TEXT:

Would it be ok if I confirm on the record that the WH is interested in the ongoing investigation of RJR for smuggling cigarettes into Canada? As you may recall, I spoke to John O'Brien with the Syracuse NY paper and I had him send me copies of his stories detailing the investigation of RJR for complicity in the smuggling of hundreds of millions of dollars of cigarettes into Canada through upstate NY. His stories help make the case that smuggling on the scale that the public is concerned about cannot happen without a company's help.

O'Brien is now writing a story about how the companies are using the smuggling issue to try and defeat tobacco legislation. I spoke to him on background. He would like to write that the WH is interested in the RJR investigation because it helps refute the industry's charges. Elena and O'Brien have been trading calls for a couple of weeks. Today is his absolute deadline. Thanks.

TEXT:

Julie, OMB, and I are opposing INS and the State Department actions that are endangering our efforts to sign up as many children for Medicaid as possible and to restore food stamps and other benefits to legal immigrants. A formerly obscure feature of immigration law requires the INS or State to bar people from the U.S. who are likely to be a "public charge." Because of crackdowns by INS/State since welfare reform passed, word has spread in immigrant communities that signing up yourself or your children for Medicaid or other benefits puts you at risk with the INS -- and while these fears are exaggerated, they are not crazy. For example, legal immigrants with green cards who leave the country for more than 6 months are not permitted to re-enter the country if they are currently on Medicaid.

The INS wants to issue guidance that current receipt on SSI, TANF, Medicaid, or sometimes food stamps automatically makes you a public charge -- even though you're legitimately eligible for benefits -- preventing you from adjusting your immigration status or leaving the U.S. for more than 6 months. (They say this is current policy, but that's quite murky.) The advocates are starting to jump on this issue. We have enlisted Rob Weiner of WH counsel and James Castello at DOJ to help us figure out whether the law will allow us to rescue just Medicaid or whether we can go even further to say the INS shouldn't consider receipt of benefits in determining public charge, but simply look at income, assets, etc. The further we go, the more we will enrage Lamar Smith. The INS is fearful of provoking him, and feels that some of the options we're considering fly in the face of the common sense meaning of the term "public charge." The State Department appears baffled that we are concerned about this issue and dug-in to their position.

Just wanted to make sure you're aware and on board. Chris, Bruce Bullen of Massachusetts has written you on this issue.

Subject: Senior Staff Coverage for Memorial Day

I will be collecting information on Senior Staff office coverage for the upcoming federal holiday: Memorial Day, May 25. The Chief of Staff has requested a complete list of senior staff (Assistants to the President and Deputy Assistants to the President only) who will be working the holiday, as well as the names of those senior staff on call and how they can be reached.

Please submit your names to me as soon as possible. We will be submitting this information to the Chief of Staff on Friday afternoon.

Also, please remind any staff members who plan to take time off for the holiday, that they are required to take annual leave for those days that are not the federal holiday.

Remember to provide the WHCA Signal Switchboard with information on how the senior staff who will be out of town may be reached.

Thank you.

Elena,

FYI. According to the EEOC, Republicans in the House continue to assert that support for the proposed increase in the EEOC budget is contingent upon the EEOC's agreement not to fund the use of employment testers. They were told by Fawell's staff that for Gingrich this is still a "line in the sand." To date, EEOC has not gotten more specific information about the conditions requested by Gingrich.

Next Thursday at 2:00pm in Room 476, I plan to convene a meeting with WH Leg. Affairs (Martha Foley, Tracey Thornton, and Broderick Johnson) and EEOC legal and legislative staff to develop an effective legislative strategy. Eddie Correria from WH Counsel's office will also participate.

Julie

Bruce/Elena:

As you know, June 14th is the one year anniversary of the Race Initiative. In anticipation of the likely press calls that the WH and PIR press offices will be receiving in the coming weeks, the PIR is trying to pull together an up-to-date accomplishments document. Judy and the PIR press staff are coordinating with Beverly Barnes, Minyon, Ann Lewis and others on this.

To that end, I am starting to pull together a draft policy accomplishments document for your review. I hope to get it to you both by the end of next week. Thanks.

