Assisted Suicide Update. Next week we plan on releasing the Justice Department interpretation that concludes that the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) has no legal authority to prohibit physicians from prescribing drugs with the intention of hastening death. As you will recall, Senator Hatch and Congressman Hyde had requested that the DEA/Justice determine if there was any Federal authority to address Oregon's assisted suicide law, which permits physicians to provide medications for the purposes of aiding in an assisted suicide. Consistent with your instructions, we will release this interpretation, but will also make clear that you maintain your longstanding position of opposition to assisted suicide and remain open to workable legislative approaches that address this issue. We expect that Senator Hatch and Congressman Hyde will respond by introducing legislation that provides DEA the explicit authority to press charges against physicians who assist in suicide. As you know, we believe that a DEA approach is ill-advised. We will carefully roll out the announcement of your position on this issue with both Members and interested organizations, such as the Catholic Health Association and the American Medical Association and will keep you advised of legislative developments.

HCFA Letter to Ravenswood Hospital in Chicago. Last week, 15 year old Christopher Sercye died of gunshot wounds just 35 feet from Ravenswood Hospital in Chicago, where friends had brought the young man for help. Hospital workers did not leave their posts and apparently would not even give police officers a stretcher to help the young man. In response, the Health Care Financing Administration sent out a letter to the President of Ravenswood Hospital on Friday stating that the hospital will lose its Medicare funding on June 19, 1998, unless the facility takes steps to ensure that the events that led to the tragic death of Christopher Sercye will not be repeated. You released a statement to highlight the Administration's strong action. In addition, your statement urges all hospitals to follow the recently released guidance by the American Hospital Association that advise hospitals to change any policies that prevent taking appropriate actions in a medical emergency.

Medicare Commission. Next Monday, the Medicare Commission will be holding another meeting to respond to its Members concerns that they have not had enough time to have intensive discussions about the major issues of benefits, costs, eligibility, administration, and financing. Senator Breaux, concerned about the perception of the Commission's irrelevance, has asked Senators Lott and Daschle to open up the meeting with words of encouragement on the charge and the potential of this Commission. The Democrats, including our Commission members, are becoming increasingly nervous that the Commission's staff and Congressman Thomas are focusing much too heavily on highly speculative, numbers-driven policy and much too little time on how best to reform the Medicare program to respond to the delivery challenges it faces in the next century. They therefore can be expected to urge the Commission to dedicate as much time to program design as to program financing. Our members are increasingly seeking answers from us as to how comfortable we are in allowing them to engage in serious discussions about controversial policy reforms on benefits (both in requiring higher cost sharing and more benefits like prescription drug coverage), eligibility age changes, income-related means-testing, and the possibility of putting new revenues on the table. In general, we believe that at this point it would be constructive for the Commission to engage in general discussions on all of these issues with the exception of new revenues. As for revenues, we believe our members should only address this issue until it becomes clear that traditional saving approaches alone will be insufficient to satisfactorily address the program's financing challenges. We are working closely with Gene Sperling and the NEC to assure we have a coordinate message.

Long Term Care. Long term care is an issue that the aging and disability advocates are increasingly raising as a major issue that cannot continue to go unaddressed. The demographic changes in the population make clear that, in the absence of major new breakthroughs in cures and treatments, there will be an extraordinary increase in demand for services targeted to the nation's aging and disability population. Because of cost and other limitations, both the public and private sectors have been slow to develop responses to this challenge. Although comprehensive solutions are politically and financially unrealistic, we believe that we should begin a series of targeted policy options to begin to address this problem. These could include, requiring FEHBP to offer (but not pay for) private long-term care policies, educating Medicare beneficiaries that Medicare does not cover long term care and advising them of other options, developing policy options that provide more flexibility to states to provide home and community-based personal care options for Medicaid elderly and disabled eligibles, and developing possible tax incentive approaches that could potentially increase the purchase of private long-term care policies. We believe that you may want to move in this area relatively soon and capture at least part of an issue that has extraordinary political and policy dimensions.

