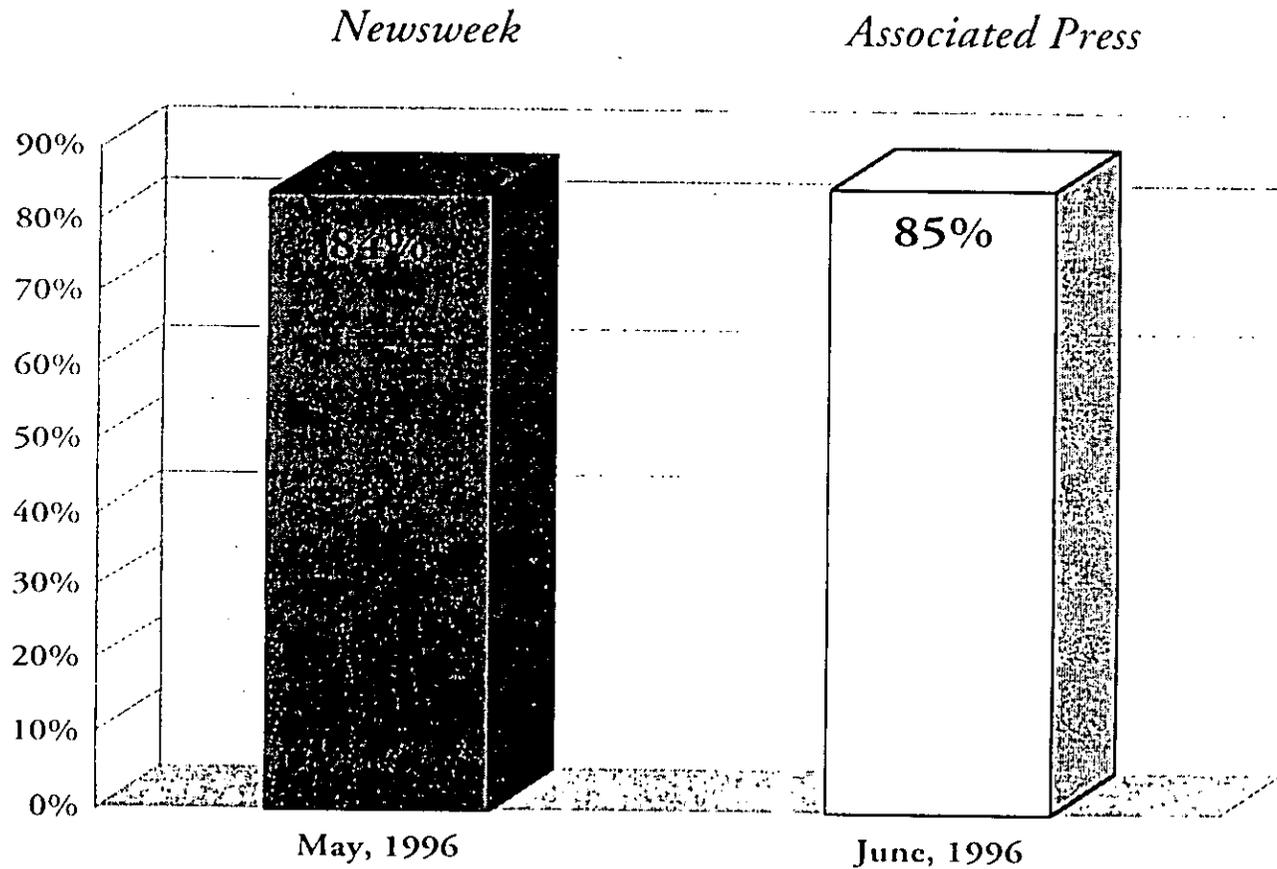

Sincerely,

Bill Clinton

Teen Pregnancy -- We wouldn't get any news coverage if he speaks at a dinner, but I think if they're doing a Congressional press conference we should have them come to the WH for a meeting. We should have the pool in the room for the President's statement, though. Would that be ok?

