SAN FRANCISCO (BCN)

San Francisco's Chief Assistant City Attorney today called a federal district judge's ruling to uphold the city's controversial domestic partners ordinance, ``a giant leap for human rights.''

Chief Assistant City Attorney Dennis Aftergut said, ``We are very, very pleased,' with United States District Judge Claudia Wilken's decision allowing the city to require contractors doing business with the city to provide the same benefits to domestic partners that are provided to spouses of employees.

Wilken's ruling allows the city to demand benefits for domestic partners in cases where the city is a consumer, but not in cases where the city acts as regulator, like at the airport.

Under the ruling, contractors who enter into contracts to provide goods and services to the city or lease city land must provide the same health, pension, bereavement leave and other benefits to employees with domestic partners that are provided to employees with spouses.

City Attorney Louise Renne said, ``It's like shopping at a grocery store. If you don't like the store's policies, you don't have to shop there.''

Wilken's ruling does prevent the city from forcing contractors to provide health and pension benefits in situations where the city operates in a regulatory role, as at the airport. In these cases the ordinance is pre-empted by the Employment Retirement and Income Security Act of 1974, a federal law.

The ruling also prevents the city from forcing contractors with employees who do not work in San Francisco and whose work does not affect a contract with the city to provide domestic partner benefits.

The ruling allows the city to force a company to provide domestic partner benefits to workers who work outside the city, but whose work affects a city contract.

Aftergut said, ``For example, if the city buys pencils from a factory in Illinois, they must provide domestic partner benefits to the employees who make the pencils.''

He also speculated that the law would force some companies with San Francisco contracts to give domestic benefits to all employees, instead of just the employees working on city contracts.

Cynthia Goldstein of the San Francisco Human Rights Commission estimates that the ruling will affect almost 800,000 people across the United States.

San Francisco Supervisor Tom Ammiano, co-author of the ordinance, said, ``I am as pleased as a pig in a poke with the judge's ruling.''

According to the City Attorney's office some companies already in compliance with the ordinance include Pacific Gas and Electric, Pacific Bell, Bank of America and Xerox.

Ban on Funding For Needle Swap Expected to End

White House decision is imminent, sources say

Louis Freedberg, Chronicle Washington Bureau Saturday, April 11, 1998

Under intense pressure from scientists, public health experts, activists and its own AIDS advisers, the Clinton administration is moving to lift a 10-year-old ban on using federal funds for needle exchange programs, according to key individuals close to the issue.

Although the administration's official stand is that it is still studying the matter, a range of AIDS organizations and key individuals say they have been assured a decision is imminent -- and they are anticipating that the ban will be lifted.

``We have reason to be optimistic that the administration will lift the ban, because it will fit comfortably within their perspective of research, prevention and care of people with AIDS,'' said Representative Nancy Pelosi, D-San Francisco. ``I know they are committed to stop the spread of AIDS, and I am confident they won't let politics stand in the way of that.''

Dr. Scott Hitt, a Los Angeles physician and the chairman of President Clinton's advisory council on AIDS, said he believes an announcement could be made within a week.

About 100 communities -- approximately 30 of them in California -- run needle exchange programs without federal funds. The San Francisco AIDS Foundation runs the largest in the nation, using a combination of city and private funds to hand out 2.2 million needles a year.

State and federal laws require a public health emergency to operate a needle exchange program, forcing the Board of Supervisors to make such a declaration every two weeks since the program started in 1993.

Lifting the ban would allow San Francisco to spend federal AIDS prevention funds on needle exchanges and free up funds for other programs. It would also allow many other communities that do not have a needle exchange program to initiate one.

''There could certainly be a financial benefit to San Francisco, and it would certainly benefit hundreds of other programs around the country that do not have the kind of support that San Francisco has,'' said Regina Aragon, policy director of the San Francisco AIDS Foundation.

According to authoritative estimates, more than half of new cases of HIV infection are related to drug use. Some experts argue that at least 14,000 new cases of HIV could be prevented each year if needle exchange programs were widely in place across the nation.