Tobacco Legislation and the House Minority Caucuses. Next Monday, DPC, OMB, and HHS will meet with representatives of the House Minority Caucuses to discuss the provisions they wish to be inserted into any tobacco legislation. Working out an acceptable agreement with the Members of the Caucuses is critical to ensuring their support for the overall tobacco initiative. We are already hearing that they have grave concerns about the Senate version of the tobacco bill, particularly as it relates to provisions that block grant the prevention and cessation investments. As you know, this community has a long-standing mistrust toward the states and the use of block grants. They are also upset that there are no specific investments for Historically Black and Hispanic Colleges and Universities and Medical Schools. Their current alternative raises some significant constitutional and administrative concerns that we must work through. More specifically, their language has set-aside oriented language that may run afoul of the Adarand Supreme Court decision and their funding allocations would alter the investment agreements we have worked out with Senator McCain, as well as create major administrative burdens for HHS. We anticipate that Monday will be the first in a series of drawn out discussions designed to reach an acceptable compromise.

They assist the large Afro-Brazilian population and address issues such as land reform, inclusion of the Afro-Brazilian minority into government programs and non-governmental activities, and involvement of the business community in racial equality initiatives. They also work with the media and educational television to improve public images of racial minorities. Ms. Pereira noted that the U.S. and Brazil have a good deal in common and looks forward to a meeting later this year with Dr. Franklin to obtain suggestions about how to overcome Brazilian fears about discussing race issues.

FEDERAL AGENCY ACTIVITIES

Department of the Interior

The Net Day Concept. On May 16, students from 26 Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) schools, the Vice President, Secretary Babbitt, Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs, the Director of the Office of Indian Education Programs, and members of Congress signed onto the BIA Internet system, EDNET. This virtual conversation was facilitated at schools where parents, students, tribal leaders, and community members have worked together to wire the schools and provide Internet access to the classroom. Net Day provided the nation's most isolated and underserved schools with the technology they need to prepare their students for the challenges of the 21st century. Jemez Day School, Jemez Pueblo, NM was the feature school and hosted the Vice President.

In the Memorandum of Agreement with the Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation, DOI and the Foundation agreed to work together on development of the American Family Immigration History Center to be housed at Ellis Island. The Mormon Church has agreed to provide a database from ship manifests listing the people who arrived in the Port of New York from 1892 to 1924. That information will be stored in an interactive computer network system at Ellis Island which will provide visitors with unprecedented access to immigration and genealogy information in an educational context.

The NHLA was founded in 1991 and is a non-partisan coalition of all major national organizations, as well as distinguished Hispanic leaders from across the Nation.

Department of Education

MD Civil Rights Complaint. On May 12, DOEd's Office for Civil Rights (OCR) received a complaint alleging that the Montgomery County, MD School District's new school attendance zones increase segregation in the system. OCR staff are evaluating the complaint, which has received press attention.

Educational Excellence for Hispanic Americans. On May 19-21, the White House Initiative on Educational Excellence for Hispanic Americans convened five working groups of the Inter-Departmental Council on Hispanic Education. The groups, focusing on early childhood, K-12, community, undergraduate education, and graduate and professional education, will explore ways of implementing the recommendations of the President's Advisory Commission for increasing educational achievement among Hispanic Americans.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: Bruce Reed
Elena Kagan

RE: DPC Weekly Report

Tobacco -- Senate Update: When the Senate returns from recess, it is scheduled to return to the McCain legislation and resume consideration of an amendment by Sen. Durbin to increase look back penalties and an amendment by Sen. Gramm to devote most of the bill's revenues to a tax cut for married couples with income of less than $50,000 per year (advertised as an elimination of the marriage penalty). The Gramm amendment would provide a significant tax cut to low- and middle- income people, but would require a 78 percent cut in spending for public health, medical research, farmers, and the states. We are still deciding whether to develop and/or support a smaller tax cut proposal. Such a proposal would take the pressure off Democrats to vote for the Gramm amendment and if passed, would enhance the attractiveness of the bill to Republicans; inevitably, however, the proposal would diminish the funds available for spending on health research and public health programs.

Tobacco --Tobacco Farmers: This week the Senate may begin consideration of those provisions of the tobacco bill relating to tobacco farmers. The legislation currently includes a provision drafted by Sen. Lugar that would buy-out all farmers from the quota program within 3 years at a cost of $18 billion, eliminating the government program and creating a free market in tobacco in its place. The legislation also includes Sen. Ford's measure, which the Administration supports, to preserve the program and give farmers the option of being bought out, at a total cost of $28.5 billion spread over 25 years. USDA calculates that the Lugar approach would lead to dramatic increases in the amount of tobacco grown in the U.S., and a reduction in the cost of tobacco for companies. Last week, the Washington Post ran an article that included USDA's calculation that tobacco companies will save $800 million a year or $20 billion over the next 25 years if Lugar becomes law. In addition, OMB estimates that the Lugar provision would necessitate a 69% cut in the research and other public health programs called for in the McCain legislation. Armed with these numbers, public health groups like the Campaign for Tobacco-Free Kids have lobbied the Senate for the Ford measure. Procedurally, the next move is for both Sens. Ford and Lugar to try and strike the other's measure from the bill. Along with USDA, we will continue to work with Sens. Ford, Robb, and Hollings to build support for their farmers provision and simultaneously seek to fashion a compromise that might garner significant Republican votes.