DLC -- sounds great. Should we put in a scheduling proposal to get some tentative dates? Is it pretty certain they are going to be doing their meeting in May?

Subject: May Teen Pregnancy Event/DLC Welfare Conference

Do we want to try to get either of these or both on the President's schedule?

1) Teen Pregnancy Prevention: May is National Teen Pregnancy Prevention Month and May 1-2 the National Campaign to Prevent Teen Pregnancy will be having its first annual board meeting and dinner here in D.C. On May 2, the Campaign has also scheduled a Congressional press conference and policy forum on the Hill with several members.

On Thursday, May 1, we could a) have the President meet at the White House with the Board of Directors of the Campaign, keep it closed press and simply have the Campaign update the President on where they are and ask the President to encourage them to do more; b) have the President speak at the dinner the evening of May 1, open press, and have an announcement (to come) to make.

2) DLC Conference: The DLC and Eli have indicated that they want to hold a welfare to work conference with the NGA, the National Alliance of Business (NAB), and the White House sometime after the rollout of Eli's organization. The conference would be focused on best welfare to work practices and would be geared toward teaching businesses how to hire and retain welfare recipients. They would like the President to speak at the conference. Presumably, we could ready with a conference in mid or late May.

Can we get a couple of tentative dates for either of these?

Scheduling Request Proposal for the President

From: Bruce Reed BR
Assistant to the President

Request: Speech to the National Association of Private Industry Councils (NAPIC)

Date/Time: Tuesday, March 4, 1997 in the morning. If necessary, they would arrange a speaking opportunity on Sunday, March 2 or Monday, March 3.

Place: The Renaissance Hotel
Washington, D.C.

Duration: 1 hour

Purpose

At the request of Clinton friend, supporter and NAPIC board member Hays T. Sullivan, NAPIC would like the President to speak to approximately 1,400 business volunteers who serve on PICs and state job training coordinating councils. They are a key business constituency in advancing at least three of the President's goals: 1) job opportunities for welfare recipients, 2) the expansion of the school to work initiative, and 3) job training reforms including the GI bill.

Background

NAPIC represents the interests of local public-private partnership groups charged under JTPA with overseeing education, job training, and employment programs for low-income youth and adults as well as dislocated workers. Founded in 1979, NAPIC today counts among its members almost 600 Private Industry Councils (PICs) and workforce development boards nationwide in addition to the majority of state Job Training Coordinating Councils which are appointed by Governors and play a key advisory role in the development of state job training policies and programs.

NAPIC is guided by a 32-member board composed primarily of business leaders of small and large companies. Examples of companies on the board include Hertz, AT&T, Citibank, United Airlines, and Heinz USA.

Recommendation

I recommend we push for the President to speak to this group. This speaking engagement offers the President the opportunity to tap into the support of a large group of business people who could be, or are already, allies on welfare reform, job training and school to work. The President could use this speaking engagement to reiterate his welfare to work challenge to the business community.

POLICE EXECUTIVE

CHUCK WEXLER
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

February 3, 1997

President William Jefferson Clinton
The White House
Washington, DC

Dear President Clinton:

On behalf of the members and Board of Directors of the Police Executive Research Forum (PERF), I am inviting you to speak at the opening reception of PERF's 20th Anniversary Annual Meeting, to be held in Washington, D.C., on Thursday evening, May 1.

PERF is a national association of progressive police executives from the nation's largest city, county and state police agencies. PERF members are those police professionals who are willing to try new innovations and policing practices to improve community safety. The organization and its members have been on the forefront of implementing community policing for a number of years. We have worked often with the White House staff on important legislative issues, most notably the 1994 crime law, which was supported by the PERF membership.

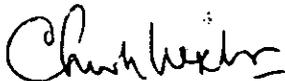

This year's annual meeting will bring nearly 200 of the nation's top police chiefs to Washington to participate in three days of substantive discussion on such topics as: future directions for police, the complex issues surrounding race and the use of deadly force, crime-related legislative proposals before Congress, pursuit driving, incorporating community policing into recruit training, change management in police agencies, and police/media relations.