The congressional ban imposed in 1988 gives the secretary of health and human services the authority to lift the ban if there is sufficient scientific evidence to meet two criteria: needle exchange programs reduce the spread of HIV, and they do not encourage drug use.

As late as this week, a spokesman for Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala said the administration is not yet convinced that needle exchange programs do not promote drug use.

PRESSURE ON SHALALA

As frustration at the administration's inaction mounted, the president's advisory council approved a resolution of ''no confidence'' last month in the administration, marking an embarrassing rebuke to a president who has prided himself on his efforts to fight the AIDS epidemic. Hitt sent a sharply worded letter to Shalala saying that her failure to lift the ban represented an ''abdication'' of her responsibilities.

On Thursday, council members held a conference call to decide whether to approve an even tougher resolution calling on Shalala to resign. But they decided to hold off after administration officials said a decision on the ban was imminent -- although they didn't provide details about what the decision would be.

But those close to the controversy believe the administration will lift the ban in light of the mountain of scientific evidence demonstrating the efficacy of needle exchange programs. Scientific panels and reports commissioned by the National Institutes of Health, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the National Academy of Sciences, as well as the American Medical Association and the American Public Health Association have come to similar conclusions.

Within the administration, the emotional debate among Clinton's top advisers on AIDS and drug policy has led some officials to wryly refer to the conflict as ``czar wars.''

On the one side is Clinton's ``drug czar,' ' retired General Barry McCaffrey, who insists that handing out clean needles to drug users would send the message that the government is condoning drug use. He has been supported in that view by a combination of conservative Republicans and some Democratic representatives of cities with large African American populations.

THE `AIDS CZAR'

On the other side is ``AIDS czar' ' Sandra Thurman, head of Clinton's Office of National AIDS Policy, although she downplayed her differences with McCaffrey.

``We are not warring,' ' said Thurman. ``General McCaffrey is every bit as committed to stopping the AIDS epidemic as I am.''

At the same time, she said ``We have convincing evidence that the criteria (needed to lift the ban) have been met.''

On Wednesday, a major obstacle appeared to be removed when the authors of the only major study suggesting that needle exchange programs lead to increased drug use contended that their research in Montreal and Vancouver had been misinterpreted by McCaffrey and others.

Some AIDS advocates say they are skeptical of administration assurances that it is moving on the issue, saying they have heard the same thing too many times before.

``Until the decision is made, it is premature to say we have a victory here,' ' said San Francisco's Aragon. ``This is not an easy thing for the administration to do, and I would caution my colleagues not to be overly optimistic.''

But others believe the administration is finally ready to act. ``I don't think it will be much longer now,' ' said Daniel Zingale, executive director of AIDS

Action in Washington, D.C. ``They understand where the science comes down on this issue.``

THE WEEK AHEAD

April 13 - April 19

(All items are subject to change.)

Monday (4/13): President Clinton and the First Lady will participate in the annual White House Easter Egg Roll on the South Lawn. It is the first event to be cybercast from the South Lawn, and the largest cybercast in history.

Tuesday (4/14): President Clinton will travel to Houston, Texas to participate in a national conversation on race. Hosted by ESPN, the event will focus on the ways in which sports can serve as a model for the President's vision for One America.

Wednesday (4/15): President Clinton will hold a Tax Day message event to highlight new targeted tax cuts (available to Americans filing their 1998 taxes) that will make higher education more accessible than ever before. The President will emphasize how these new cuts build on a record of fiscally responsible cuts, targeted to create opportunity and maintain our values.

Thursday (4/16): President Clinton will attend an arrival ceremony in the morning and will spend the afternoon with President Frei in bilateral meetings. Later in the afternoon, the President will address business and community leaders before attending a State Dinner.

Friday (4/17): President Clinton will deliver a message to a joint session of the Chilean Congress.