Welfare Reform -- State Reinvestment of TANF Savings: During your meeting with Welfare-to-Work Partnership Board members last week you stressed the importance of states reinvesting their welfare savings in child care, transportation and training. We will work with HHS to analyze state expenditure data for TANF and child care. Unfortunately, this data is not as timely as we would like. In the meantime, there is some encouraging information in the NGA Fiscal Survey of States released on May 27th. The report indicates that States are shifting the spending of their welfare funds from cash to work-related supports. Comparing expenditures in 1996 with planned spending for 1998, the percent of welfare spending on cash assistance dropped 27 percent (roughly comparable with caseload declines), while spending on child care increased by 55 percent and spending on work activities increased 34 percent. Total welfare spending declined by 9 percent, but given caseload reductions, this actually represents increased spending per person.

Education -- Gov. Carper's Testing Program: Prior to your speech to the Delaware State Legislature, Gov. Carper related to you that Delaware's testing program tests students against both state and national standards, by combining test items aligned with state standards with items from NAEP. He reiterated this point in a recent letter following up your trip. We have followed up with Gov. Carper's staff to get more information about the state testing program. While it is true that Delaware does have a "hybrid" testing program, it is more accurate to say that it tests students against national norms, rather than national standards. Approximately 25% of the items on the Delaware test are taken from the SAT 9 (the Stanford Achievement Test), and this is sufficient to tell how an individual student ranks compared to other students nationwide. It does not, however, provide information on student performance relative to national standards, such as those in NAEP. You may recall that the National Academy of Sciences is studying the feasibility of statistically linking state tests with NAEP, so that state tests could in fact test students against national standards. Preliminary indications are that the NAS report, due July 1, will indicate that few state testing programs will meet the technical requirements for this kind of linking.

Education -- GAO report on national testing: Next week the GAO will issue a report, requested by Rep. Goodling, on the relationship between the Education Department and NAGB in developing the tests, and the procedures for awarding contracts for test development. The report affirms that the Education Department has honored the requirements of the law which placed control of test development with NAGB. In addition, GAO stated it had no concerns with regard to contracting procedures. While we do not expect the report will alter Rep. Goodling's position, it does negate one set of arguments he had planned to utilize.

Education -- Adult Education: You recently asked what the Administration had accomplished with respect to Adult Education, literacy training and the GED, and whether we need to take additional steps. The Senate and House Workforce bills, which are expected to be passed by July 1, provide for the reauthorization of Adult Education programs. Your FY 1999 budget requests a $16 million increase in adult education for state grants, which funds local literacy, GED and adult education programs. It also includes a request for funds to develop model English as a second language programs for adults, since 40% of adult education participants are in such programs. The Education Department has also funded a PBS series, "Crossroads Cafe" that is a "Sesame Street" for adults learning English. The program is now shown in 35 states (and 50 countries) and will be expanded shortly. DPC will work with NEC and the Education Department to explore how we can best highlight the efforts we already have underway, and what additional steps would be appropriate.

Automated Records Management System

Health Care -- Assisted Suicide Update: Next week we plan on releasing the Justice Department interpretation that concludes that the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) has no legal authority to prohibit physicians from prescribing drugs with the intention of hastening death. As you will recall, Senator Hatch and Congressman Hyde had requested that the DEA/Justice determine if there was any Federal authority to address Oregon's assisted suicide law, which permits physicians to provide medications for the purposes of aiding in an assisted suicide. Consistent with your instructions, we will release this interpretation, but will also make clear that you maintain your longstanding position of opposition to assisted suicide and remain open to workable legislative approaches that address this issue. We expect that Senator Hatch and Congressman Hyde will respond by introducing legislation that provides DEA the explicit authority to press charges against physicians who assist in suicide. As you know, we believe that a DEA approach is ill-advised. We will carefully roll-out the announcement of your position on this issue with both Members and interested organizations, such as the Catholic Health Association and the American Medical Association and will keep you advised of legislative developments.