This is a special meeting for the organization, as it celebrates PERF's 20th anniversary of conducting substantive applied research in policing. Noted scholars James Q. Wilson and George Kelling—known for their expertise in community policing and problem solving—will be featured speakers.

We would be honored to have you speak to meeting attendees at the opening reception on Thursday evening, May 1. PERF members who have followed your efforts to effectively address crime and public safety issues would welcome the opportunity to hear from you directly.

Thank you for considering this request.

Sincerely,

Chuck Wexler

Here's the letter to the President requesting him to do a video for our Fifth Anniversary celebration at CASA. I've also enclosed some suggested talking points for the President.

This is really important to us at CASA and we'll give the President a great send off at the dinner.

I believe that Sandy Weill is a big supporter of the President and that the President thinks highly of Peter Lund. The Nancy Reagan comments will be especially well received. The audience will be New York's finest and most influential citizens.

If you need anything else, let me know.

Thanks for your help.

Dear Mr. President:

In October 1995 you attended the first Concert of Hope of The National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University in Los Angeles, an event designed to raise awareness about substance abuse and addiction and to give hope to its victims. That evening we were honored to give you the CASA Distinguished Service Award for your extraordinary commitment and courage in protecting America's children from cigarettes, drugs and alcohol. The Concert was taped by CBS television and broadcast as a prime time special on December 1, 1995. P.P.

From its start in 1992, you have been a staunch supporter of CASA and its work. You gave us a special tribute when you said, "I am proud to stand with CASA as you continue your vital efforts to confront the fundamental causes and effects of drug use and abuse in our society. Thank you for your continued leadership and counsel."

On March 18, 1997, CASA will celebrate its Fifth Anniversary with a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York honoring three individuals you know well:

--Nancy Reagan, for her commitment to helping American children "Just Say No" to drugs.

--Peter Lund, President and CEO of CBS for producing and broadcasting the Concert of Hope (and doing Concert of Hope II this coming November).

--Sanford Weill, Chairman and CEO of Travellers Group, who was the first corporate sponsor of CASA and has continued to support our work ever since.

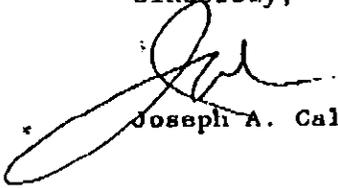

We would, of course, be honored to have you at the dinner, but I'm well aware of the limits of your schedule. If that is not possible, we respectfully request that you speak via video tape to congratulate the three honorees and CASA on its Fifth Anniversary. It is going to be a spectacular event, with New York City's top citizens and a brief video of you would be the highlight of the evening.

I am passing along to Rahm Emanuel some talking points that you might wish to use in your remarks.

Keep up the good work. As you know, we are prepared to help in any way we can.

Sincerely,

Joseph A. Califano, Jr.

Suggested Talking Points For The President on the Fifth Anniversary Celebration of The National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University
March 18, 1997

Joe Califano and all of the great staff at CASA, congratulations on your Fifth Anniversary. I wish I could be with you tonight to celebrate the occasion. Since I can't, I wanted to give my best to you and all the CASA supporters assembled in New York.

I especially want to congratulate the three extraordinary Americans who are receiving the 1997 CASA Distinguished Service Award.

I received that award in 1995 and it has a special place among the honors I have been given as President.

Sandy Weill is not only one of our nation's most successful and socially responsible corporate leaders, he is one of America's outstanding philanthropists. Sandy has given generously to many causes and I am delighted that you are honoring him this evening for his work with CASA. The Travelers Group was the first corporation to support CASA and has been a key backer over the past five years.

Peter Lund exemplifies the finest leadership in American broadcasting. Peter, I remember the first Concert of Hope that I attended in Los Angeles and which CBS broadcast. I'm delighted that you are producing Concert of Hope II to help raise awareness of the dangers of substance abuse, especially to our children. Congratulations to a great leader of American television.