Saturday (4/18): President Clinton will attend the first day sessions of the Summit of the Americas. President Clinton will deliver a taped radio address tentatively scheduled for food safety.

Sunday (4/19): President Clinton will attend the second day sessions of the Summit of the Americas.

Well, folks, here we go again. Sen. Kennedy just called to let us know that he has to go to a funeral in Boston this evening, so we have to postpone the tobacco meeting with Conrad has to be postponed. I know that he would still like to do it this week. The VP is out of town on Thursday and Friday, so we'll check the schedule for Tues and Wed. and let you know. -- Kay

I want to remind you of two facts about tobacco black markets that you should pass on to reporters: 1) RJR was found guilty of creating black market trade in Canada. I will circulate a news article that describes what happened. 2) There is already almost a $1.00 tax differential on cigarettes today within the U.S., due to the wide variation in state excise taxes on cigarettes. As of January, state taxes ranged from a low of $0.25 a carton in Virginia to $10.00 a carton in Alaska.

Talking Points
ESPN, Houston, Texas
A NATIONAL CONVERSATION ON RACE

- With ESPN as the host, on April 14, President Clinton will hold his second national dialogue on race in Houston, Texas. The event will be broadcast live on ESPN at 7:00 pm CST/8:00 pm EST.
- This national conversation on race, broadcast on ESPN, provides the President's Initiative on Race with the unique opportunity to engage the broadest possible audience in this important conversation.
- The dialogue will examine issues involving race in the sports arena and explore areas of success, challenges faced, and areas that still need work -- including how sports teams are preparing to meet the changing demographics of their communities in the 21st century.
- The dialogue will use sports as a starting point for examining issues of race that also have broader implications in society. The arena of sports offers us the opportunity to explore an area where personal, team and community commitment are needed to succeed, just as they are needed to build "One America."
- The sports world is reflective of a number of issues we face as a society, both negative and positive. In many cases, sports has been at the forefront of breaking down stereotypes. In some instances, it has also perpetuated them.
- The program will be moderated by Bob Ley (pronounced "Lee"), of ESPN's Sports Center, and will include questions from the audience in attendance at the Wortham Center in downtown Houston. President Clinton will both help lead the discussion and serve as one of the panelists.
- The other panelists will include:
Jim Brown, former Cleveland Brown (NFL) great;
Vince Dooley, athletic director at the University of Georgia;
Dennis Green, head coach of the Minnesota Vikings (NFL);
Keyshawn Johnson, wide receiver for the New York Jets (NFL);
Jackie Joyner-Kersey, track star and five-time Olympic medalist;
Felipe Lopez, shooting guard and small forward for St. John's University;
John Moores, chairman of the board of the San Diego Padres (MLB);
Joe Morgan, Cincinnati Reds (MLB) Hall of Famer and ESPN analyst;
Carmen Policy, president of the San Francisco 49ers (NFL); and John Thompson, Georgetown University men's basketball head coach.
- Among the topics to be addressed are: minority hiring in sports; stereotypes in sports; and the responsibility of athletes to give back to their communities.
- ESPN has distributed 1000 tickets (the capacity of the hall) to a diverse selection of local community groups, schools and local elected officials, including five Members of Congress and the Mayor.
- Our hope is that an honest and constructive dialogue about race on ESPN will encourage dialogues in many communities across the country.

ONE AMERICA IN THE 21ST CENTURY: THE PRESIDENT'S INITIATIVE ON RACE

"Today, I ask the American people to join me in a great national effort to perfect the promise of America for this new time as we seek to build our more perfect union....That is the unfinished work of our time, to lift the burden of race and redeem the promise of America."