Health Care -- HCFA Letter to Ravenswood Hospital in Chicago: Last week, 15 year old Christopher Sercye died of gunshot wounds just 35 feet from Ravenswood Hospital in Chicago, where friends had brought the young man for help. Hospital workers did not leave their posts and apparently would not even give police officers a stretcher to help the young man. In response, the Health Care Financing Administration sent out a letter to the President of Ravenswood Hospital on Friday stating that the hospital will lose its Medicare funding on June 19, 1998, unless the facility takes steps to ensure that the events that led to the tragic death of Christopher Sercye will not be repeated. You released a statement to highlight the Administration's strong action. In addition, your statement urges all hospitals to follow the recently released guidance by the American Hospital Association that advise hospitals to change any policies that prevent taking appropriate actions in a medical emergency.

Health Care -- Medicare Commission: Next Monday, the Medicare Commission will be holding another meeting to respond to its Members concerns that they have not had enough time to have intensive discussions about the major issues of benefits, costs, eligibility, administration, and financing. Senator Breaux, troubled about the perception of the Commission's irrelevance, has asked Sens. Lott and Daschle to open up the meeting with words of encouragement on the charge and the potential of this Commission. The Democrats, including our Commission members, are becoming increasingly nervous that the Commission's staff and Congressman Thomas are focusing much too heavily on highly speculative, numbers-driven policy and much too little time on how best to reform the Medicare program to respond to the delivery challenges it faces in the next century. We expect they will urge the Commission to dedicate as much time to program design as to program financing. Our members are increasingly seeking answers from us as to how comfortable we are in allowing them to engage in serious discussions about controversial policy reforms on benefits (including requiring higher cost sharing and more benefits like prescription drug coverage), eligibility age changes, income-related means-testing, and the possibility of putting new revenues on the table. In general, we believe that it would be constructive for the Commission to engage in general discussions on all of these issues with the exception of new revenues. We believe our members should only address the revenue issue only if it is determined that traditional saving approaches alone will be insufficient to satisfactorily address the program's financing challenges. We are working closely with Gene Sperling and the NEC to assure we have a coordinated message.

Health Care -- Long Term Care: Aging and disability advocates are increasingly pressing us to address the issues surrounding long-term care. The demographic changes in the population make clear that, in the absence of major new breakthroughs in cures and treatments, there will be an extraordinary increase in demand for services targeted to the nation's aging and disability population. Because of cost and other limitations, both the public and private sectors have been slow to develop responses to this challenge. Although comprehensive solutions are politically and financially unrealistic, we believe that we should begin a series of targeted policy options to begin to address this problem. These could include, requiring FEHBP to offer (but not pay for) private long-term care policies, educating Medicare beneficiaries that Medicare does not cover long term care and advising them of other options, developing policy options that provide more flexibility to States to provide home and community-based personal care options for Medicaid elderly and disabled eligibles, and developing possible tax incentive approaches that could potentially increase the purchase of private long-term care policies. We believe that you may want to take steps in this area relatively soon and capture at least part of an issue that has extraordinary political and policy dimensions.

Community Empowerment -- Low-Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC): This week staff from the DPC and the NEC meet with representatives of LISC and the Enterprise Foundation on ways to secure passage of the LIHTC. Legislation that would implement your proposal to expand the credit by $1.6 billion now has 50 cosponsors in the Senate and almost 200 hundred in the House. We asked both organizations for suggestions on how build more support for the legislation. They are planning to get back to us in the next two weeks.

The President could say:

I am committed that this legislation protect tobacco farmers and their communities. Farmers and their communities have done nothing wrong. The measure proposed by Senators Ford and Hollings would preserve the tobacco program and give these communities some economic stability. Keeping a program also means that we will keep controls on the amount of tobacco that is grown in the United States. If we get rid of the program, the price of tobacco will drop, and the companies will make a windfall of at least $800 million a year. So I hope that the Senate will look carefully at this measure, and work for a proposal that protects these farmers and the public health. We need to break the impasse and get a bill that meets both of these important goals.