Mrs. Reagan, your place in the war against drugs is legendary. Every American knows of your "Just Say No" campaign and how it helped change the attitudes of so many young Americans. Incidentally, Mrs. Reagan, I wish you had started that campaign in the Sixties before I went to Oxford. If I had taken your advice, I sure would have saved myself a lot of grief. You have continued to work hard as a citizen and member of the CASA board of directors to help our children develop the will and skill to say no. Our nation and our parents and children are indeed indebted to you and on their behalf, I congratulate you.

As for Joe Califano and all of you who work at CASA, let me just say this: I am proud to stand with you as you confront the causes and effects of all substance abuse and addiction in our nation. You are providing wise and informed counsel to me and many other leaders in Washington and across the nation. I value your help. I applaud your leadership. And I rely on your advice and assistance as I work with other Americans to keep all drugs out of the hands of our children.

To all of you this evening, congratulations on a great Fifth Anniversary celebration for a great cause.

Re: Presidential Scheduling Request

Elena,

You asked that I prepare a decision memo regarding the request for the President to speak to the National Association of Private Industry Councils (NAPIC) annual conference. The memo is attached.

I recommend that we put this through the scheduling process and push for the President to speak to this group. As you'll note from the accompanying scheduling request, this speaking engagement would offer the President the opportunity to tap into the support of a large group of business people who could be, or are already, allies on welfare reform, job training and school to work. The President could use this speaking engagement to reiterate his welfare to work challenge to the business community.

From: Bruce Reed
Assistant to the President

Request: Speech to the National Association of Private Industry Councils' (NAPIC) annual conference.

Date/Time: Tuesday, March 4, 1997 in the morning. If necessary, they would arrange a speaking opportunity on Sunday, March 2 or Monday, March 3.

Place: The Renaissance Hotel
Washington, D.C.

Duration: 1 hour

Purpose

At the request of Clinton friend, supporter and NAPIC board member Hays T. Sullivan, NAPIC would like the President to speak to approximately 1,400 business volunteers who serve on PICs and state job training coordinating councils. They are a key business constituency in advancing at least three of the President's goals: 1) job opportunities for welfare recipients, 2) the expansion of the school to work initiative, and 3) job training reforms including the GI bill.

Background

NAPIC represents the interests of local public-private partnership groups charged under JTPA with overseeing education, job training, and employment programs for low-income youth and adults as well as dislocated workers. Founded in 1979, NAPIC today counts among its members almost 600 Private Industry Councils (PICs) and workforce development boards nationwide in addition to the majority of state Job Training Coordinating Councils which are appointed by Governors and play a key advisory role in the development of state job training policies and programs.

NAPIC is guided by a 32-member board composed primarily of business leaders of small and large companies. Examples of companies on the board include Hertz, AT&T, Citibank, United Airlines, and Heinz USA.

Mr. Clinton

While I know that it is somewhat early for you to commit to a meeting in March, I hope you will give this request well deserved consideration. Please contact Robert Knight, NAPIC President, at 202-289-2950, or me for further information.

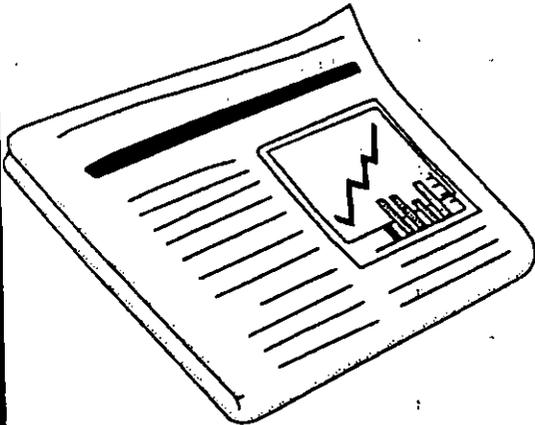

The first five days of the duck season have been great. I can bring more fat mallards to The White House, if you wish.