Julie

The final version is: $150 million annually. $50 million of that is guaranteed from the trust fund and guaranteed funding increases by $25 million each year. The reverse commute program will receive $10 million of the guaranteed $50 million. It is unclear whether the reverse commute funding increases over time as well.

Janno, Linda, and I are thrilled! We have come a long way since the idea was first proposed.

I think they really want you there. To be honest, most of the issues they've raised have not struck me as things that have huge, obvious policy implications, but I have not been able to devote much time to this. Becky and Pat Ruggles, along with folks at OMB, and to a lesser extent NEC, have given a lot of thought to the issues. I will go back through my notes and send you a note by Monday with any of the major issues flagged. I think they'd like to have you there if at all possible though I told them it was a tough day for me with our big welfare to work event the next day.

Poverty Measurement Policy Working Group -- May 26

The primary purpose of this meeting is to try and reach consensus around a key set of policy recommendations related to the issues our group has been discussing over the past three months. These are recommendations to the Census about how they might present their alternative poverty measurement calculations. Attached to this agenda is a one-page summary of the NAS recommendations for a new poverty line measure, and a one-page summary of the four policy issues we've discussed at our last four meetings.

AGENDA

I. Key issues to be discussed

A. How should the thresholds be determined in the first year an alternative measure is published? To be specific: should the alternative poverty rate be benchmarked in 1997 to be identical to the 1997 official poverty rate or is there an alternative "benchmark" that makes more sense?

(Note: We appear to have a general consensus within the group from our earlier discussions to support benchmarking the alternative poverty rate to the 1997 official rate.)

B. How should the poverty thresholds be updated over time? Specifically, (1) should they be adjusted on an annual basis by the overall CPI or by a CPI for food shelter & clothing only and revisited every 5-10 years for a more complete recalculation; or (2) Should they be completely recalculated each year as a share of current expenditures on food, clothing, and housing?

(Note: There seemed to be general consensus for the first approach, particularly if a CPI for food, shelter and clothing was used. OMB seemed reasonably confident that they and Census could establish a process to assure that poverty measurement is reviewed on a regular basis.)

C. Should the poverty thresholds be adjusted for geographic variations in the cost of living?

(Note: There seemed to be general consensus that any "base" alternative poverty measurement should not include geographical price variation, although Census may well want to publish an alternative that includes this as part of the NAS recommendations.)

D. How (if at all) should the adjustment for Medical out-of-pocket (MOOP) expenditures occur? Specifically, should the Census follow the NAS recommendations to impute MOOP and subtract it from individual income before calculating individual poverty status?

(Note: There is more disagreement on this issue than on any other. The three deputies present at our last meeting generally agreed that the Census should follow the NAS recommendations for now, but that further work refining these calculations (and considering other alternatives) should go forward. But some of the staff present at the meeting were in less agreement.)

E. Do we have any recommendations to Census about how to present their alternative poverty calculations? Specifically, do we want to recommend they present a primary "base" alternative poverty calculation (for instance: benchmarked to 1997, updated by the CPI for necessities, without geographic price variation, and including MOOP), and then a few alternatives (with and without MOOP, with and without geographic price variation)?

II. Process from here.

NAS Recommendations on How to Measure Poverty

A poverty measure consists of two pieces: (1) A definition of family resources, and (2) A poverty threshold against which resources are compared. If resources are below the threshold, a family is considered poor.

(1) Defining Family Resources

Family resources = Cash income

+ Near money in-kind benefits (food stamps, housing subsidies, school lunch, LIHEAP, etc)

- Taxes

- Child care costs (for families in which there is no nonworking parent, with a cap, and not to exceed the earnings of the parent with lower earnings)

- Work expenses (a flat amount per week of work)

- Child support payments

- Out of pocket medical care expenditures, including health insurance premiums.

(2) Defining a Poverty Threshold

The threshold should be determined for a family of four (two adults and two children) based on a point in the distribution of annual expenditures by such families on food, clothing, and shelter, plus a small multiplier. (This is based on Consumer Expenditure Survey data, probably using a three-year average to guarantee adequate sample size.) The recommended percentage of annual expenditures is between 30 and 35 percent (i.e., 15 to 20 percentage points below the median); recommended multipliers are between 1.15 to 1.25.