DRAFT DRAFT DRAFT
May 29, 1998

MEMORANDUM TO JOHN PODESTA

ANN LEWIS
LARRY STEIN
RON KLAIN
KAREN TRAMONTANO

FROM: GENE SPERLING
BRUCE REED
MIKE COHEN
BOB SHIREMAN

SUBJECT: MEETING WITH BOB CHASE AND SANDY FELDMAN

The primary focus of the meeting should be how we work to achieve our common agenda of increasing the Federal investment in education.

- For us, the main struggle is finding hooks for engaging the Congress and getting press attention on these issues.
- From them, we should ask for a report on their current and planned activities with Congress and in the field.

We should also touch on some of the areas where the Congress has attempted to put Democrats on the defensive.

I. The Common Agenda

The NEA and AFT are strong supporters of our efforts on education, especially:

- school modernization
- class size reduction
- increased spending on discretionary programs (we differ on special education, which our budget essentially straight-lined and Republicans plan to increase).

Status: The Republicans this year have made a greater effort to appear to be for something, rather than just opposed to our pro-education efforts. That has made it more difficult, at least so far, to draw the stark distinctions that have helped us to define -- and win -- the debate in prior years. Our efforts to substitute school construction for the Coverdell bill yielded strong votes, but no victory. We have been unsuccessful in getting class size as part of the tobacco deal (though the NIH funding would relieve pressure on appropriations). And the allocation for Labor-HHS-Education appropriations, while basically consistent with the BBA, will not support our investments.

Automated Records Management System
Hex-Dump Conversion

Strategy: Resolution of these issues -- if any -- will occur in the final weeks of the legislative session. So far, however, observers in the press do not see education as a major item of dissent that will need to be worked out this year. Our chances of succeeding are low unless we begin raising the temperature now so that Congress feels intense heat on this issue. We can do that through the bully pulpit, and Democrats in Congress can help by offering amendments and using the legislative process in other ways to force the issues. In short, we must take every opportunity to emphasize our education priorities. Some of the opportunities include:

- Signing of Highway Bill: building on the President's prior statements about the need to invest in the education infrastructure, challenge Congress to pass the school modernization bill (which provides bonds worth just 10% of the highway investment).
- House budget resolution: Criticize cuts to education that would be required (treat Kasich's original assumptions as real); insist on investment, not just maintaining current levels.
- Veto of Coverdell bill: push modern schools and smaller class size as the logical, constructive approach.
- Tax bill: Insist on school construction as a part of any bill.
- Labor/HHS appropriations mark-ups: Pounce on them immediately for failing to invest.
- Putting Class Size Reduction back in play: With tobacco funding no longer viable, we need to put the class size proposal back onto the agenda by proposing an offset. OMB is searching for any offsets we could possibly use, though this will be difficult.
- Finding additional cosponsors for School Modernization: Now that there is a Republican cosponsor of the School Modernization bill (Rep. Leach, thanks to NEA's efforts), escalate our cosponsor-gathering activities.

We need help from the Democrats in Congress. In order for the above to succeed, we need Democrats to join with us in these efforts. If Democrats cut their own deals -- e.g. on appropriations -- then it will be much more difficult to make the case for the overall investments.

II. Defensive Efforts

Republicans will continue to press us on a number of issues, including:

- Coverdell (education savings accounts for private K-12 education). At some point -- but not to be discussed Monday -- we may need to think about versions that we might ultimately find acceptable, in exchange for other of our priorities.
- Block Grants. As the Republican proposals get more sophisticated, some Dems may find that they need an alternative to support. While the NEA & AFT are not thrilled with our "Ed-Flex" proposal, it does offer that alternative.
- Special Education. In appropriations and other battles, Republicans have essentially started a "special education first" mantra, creating the impression that they are not against education investments, they are just for different investments.

Automated Records Management System
Hex-Dump Conversion

- Bilingual Education. Riggs bill, to be marked-up at full committee first or second week of June, will radically change bilingual education. Administration is opposed to the bill; POTUS will want to have an alternative on the table during the debate.

III. Other important issues to mention

- National Tests: we simply need to reiterate that this remains high priority for POTUS, and we will fight to get continued funding for it in appropriations.
- Reading Initiative: We will push for Congress to pass a bill before July 1, so we can use $210 million advance appropriation before it is turned over to special education. While we are not enthused about the TAG provision (sort of an after-school tutoring voucher), it is drafted in a way that we can accept, and we hope NEA/AFT won't let it stand in the way of our getting a bill.
- Higher Education Act/Master Teachers: POTUS will fight hard to prevent any damage to the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards. (In HEA, the High Hopes for College initiative and teacher training proposals are also of interest to NEA/AFT).