O.D. and Bernice Williams are going to bring our friend Hilary Jones to Washington for the inaugural. Sam Kitadai and I will push his wheel chair wherever he needs to go. Hilary is looking forward to this trip, which may be his last.

Ms. Lynn Hogan
Domestic Policy Council
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Ms. Hogan:

Thank you for responding to the National Association of Private Industry Council's (NAPIC) invitation to the President to speak at our Annual Forum, which will take place March 2-4, 1997 at the Renaissance Washington, D.C. Hotel. As you requested, I am faxing additional information about NAPIC, our membership, and the 1997 conference. I will send you a variety of printed materials about the association and Private Industry Councils (PICs) later today.

As you and other staff consider this invitation, please note the following points, which are developed in more detail in the attached material:

1. The conference begins on Sunday, March 2, and concludes Tuesday morning, March 4. We can be flexible within these parameters in scheduling the President's appearance.
2. Our audience of approximately 1,400 will be made up primarily of business volunteers who serve on PICs and state job training coordinating councils. They are a key business constituency in advancing at least three goals which the President has addressed in recent months: (1) job opportunities for welfare recipients, (2) the expansion of school-to-work initiatives, and (3) job training reforms including the President's proposal for a "G.I. Bill" for America's workers.
3. The NAPIC Forum is the largest annual meeting dedicated to job training issues such as public-private collaboration, dislocated worker assistance, welfare reform, and education improvement. The President would have a large audience of highly knowledgeable and supportive people at our conference.

Thank you for your consideration of this request. If we can answer any additional questions, please contact me at (202) 289-2950.

Sincerely,

Robert Knight
President

The National Association of Private Industry Councils

About NAPIC. NAPIC represents the interests of local public-private partnership groups charged, under the federal Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA), with planning and overseeing education, job training, and employment programs for low-income youth and adults as well as dislocated workers. Founded in 1979, NAPIC today counts among its members almost 600 Private Industry Councils (PICs) and workforce development boards nationwide in addition to the majority of State Job Training Coordinating Councils (SJTCCs), which are appointed by governors and play a key advisory role in the development of state job training policies and programs. While we provide support to the directors of our members organizations, the volunteer business leaders who serve on their boards are our primary customers. We are the only national organization that represents these interests.

About Our Board. NAPIC is guided by a 32-member board of directors, composed primarily of business leaders who chair local boards. As representatives of large and small businesses, these board members bring a local perspective that helps to drive the national efforts of our organization. Currently, we have representatives on our board from such large companies as AT&T, Citibank, United Airlines, and Heinz USA, as well as many small business owners. These business leaders, along with thousands of others across the country, work in partnership with Private Industry Councils to encourage economic development in their local communities.

About Our Members. Our member organizations include PICs and workforce boards from every state in the nation. Each one is working in its community to create a more highly skilled workplace. NAPIC's members are quite literally leading America in job training programs and policy so that we can remain competitive in the global marketplace. All of our members have similar missions: to contribute to the economic well-being of their states and communities by stimulating the creation of jobs and by assuring that disadvantaged job seekers and dislocated workers are trained for and matched with these jobs. In some cases, our members are the organizations that actually run these programs; in other cases they oversee the economic development strategy in their area. It is the PICs and workforce boards that rose to President Clinton's challenge to develop innovative school-to-work programs in their communities. And, it is our members who will lead the way in welfare-to-work efforts across the country.