-- President Clinton, June 14, 1997

The President's Plan. The President is leading the nation in an effort to become One America in the 21st Century: a place where we respect others' differences and, at the same time, embrace the values that unite us. To achieve this goal, President Clinton has developed the following plan:

- 1) Continue To Develop Policy That Offers Opportunity To All Those Who Work For It. Taking the recommendation of the President's Advisory Board, the primary focus of our policy actions will be to enhance educational and economic opportunity. A number of policy actions have been announced, including creating education empowerment zones, increasing quality teaching in underserved areas and stepping up enforcement to stop discrimination in housing.
- 2) Engage Americans In A Broad And Constructive Dialogue. The President is encouraging communities across the country to engage in constructive dialogues on race. He is calling on them, not only to stand against discrimination, but also to build greater understanding across racial lines, and find resolutions to honest differences. From constructive dialogue, positive actions take root, like the Akron Coming Together Project.
- 3) Highlight Promising Practices That Are Working. Community efforts are crucial to the success of the President's Initiative on Race. In communities throughout the country, people are working to bridge racial divides and to create equal opportunity for all. The Race Initiative staff is identifying and creating a compilation of these efforts, named "promising practices," so that others may participate in them or replicate them in their own communities, schools, businesses and religious organizations. These promising practices have been highlighted on the One America web site, at the President's Akron Town Meeting and Advisory Board Meetings.
- 4) Recruit Leaders. The President is reaching out to leaders in several areas of American life with a special emphasis on recruiting youth, education, religious and business leaders. "One America" leaders are those people who take up the President's call by organizing efforts in their communities or professions. Through their leadership, the President's Initiative on Race will reach communities throughout the nation.
- 5) Focus On The Youth Of America. The initiative has a special focus on youth. As our nation becomes more integrated in this era of global diversity, we need the active engagement of our nation's young people, because they will eventually lead this new America.
- 6) Advisory Board. The President appointed a small, diverse group that will advise and assist him in outreach efforts and consultations with experts. They were chosen based on their outstanding leadership on this issue and their contributions to America's ongoing dialogue about race and reconciliation.
- 7) Deliver A Report from the President. The President will issue a report in which he will: 1) present his vision of One America, including an assessment of the growing diversity of our nation; 2) reflect the work that has occurred during the initiative; and 3) provide recommendations and solutions that enable individuals, communities, businesses, public and private organizations and government at all levels to address difficult issues and build on our best possibilities.

THE PRESIDENT'S INITIATIVE ON RACE: Taking Action To Help Build One America

SUMMARY OF MAJOR EVENTS / ANNOUNCEMENTS.
AS OF MARCH 30, 2010 [AUTO DATE FEATURE]

DEVELOPING POLICY THAT OFFERS OPPORTUNITY TO ALL THOSE WHO WORK FOR IT

Civil Rights

- New Civil Rights Enforcement: On Martin Luther King Jr. Day, January 19, 1998, Vice President Gore addressed the congregation at Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta, Georgia. The Vice President announced the Administration's proposal for the largest single increase in the enforcement of our civil rights laws in nearly two decades. Through new reforms and through heightened commitment to enforcement, the Administration will seek to prevent discrimination before it occurs, and punish those who do discriminate in employment, in education, in housing, in health care, in access for those with disabilities. The Clinton Administration's Fiscal Year 1999 balanced budget contains $602 million for civil rights enforcement agencies and offices -- an increase of $86 million, or more than 16 percent, over last year's funding.

