TEXT:

I've got a line on a parent of a 4 yr old involved in a preschool program, with a preschool PTA. The good news is that they live in Manassas, VA, which will make transportation, etc. a lot easier.

A couple of questions:

1. I'm pretty sure this is a Caucasian parent (the search for others goes on); how important is diversity at this point in the game, vs. nailing someone down quickly?
2. What exactly are we asking this person to do: when is the panel; how long should their remarks be; who will moderate and will POTUS and FLOTUS both be participating in this session; are they invited/expected to come for the whole conference; etc.

TEXT:

New Language for the second bullet on the exec memo:

II. Establish "Child Care Masters Programs" in the Military Services, in which model military child care centers serve as training centers for civilian child care providers. These programs could demonstrate effective practices for child care centers, family child care homes and school-age facilities throughout the United States. Training in the area of infant and toddler care would be particularly beneficial.

THE WHITE HOUSE AT WORK:
Monday, April 14, 1997

TODAY: PRESIDENT ANNOUNCES AGREEMENT TO CRACK DOWN ON SWEATSHOPS

Today at the White House, the President announces a new Apparel Industry agreement to curb the use of sweatshop labor in the goods we buy:

- Last August, the President brought together apparel and footwear companies, labor, consumer, human rights, and religious groups to discuss ways to curb sweatshops abuses.
- Today, this Apparel Industry Partnership returns to the White House with an industry-led agreement that will significantly reduce the use of sweatshop labor for the long-term. It includes:
 - A Workplace Code of Conduct that companies will voluntarily adopt, and require contractors to adopt -- including a maximum workweek, a requirement that employers pay the minimum or prevailing wage, and a prohibition on child labor.
 - A special apparel industry association to make sure companies live up to the Code, to develop ways to share this information with consumers (such as labeling), and to expand participation to more companies.

SATURDAY: PRESIDENT ANNOUNCES NEW ACTIONS TO HELP PARENTS

In his weekly Radio Address, the President announces expansion of Family Leave for Federal employees, and discusses this week's Early Childhood Conference:

- New research shows that how a child develops in the first three years of life helps to determine how that child does later in school and in life.
- To help parents and care-givers benefit from this research, the President and the First Lady will bring together researchers, parents and other experts for the White House Conference on Early Childhood Development and Learning: What New Research on the Brain Tells Us About Our Youngest Children, this Thursday, April 17.
- To help parents raise stronger families, the President calls on Congress to expand Family and Medical Leave -- allowing workers time off for parent-teacher conferences, to take a child to the pediatrician, to find child care, or to care for an elderly relative.
- The President asks all federal agencies to make expanded Family and Medical Leave available to their workers immediately.

Per Ann and Melanne's conversation this morning about the seating for the luncheon on Thursday - - we will only seat Mrs. Clinton's table and Mrs. Gore's (if she attends).

The rest of the luncheon seating will be by random drawing with one assigned administration representative at each table to be the table host. We have used this format many times and it works very well.

Please let me know the suggestions for Mrs. Clinton's and Mrs. Gore's tables.

Also please give me a call if you have any questions on this arrangement.

Thanks!

Draft response to Letter from Democrats on National Uniform Standards Legislation

Dear <salutation>,

Thank you for your letter of March 14 on legislation to create national uniform standards for some types of securities litigation. I agree that it is an important topic. The new regime put in place by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act is still unfolding, and I believe that we should study all the available data to see whether there is a need for further action at this time. In that connection, the Securities and Exchange Commission [has just] issued a report that I asked them to prepare for me and for Congress assessing the impact of last year's legislation. Other studies also have been done. My Administration will be reviewing the data to assess the need for further legislation at this time, and we will want to talk with you and work with you as we do that.

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE ON EARLY CHILDHOOD DEVELOPMENT AND LEARNING
POLICY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Today, the President and First Lady are hosting The White House Conference on Early Childhood Development and Learning: What New Research on the Brain Tells Us About Our Youngest Children. The day-long conference highlights new scientific findings on brain development in very young children and points to the importance of children's earliest experiences in helping them get off to a strong and healthy start and reach their full potential.

Clinton Administration Commitment to Young Children. The Clinton Administration has invested heavily in research to help us better understand the importance of the first few years of life to child development and learning. President Clinton has also strengthened efforts to support families with young children by investing in Head Start, the WIC Supplemental Nutrition Program, immunization and other early childhood programs.