About the 1997 NAPIC Forum. The NAPIC Forum is the largest annual business-volunteer focused job training conference in the country. Each year, NAPIC conducts a national conference to inform our members about what is happening in Washington and across the country. Welfare reform and school-to-work are the major themes of this year's conference, which is expected to draw close to 1500 attendees. On Sunday, March 2 and Monday, March 3, the agenda will be packed with a mix of workshops, general meetings, and round table sessions geared toward helping our members continue to nurture business-led public-private partnerships in their states and communities. On Tuesday, March 4, the conference will close with a discussion panel in a "town hall meeting" format. The topic on the closing session is "Job Training: Crafting Creative Solutions to Society's Social Challenges." Following the conference, participants are encouraged to visit their congressional representatives. This annual "Hit the Hill" event is extremely popular and, since it is early in the legislative session, many of our members feel that the timing is excellent to influence their representatives' voting on job training issues and other related matters that might come before Congress.

Why the 1997 Forum is an Excellent Platform for the President. With an estimated attendance of 1,400, NAPIC's conference is the largest annual gathering of business volunteers working to promote workforce and economic development at the local level. Our participants are the community business leaders and job training program directors who have made the summer jobs for youth and school-to-work programs a success and they will be vital to making welfare reform work for America. Many participants will also be visiting their congressional representatives following the conference; this would be an excellent opportunity for the President to get his message to Congress via their constituents. Since our members are business leaders in their communities, many have ties to their representatives on the hill. They rose to the challenge of lobbying their representatives to restore summer youth employment funding after Secretary Reich spoke to them at the 1996 Forum. This year, the audience needs to hear the President's message so they can more readily respond to his agenda in their own communities.

When the President is Invited to Join Us. President Clinton is invited to speak at the Forum at any time his schedule allows from 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, March 2 (the official start of the Forum) through 11:00 a.m. on Tuesday, March 4 (the close of the Forum). However, there are several times during the conference that I would like to suggest. I have put those that I think would be ideal in bold.

- Sunday, March 2
 - 2:30 - 3:30 p.m.: Opening General Session
 - 6:00 - 7:00 p.m.: Welcoming Reception
 - 7:00 - 9:00 p.m.: Banquet
- Monday, March 3
 - 12:15 - 2:00 p.m.: Luncheon (this is the slot during which Secretary Reich spoke at last year's Forum; the President would precede or follow a short awards ceremony recognizing exemplary public-private business partnerships)
 - 4:00 - 5:00 p.m.: Annual Membership Meeting
 - 6:00 - 7:30 p.m.: Reception
- Tuesday, March 4
 - 9:00 - 11:00 a.m.: Town Hall Meeting

Additional Information. If you have any questions or require further information, contact Robert Knight, President, or Sallie Glickman, Director of Membership Services, at (202) 289-2950.

President Bill Clinton
The White House
Washington, DC 20500

Dear President Clinton:

It was great to see you, Hillary, and Chelsea, in Cape Girardeau at the beginning of the victory bus tour. It was a wonderful experience for my mother, daughter and granddaughters and me, and of course Scotty and his daughter Rae. You will never know how proud we were, when you had Chris come get us out of the crowd of 40,000 people and move up to the bus for a private visit and pictures.

On behalf of the National Association of Private Industry Councils (NAPIC), I am writing to you to request the honor of your presence to speak at our annual conference, The 1997 NAPIC Forum, which convenes at the Renaissance Hotel in Washington, D.C. on March 2nd and ends on March 4th. The timing of this years conference coincides with your efforts to encourage greater participation by the private sector in employing welfare recipients as an essential promise of the new welfare legislation. Our national network of Chairmen of the Private Industry Councils (PICs) and members like Paul Berry, Charles Mobley, and I, will be a key group to help bring large numbers of employers into these efforts.

If you schedule permits, we would like for you to address our audience of more than 1,500 private sector volunteers and staff at the general session on Tuesday morning, March 4. If this time is not convenient, we could arrange speaking opportunities on Sunday or Monday.

The NAPIC Forum offers a prime opportunity to address business leaders from across the country who are engaged in advancing your goals related to jobs, training and education. Our audience is made up of the private sector chairs and officers of the nations 650 PICs, working in partnership with education, labor, and community groups. PICs will have a major positive impact on the success of job training and job placement efforts promoting school-to-work opportunities and establishing a national network of one-stop career centers.