Education

- Getting Good Teachers Into Underserved Areas. In his speech to the NAACP on July 17, 1997, the President announced a $350 million program to attract talented people of all backgrounds to teach at low-income schools across the nation and to dramatically improve the quality of training and preparation given to our future teachers. This new program will help bring nearly 35,000 outstanding new teachers into high-poverty schools in urban and rural areas over the next five years. The President proposed doing this by offering scholarships to those students preparing to become teachers who will teach in targeted communities for at least three years. This proposal responds to the nation's need for a diverse and excellent teaching force.
- Hispanic Education Action Plan. President Clinton's balanced budget plan includes funding for the first-ever national action plan to help Hispanic-American students stay in school -- and succeed in school. This unprecedented, $600 million commitment helps Latino youngsters master the basics of reading and math; it helps them learn English, stay in school, and prepare for college; and, ultimately, it helps them succeed in college. The initiative also helps Hispanic adults learn English, and expands educational opportunities for migrant youth and adults.
- Mentoring America's Youth: On February 4, 1998, President Clinton announced a new initiative to inspire more young people to have high expectations, to stay in school and study hard, and to go to college. The High Hopes initiative is a long-term investment -- starting with $140 million in the FY 99 Budget -- that promotes partnerships between colleges and middle or junior high schools in low-income communities, to help teach students how they should go to college by informing them about college options, academic requirements, costs, and financial aid, and by providing support services -- including tutoring, counseling, and mentoring.
- Creating "Education Opportunity Zones." On December 3, 1997, at President Clinton's first Race Town Meeting, the President announced a program aimed at demonstrating comprehensive, coordinated and effective approaches to expanding opportunities for students in high-poverty school districts. These grants are coupled with a balanced approach that places increased responsibility for results on school administrators, educators and students themselves. High-poverty school districts will be eligible for additional Federal funding, if they (1) adopt tough reform measures -- like those adopted in Chicago -- that make administrators, principals, teachers and students truly accountable for success or failure, and (2) in time, show real improvement in student achievement.

- Teaching America's History: On April 7, 1998 Secretary Babbit and Director Stanton unveiled the National Park Service's Underground Railroad education initiative to highlight and preserve information and locations connected with the Underground Railroad.

Business

- Supporting Minority Business Communities. On February 10, Vice President Gore unveiled an aggressive plan to increase lending and business services to the African American business community nationwide. Through this plan, SBA is committed to more than doubling the amount of capital and credit the community receives. The Administrator has set a goal of providing over 9,300 loans African-American small businesses for an estimated total of $1.86 billion over a 3-year period. The agency will work with partners in the effort, including the National Urban League, the Minority Business Legal Defense and Education Fund, the National Black Chamber of Commerce, the National Council of Negro Women, the Organization for a New Equality and the Phelps-Stokes Fund.

Urban Agenda

- Tapping The Potential Of America's Urban And Rural Communities. On January 30, 1998, President Clinton announced another part of his community empowerment agenda. The President's budget includes $400 million for a new Community Empowerment Fund (CEF) to help bring the spark of private enterprise to America's distressed urban and rural communities. The CEF will greatly enhance the ability of local communities to invest in businesses, helping to create jobs and providing strong incentives for the standardization of economic development lending, a crucial first step in creating an effective secondary market for economic development loans. According to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the $400 million for the CEF is expected to leverage an estimated $2 billion in private-sector loans and will support an estimated 280,000 jobs when projects are completed.
- Acting To Prevent Housing Discrimination. At a meeting with his Advisory Board on September 30, 1997, President Clinton announced a plan to ensure better enforcement of existing laws preventing housing discrimination. Under the plan, HUD Secretary Andrew Cuomo will double the number of civil rights enforcement actions by the year 2000 to respond to the increase in reported cases of serious fair-housing violations. Secretary Cuomo also committed $15 million to 67 fair-housing centers around the country to assist in combating housing discrimination this year. Also, Secretary Cuomo now focuses on one race-based housing discrimination case each week and conducts a community forum that focuses around each case.

Crime

- Fighting Hate Crimes. On November 10, 1997, the President and Attorney General Janet Reno hosted the first-ever White House Conference on Hate Crimes, which featured many experts and law enforcement officers from around the country. The President announced significant law enforcement and prevention initiatives to get tough on hate crimes.
- Fighting Crime In America's Cities. On January 30, 1998, at the U.S. Conference of Mayors' Winter Meeting, the President outlined his agenda to help lead our cities into the 21st Century and announced new measures to help communities keep up the fight against crime and drugs. Specifically, the President announced that his FY 1999 budget will include: (1) an initiative to hire as many as a thousand new community prosecutors; (2) an initiative to crack down on illegal gun traffickers; and (3) over $17 billion to fund the most comprehensive National Drug Strategy ever.