At the White House Conference on Early Childhood Development and Learning, the President will make a series of policy announcements that build on the Clinton Administration's commitment to young children:

Improving the Quality of Child Care By Learning from the Military. Child care experts believe that the military child care system is now the best in the country. The President is issuing an executive memorandum directing the Secretary of Defense to use the Department's resources and expertise to improve child care across the nation. The memorandum asks the Department to: (1) "adopt" civilian child care centers in the community to help them improve quality and become accredited; (2) share the materials and models used by the military for worker training, accreditation and evaluation, financing and other ingredients to their success; and (3) work with State and local government job training programs to allow military child care facilities to serve as training locations for welfare recipients moving from welfare to work.

Providing Health Coverage for Children. The President's fiscal year 1998 budget includes a children's health initiative that will extend coverage to up to 5 million uninsured children by the year 2000 by strengthening Medicaid for poor children, building innovative State programs to provide coverage for working families, and continuing health coverage for children of workers who are between jobs. Today, the Association of American Medical Colleges issued a letter of support for the Clinton Administration's children's health proposal. The President is also pleased that Kaiser Permanente is taking steps to give our nation's children the health care they need by committing $100 million over the next five years to provide health insurance to uninsured children in California.

Importance of Early Education. The President recognizes that children must be nurtured and stimulated in the earliest years. That is why he is announcing two initiatives geared toward early learning.

- Expanding Early Head Start. The Department of Health and Human Services is requesting proposals for new Early Head Start programs to expand Early Head Start enrollment by one-third next year. Created by the Clinton Administration in 1994, the Early Head Start program brings Head Start's successful comprehensive services to families with children ages zero to three and to pregnant women.

- Giving Parents and Caregivers Early Childhood Tools. The President's America Reads Challenge is releasing "Ready*Set*Read" Early Childhood Development Activity Kits. The kits offer suggestions to families and caregivers about developmentally appropriate activities for children ages zero to five. They will be distributed to early childhood programs across the country and to callers to a Department of Education hotline.

Police Partnerships for Children Exposed to Violence. [NEED NEW NAME] The Department of Justice is establishing a Police Partnership for Children Exposed to Violence to provide training on early childhood development to community police officers, prosecutors, probation and parole officers, school personnel and mental health providers. This program will better prepare law enforcement officials to respond to young children exposed to violence and can help prevent today's children from turning into tomorrow's criminals. The initiative is built on the successful partnerships between community police officers and mental health providers funded by DOJ in New Haven, Connecticut and three other communities which has changed the way police officers respond to children who are either victims of or witnesses to violence.

DRAFT DRAFT

Enhancing Protection of Children's Health
April 16, 1997

Vice President Gore today announced an executive order to reduce environmental health and safety risks to children. For the first time, federal agencies will be required to assign high priority to addressing these risks, to coordinate their research priorities on children's health, and to ensure that their standards take into account special risks to children. The executive order, which President Clinton signed today, includes the following actions:

- Strengthen Policies to Protect Children. The executive order requires all agencies to make the protection of children a high priority in implementing their statutory responsibilities and fulfilling their overall missions.
- Improve Research and other Initiatives to Protect Children. The proposed executive order would create an interagency task force to establish a coordinated research agenda, to identify research and other initiatives the Administration will take to advance the protection of children's environmental health and safety, and to enlist public input for these efforts.
- Ensure that New Safeguards Consider Special Risks to Children. The executive order would, for the first time, require agencies to analyze and explain the effects of their rules on children. When a major regulation addresses special risks to children, agencies would have to 1) consider disproportionate impacts on children; and 2) explain why their proposed action is preferable to other alternatives. The primary goal of this provision is to link policy decisions to the emerging science regarding children's environmental health and safety. This provision ensures accountability to the public and helps agencies identify their research needs.

BACKGROUND

There is a growing body of evidence, highlighted by a 1993 study by the National Academy of Sciences (NAS) on the exposure of children to pesticides, demonstrating that children are at disproportionate risk from environmental health, and safety risks. The report also concludes that federal regulatory standards often fail to consider these risks fully.

These disproportionate risks stem from several fundamental differences between children and adults, in terms of physiology and activity. Children are still developing, and thus are neurologically and immunologically more susceptible to certain risks. Children eat, drink and breathe more for their weight, exposing them to greater amounts of contamination and pollution for their weight. Children are less able to protect themselves by use of judgment and skill (e.g. navigating traffic, reading and following warnings). Concurrent with their recognition of these factors, scientists have documented an alarming increase in the incidence of conditions in children that may be linked to environmental health and safety risks. These include childhood cancer, leukemia, and asthma, as well as childhood deaths and injuries from accidents.

President Clinton has taken bold action to respond to the challenge posed by this new science. President Clinton's initiatives resulted in explicit protection for children in the Food Quality Protection Act and Safe Drinking Water Act; development of new standards for passive restraints in cars that are more protective of children; and administrative action to protect children from tobacco, lead, and other hazards. Each of these initiatives responds to major threats to children that are of major concerns to American families.