Thresholds for other family sizes should be determined based on an equivalence scale calculation. The NAS panel recommends using where A is the number of adults and K the number of kids. P is the scaling for children (if P=1, kids are treated the same as adults); and F is the scaling for family size. The NAS panel recommends P=0.70 and F in a range of 0.65 to 0.75.

$$\text{Scale value} = (A + PK)^F$$

Geographic costs of living are taken into account, based on a regional index of housing costs (which varies by size of metropolitan area and region of country) which is weighted by the share of housing costs in the expenditure bundle.

Over time, new poverty threshold should be updated by recalculating annual expenditures on the most recent three years of data, and reapplying these other calculations using the most recent data available on housing costs.

Policy Issue 1: Determining the Threshold

Agenda

1. How does the NAS propose to determine thresholds?
How does this compare to the current poverty line?
2. Comments on the fundamental indeterminacy of the “right” threshold ...
Implies a range of thresholds are viable.
3. Benchmarking a threshold so poverty numbers in a specific year are unchanged.
  - A. How do this?
  - B. Why do this?
  - C. What are the implications of benchmarking?
    - a. Change history
    - b. Change who is poor, even if the aggregate number is unchanged
4. What are the alternatives to benchmarking?
NAS recommendations
5. What are the criticisms of these different approaches?

*****

Pros of benchmarking:

There may be large political advantages to saying “We want to improve the measure of poverty, but to show you that we’re doing this in a non-political manner, we’ll benchmark so there is no change in the overall aggregate poverty rate in the year we implement this change.” There are still those who will be upset about the changes in the distribution of poverty or in the past history of poverty rates, which will change (you can benchmark one year only.)

Cons of benchmarking

Backing out a threshold so that the current poverty rate is unchanged produces a threshold that is very far down in the percentile distribution of expenditures on food, shelter and clothing -- somewhere around 20-25% rather than the 30-35% range recommended by the NAS.

Pros of using the NAS alternative (which establishes a higher threshold and higher poverty rates)

Utilizes the recommendations of the NAS panel, based on their judgement about the accumulation of evidence.

Maintains threshold levels that are very similar to the current thresholds (it’s not clear how much this matters given the resource definition has changed.)

Cons of using the NAS alternative

Results in a substantially higher poverty rate, which will draw an great deal of criticism. At the same time, it has the same problems as benchmarking, in that it also changes history and it changes the relative poverty share of different groups (although all subgroup poverty rates would go up.)

Policy Issue 2: Updating the Poverty Thresholds Over Time

Agenda

1. How have the poverty thresholds been updated?
CPI adjustments
2. What does the NAS recommend?
Recalculating the threshold
3. What are the implications of these different approaches?
Absolute poverty thresholds (current approach)
Relatively-absolutely poverty thresholds (NAS approach)
Relative poverty thresholds
4. What are the alternatives?
  - A. Adjust with CPI
  - B. Adjust with CPI but embed a commitment to recalculate thresholds on a regular basis.
  - C. Utilize the relatively-absolute (NAS) technique annually
5. What are the criticisms of these different approaches?
*****

Pros of a more relative approach (B or C above):

1. CPI-adjusted thresholds become obsolete over time. As standards of living change, so do social norms.
2. If we don't create the expectation of a regular recalculation/update of the poverty line, we'll end up in 30 years exactly where we are today, using an outmoded statistic.
3. If we calculate the thresholds relative to some level of median expenditures on necessities, it is most consistent if we update in the same way, i.e., with a procedure that changes the thresholds relative to median expenditures on necessities.

Pros of CPI updating (A or B above):

1. Relative changes create a moving target of poverty. In the short run, one is most interested in knowing how many people have purchasing power above a pre-set level. If the level changes with standards of living, it's much harder to interpret the poverty statistics.
2. Standard of living changes (and social norm changes) occur only very slowly. Better to take them into account every-so-often, rather than to embed them annually into the poverty rate.
3. If we update with a CPI for necessities only (food, shelter, & clothing), we might capture most of the relevant changes (since much of the change in expenditures on these items is due to price changes rather than quantity changes) and have an easier time explaining the short run updating procedure.