Health

- Eliminating Ethnic Health Disparities. On February 21, 1998, President Clinton announced a new initiative that sets a national goal of eliminating by the year 2010, longstanding disparities in health status that affect racial and ethnic minority groups. The President announced that the Federal government will, for the first time, set high national health goals for all Americans, ending a practice of separate, lower goals for racial and ethnic minorities. To help reach these ambitious targets, the President also announced a five-step plan to mobilize the resources and expertise of the Federal government, the private sector, and local communities to eliminate disparities that for too long have been treated as intractable.

ENGAGING AMERICANS IN A BROAD AND CONSTRUCTIVE DIALOGUE

- Presidential Town Meetings. On April 14, 1998, the President will hold his second national conversation on Race in Houston, Texas. On December 3, 1997, President Clinton led the first Race Town Meeting in Akron, Ohio to open up a national dialogue on race relations. In conjunction with the President's Akron town meeting, there were more than ninety watch sites held throughout the nation by members of the Advisory Board, the President's Cabinet, and senior Administration officials. On Capitol Hill, Congresswoman Eleanor Holmes Norton (D-DC) and Congressman Tom Davis (R-VA) sponsored a mini-town-hall for the D.C. area.
- Advisory Board. The President's Race Initiative Advisory Board is actively involved in public outreach efforts to engage Americans across the nation in this historic effort. To date, the Advisory Board has held public meetings in 5 states and the District of Columbia on issues ranging from education to employment. Its members have also individually attended dozens of meetings with a wide variety of communities and constituencies.
- April 1998: A Month of Dialogue. The month of April 1998 has been designated by the President's Initiative on Race as a "Month of Dialogue." A special effort is underway to involve young Americans in these conversations. From April 6-9, colleges and universities were engaged in a "Campus Week of Dialogue" organizing hundreds of race-related events across the nation.
- Conversations That Bring Us Together. The Administration has launched a program that enlists Administration appointees, Advisory Board Members, Cabinet Members, and Race Initiative staff to host conversations in towns and cities throughout the nation. To date, thousands of people have participated in these conversations in dozens of cities across the nation.
- Super Bowl XXXII PSA: In a unique partnership, the White House and the National Football League teamed up to create a public service announcement for President Clinton's Initiative on Race. The PSA aired prior to kick-off to an estimated audience of 140 million people. The spot highlighted the example of players from different racial and ethnic backgrounds coming together for a common goal, and how that is an example for all Americans. President Clinton urged all Americans to remember that we are on the same team, and that through working together, we can build One America.
- Presidential Meeting With Conservative Writers and Academics. When President Clinton launched his Race Initiative, he called for a national dialogue that includes voices from a wide array of views. On December 19, President Clinton brought together a group of conservative thinkers -- including Ward Connerly, Abigail and Stephan Thernstrom, Linda Chavez and Elaine Chao -- to continue the national dialogue and listen to their opinions on race relations in America.
- Informing The Nation. For the first time in history, the President's Economic Report to Congress included an entire chapter devoted to reviewing trends in racial and ethnic economic inequality.

HIGHLIGHTING PROMISING PRACTICES THAT ARE WORKING TO BUILD ONE AMERICA

- Highlighting Promising Practices. One of the critical elements of the Race Initiative is that local communities are the source of some of the best ideas and successful programs. The Race Initiative is compiling and assessing information on "promising practices," which are examples of communities and organizations that have ideas and programs that are working to help bring people together as One America. To date, 110 such promising practices have been identified, and the list continues to grow.