These successes highlight the need for an overall, coordinated approach to children's issues that highlights their priority, coordinates federal research, and ensures that federal standards consistently account for disproportionate risks to children. Today's executive order, developed through extensive consultation with affected agencies, would fill this gap with provisions to address each of these areas.

Since the report doesn't have any news in it, it's hard to justify building it up very much, but Michelle feels that since they did it specifically to help out with the conference (at Sperling's request, I believe), it should at least be available...

I don't have an opinion on this (although the report seems fairly harmless and non-controversial); what do you think?

TALKING POINTS ON THE PRESIDENTS, SUMMIT FOR SERVICE AND THE CLINTON, S
ADMINISTRATION, S COMMITMENT TO CITIZEN SERVICE
Thursday, April 10, 1997

The era of big government may be over, but the era of big challenges for our nation is surely not. Citizen service is the main way we recognize that we are responsible for one another. It is the very American idea that we meet our challenges not through heavy-handed government or as isolated individuals, but as members of a true community, with all of us working together.

-- President William J.

Clinton, April 5, 1997

Service as a path to good citizenship. The President believes that citizen service is not only an effective answer to a community's problems, it is also an important part of every young person's civic education -- their sense of responsibility for themselves, our community, and our nation. Those who serve gain a greater understanding of their communities and neighbors. In many ways, they learn what it truly means to be an American.

Engaging young people in service through AmeriCorps. While today's challenges require something of all of us, it is especially important that young people take leading roles in shaping their own futures, and gain the sense of citizenship that service helps to provide. That is why the President created AmeriCorps. It is also an important reason for the Service Summit's focus on young people.

AmeriCorps: the basic bargain of opportunity and responsibility. The President often says that one of his proudest moments was creating the Corporation for National Service and AmeriCorps. During the last three years, 50,000 young AmeriCorps participants have earned college tuition by serving their communities, with the basic bargain of getting the opportunity to go to college in return for giving something back to their friends and neighbors.

AmeriCorps: reviving the spirit of service in America. The success of AmeriCorps shows that service can help to meet our most pressing social needs, from renewing our cities to protecting our environment, from helping children learn to read to giving them mentors and someone to look up to. That service often leads to more service -- a typical AmeriCorps member trains or recruits a dozen or more community volunteers. AmeriCorps -- and even larger numbers of Senior Service Corps and student volunteers -- have helped revive the spirit of service in America.

The Presidents' Summit: mobilizing citizen power. From April 27-29, in Independence Hall in Philadelphia, President Clinton and President Bush will convene the first Presidents' Summit On Citizen Service, with the support and leadership of the Corporation For National Service and AmeriCorps, the Points Of Light Foundation, Summit Chairman General Colin Powell and Vice Chairs Henry Cisneros and Lynda Robb. The Summit's goal, like that of AmeriCorps, is to mobilize America's citizen power into a united effort to solve our common problems -- especially those that threaten our young people.

Participation from all sectors of society. Leaders from a broad spectrum will come to the Summit with commitments in hand, concrete pledges of support and volunteers to solve their local problems. In preparation for the summit some of our most prominent corporations and service organizations have already stepped forward.

An unprecedented bipartisan Summit. Every living former President will attend or send a representative. We hope this will serve as an example that there are common national values that unite us all. The idea of service is such a value.

A special focus on children, to help prepare them for the 21st Century. No task facing is more crucial than preparing our children for the future. To do that, we must help our children and families overcome the challenges of society today: the burdens of illiteracy and poor health, the lure of tobacco, alcohol and drugs; the need to acquire the tools to succeed in a global economy. That is why the Summit will have a special emphasis on service aimed at America's children.

In preparation for the Summit, the President has already:

- Announced a new National Week of Service (April 13-19), with AmeriCorps and Peace Corps alumni engaging young people in service across the country;
- Called on all states to make service a part of high school and middle school education;

Launched his National Service Scholarships, offering $1,000 scholarships (half provided by the government, half by local civic groups and businesses) to help students who perform outstanding service pay for college;

Highlighted a recent Brandeis study that shows that when you begin to serve at a young age, schoolwork improves and there is a good chance you will keep serving in years to come.

In the coming weeks before the Summit, the President will:

Recognize service and volunteers working for children at the White House Early Childhood Conference on April 17;

Recognize service, volunteers, and public-private partnerships on Net Day, on April 19;

Play major role at the Presidents', Service Summit in Philadelphia, which he will attend from April 27-28. (The Vice President, the First Lady, and Mrs. Gore will also attend.)