Policy Issue 3: Adjusting for Geographic Variations in Cost of Living

Agenda

1. How does the Census propose to do this?
2. What are the results of such an adjustment?
3. What are the alternatives?
  - A. Adjust for the official poverty counts, but don't adjust the guidelines
  - B. Publish an adjustment index for researchers who want to use it, but adjust neither the official poverty counts nor the guidelines
  - C. Adjust both the official poverty counts and the guidelines
4. What are the criticisms of these different approaches?

*****

Reasons to adjust for geographic variation:

If the poverty thresholds provide a measure of "income needs" they should reflect cost of living differences across regions. Theoretically, most statisticians/economists agree that such adjustments should be done if the data is available.

Reasons not to adjust for geographic variation:

Adjustments in the thresholds can lead to a "slippery slope", with advocacy groups arguing that such price adjustments should be done in a wide variety of program benefit payments as well. This can also lead to much greater efforts by legislators to intervene in exactly how the "correct" regional price adjustments are done.

Researchers would not be able to duplicate poverty counts based on geographic price variation because the detailed geographic information required to calculate these would violate privacy constraints in some cases.

Tentative consensus among the group:

* If Census decides that they want to publish a poverty count based on thresholds with geographical price variation, we recommend that such an adjustment not be part of the "base" alternative poverty count, but one of the alternatives.

* At some point in the future, should we discuss changing the poverty guidelines used for program purposes, these should not include geographical price variation.

Policy Issue 4: Accounting for Medical Out-of-Pocket (MOOP) Expenditures

Agenda

1. How does the NAS propose to deal with MOOP expenditures?
Why do it this way?
2. How does this affect poverty calculations?
3. What are the alternatives?
  - A. Account for MOOP in the resource count (NAS)
  - B. Account for MOOP in the thresholds
  - C. Ignore issue entirely
4. How does this issue interact with our measures and data concerning the broader question of health and health care coverage?
5. What are the pros and cons of these approaches?

*****

Pros of handling MOOP as recommended by the NAS (subtracting it from income):

* The NAS argues (and some of our group strongly agree) that it is better to remove MOOP from the income side rather than add it into the threshold side.

* This is the approach that Census has investigated and can implement in a timely fashion.

* The alternative of ignoring MOOP entirely (neither taking account of it in the thresholds nor the income side) has real credibility problems, given extensive attention to the problems of lack of insurance and high out-of-pocket medical expenditures.

* If we do this adjustment now, further changes that better take account of MOOP in the future will involve relatively small changes to the poverty numbers. If we don't do it now and want to take account of MOOP in the base alternative in the future, it will involve a major realignment of numbers.

Cons of handling MOOP as recommended by the NAS:

* The data for imputing MOOP is not as recent as we'd like (although this will improve markedly in the next few years.)

* If we ignore MOOP entirely, benchmarking the poverty rate to the 1997 numbers will allow us to set the thresholds at a share of expenditures that is closer to the NAS recommendations.

* Some of our group are strongly convinced that it would be better to include MOOP in the thresholds rather than subtracting it from income, and would like to see this implemented.

FYI: Last month, Slater and co. announced to all agencies that Saturday, June 13 will be a day of volunteering for federal employees. Several parties expressed unhappiness with this: The Corporation thought it was silly to organize something like this outside of preexisting volunteer days like MLK Day; OPM feared it would appear coercive to the unions/employees; and folks here were mad it got announced without our OK and fear that, if it fizzles, we will look bad.

But we are trying to make the best of it. It is now called "volunteer awareness day" and we are stressing that it's to recognize the year-round efforts of federal employees. DOT expects to be able to confirm only a few thousand participants that day, but we hope this approach will take the pressure off the day's numbers. Press will come out of DOT, not here.

The document also suggests a price elasticity of -1.2 for teens, considerably higher than we assume. We should try to use the quote in our defensive talking points (and find out what the author of the memo did for PM).

I want to clarify that what I had in mind was simply to get your views and support for bringing in state and local officials for a briefing on our ISTEA victory and where we stand on our efforts to get a Tobacco bill which is also a huge win for them in it's current form. The idea is to get a two-fer from a single trip by the right elected officials, at the right time, and for the right issues. Your guidance is important to us.
Thanks