- Making Martin Luther King, Jr.'s Birthday A "Day On" Instead of A "Day Off." On January 19, in honor of Martin Luther King Day, President Clinton helped paint classrooms at Cardozo High School in Washington, D.C., Vice President Gore addressed the congregation at Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta, Georgia and the First Lady read to children in Washington, D.C. At the same time, 12 Cabinet Secretaries and agency heads, members of the President's Initiative on Race Advisory Board, and numerous other White House and Administration staff members joined Americans across the country to celebrate the Martin Luther King holiday by serving or participating in community events highlighting the importance of service. In 1994, President Clinton signed into law the King Holiday and Service Act making the holiday a day of service that brings people together, promotes racial cooperation and helps to solve problems through citizen action. This year the Corporation for National Service provided $225,000 in grants to 73 sites across the nation to help spur service projects on MLK Day.
- First Lady Highlights Boston "Team Harmony" Promising Practice. To highlight successful community efforts, Mrs. Clinton visited Boston, Massachusetts on December 9, 1997 to highlight "Team Harmony," a program that brings together youth of different backgrounds. More than 8000 Boston youth participated in Mrs. Clinton's visit.

RECRUITING LEADERS TO HELP BUILD ONE AMERICA

- Calling On Wall Street To Invest In Untapped Potential Of Our Diversity. On January 15, 1998, President Clinton joined Reverend Jesse L. Jackson at the "Wall Street Project" Conference at the World Trade Center in New York City. The President told business executives that Wall Street must "draw on the talent and diversity of all our people in communities long bypassed by capital but full of potential." Treasury Secretary Robert E. Rubin, Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, and Securities and Exchange Commission Chairman Arthur Levitt Jr. also participated in the event.
- Creating Historic Partnerships. On February 19, 1998, Vice President Gore and SBA Administrator Alvarez announced an unprecedented agreement with the "Big Three" U.S. automakers that will increase subcontracting awards to minority businesses by nearly $3 billion over the next 3 years -- a 50 percent increase over current levels. The agreement among SBA, General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. is an important public-private partnership that will improve opportunities for minority-owned small businesses in a major industry. It marks the first time an industrial group of this size and economic importance has engaged in a partnership with SBA.
- Mobilizing Business Leaders. On April 2, 1998, Vice President Gore announced a business roundtable series during an appearance on Black Entertainment Television. This series will be chaired by the Vice president and will consist of four meetings with business leaders to discuss issues involving minorities and business.
- Holding Corporate Forums Across the Country. Hundreds of corporate leaders have participated in corporate forums held by the Initiative in conjunction with members of the President's Cabinet. These forums have taken place across the country -- from Florida to Arizona.
- Partnering With Universities. Nearly a quarter of America's colleges and universities have agreed to partner with the Race Initiative to encourage every college and university to conduct special programs focusing on race and other dimensions of diversity in American society. The combined membership of ACE and AACU represents over 2,100 colleges and universities across the nation.

- Reaching Out To Religious Leaders. Reverend Suzan Johnson Cook of the Advisory Board is leading the Race Initiative's efforts to organize the national faith community so that they too can play an integral part in the effort.

FOCUSING ON THE YOUTH OF AMERICA

- Public Service Announcement Released. On December 2, 1997, the President's Initiative on Race released a public service announcement developed in conjunction with the Leadership Conference on Education Fund and the Ad Council. The PSA challenges youth to become more active in eradicating racism and prejudice, and asks young people to let President Clinton know what they are doing to improve race relations in America.
- Call To Action To Young Leaders. On November 28, 1997, the President sent a letter to 25,000 high school senior class presidents, college and university class presidents, and other young leaders from national and local organizations. In this letter, President Clinton issued a call to action by asking these young people to each commit to participating in at least one project aimed at moving our country closer together. Hundreds of youth leaders from across the country have responded to the President's call. Many of these youth activities will be highlighted as promising practices on the One America Website at <http://www.whitehouse.gov/initiatives/oneamerica>.
- Vice President Briefing With Youth Media. On December 1, 1997, the Vice President hosted a briefing at the White House for youth-oriented and specialty media, such as Vibe Magazine, MTV and Univision. At the briefing, the Vice President spoke about the special emphasis the Race Initiative is placing on youth and activities underway to reach out to America's youth. The Vice President called on the media representatives to find ways to use their creative energies to reach young people on the subject of race.