IV. Other issues that may come up:

- Charter School Legislation: Bipartisan legislation expanding current charter school program has passed the House and will be marked up in Senate in near future; neither AFT nor NEA support this legislation. No need to highlight this in the meeting.
- Workforce Development Act/G.I. Bill for America's Workers: A conference agreement may be on the President's desk by the end of June. We will fight any final language that would undermine school-to-work or vocational education.

Richard: The Coverdell bill (S. 1959) is sitting in the Labor Committee and is unlikely to be acted upon.

The Senate is more likely to act on the Solomon bill (H.R. 3717) which passed the House on April 29 and is now on the Senate Legislative Calendar. There is also a rumor that Coverdell might offer his bill as an amendment to the tobacco bill now pending in the Senate.

TEXT:

The topic of this Saturday's radio address is supposed to be homeownership and housing (including welfare-to-work housing vouchers). This is our only chance to talk about these two important agendas, and we need this radio address. In addition, we plan to use the radio address to endorse the Coates IDA bill as well as an agreement between the National Association of Realtors (NAR). Over the past several months, HUD and NAR have been working through the details of the initiative and they are about to be finalized. Under the terms of the final agreement, NAR will develop a cultural diversity certification program which will reflect the letter and spirit of the President's One America initiative and will be subject to approval by HUD. Upon approval, HUD would permit NAR to award the use of the One America mark and logo by real estate professional who are free of fair housing violations and successfully complete the one-day training program.

Canadian Experience Proves that Significant Price Increase will Reduce Youth Smoking

The Canadian Experience Illustrates that Youth Smoking is Responsive to Large Price Increases

- The experience of Canada during the 1980s illustrates the profound impact that large price increases can have on youth smoking.
- In 1981, youth smoking was pervasive in Canada -- 43.5% of Canadian teens were current smokers (defined as having smoked in the last thirty days). The youth smoking rate during this period was about 50% higher than in the U.S.
- Over the next decade, Canada significantly increased the price of cigarettes. From 1981 to 1989, the price increased by about 90%.
- These price increases were associated with enormous declines in teen smoking. From 1981 to 1989, Canadian teen smoking rates fell from 43.5% to 22.6%, a decline of almost 50%.
- The large declines in Canadian youth smoking rates are largely the result of price increases, as opposed to other initiatives designed to curb teen smoking. From 1981 to 1989, Canada did not adopt changes to public policy in order to reduce teen smoking other than price increases.

The Tobacco Industry Agrees that Youths Are Price Responsive

- Recently released internal documents from Philip Morris demonstrate that the tobacco industry has known for years that youths are very responsive to price. One document, dated September 17, 1981, states "it is clear that price has a pronounced effect on the smoking prevalence of teenagers". Another Philip Morris strategic planning document from the early 1990s states: "There is no question that increasing taxes will cause a decrease in smoking. This point is best illustrated by the present situation in Canada." In another document dated September 3, 1987, a Philip Morris analysis of price increases concluded: "price increases . . . prevented 600,000 teenagers from starting to smoke . . . We don't need to have that happen again."

The Scientific Consensus is Clear: Youths Are Price Responsive

- There is now a substantial scientific consensus that youth smoking is responsive to price -- for every 10% rise in price, youth smoking declines by 6-7%.

TEXT:

The following are a few kernals of ideas for Race Initiative policy actions. Please let me know if any of them seem interesting. Thanks.

1. Eliminate tracking in the Lower Grades

As a companion to our push for national standards and high expectations for all children, we could advocate for the elimination of tracking or ability grouping for students in grades K-3. In many school systems, young minority children are "tracked" into classrooms that offer less challenging work and where less is expected of them, based on ability tests or teacher evaluations. An end to this practice could both effectively increase real educational opportunity for young minority children (by not limiting their educational opportunities too soon) and make an important statement about high expectations, high standards for all children, and equal educational opportunity. Part of this effort could be to direct the Department of Education to develop guidelines for schools that agree to "un-track."

2. Civil Rights Enforcement -- Paired Testing

An executive order or directive asking the DOJ to coordinate paired testing enforcement efforts across agencies (including Labor, Education, HUD). This builds on the part of the President's civil rights enforcement package for FY99 that calls for Bill Lee to coordinate civil rights enforcement across agencies generally. This executive order or directive could ask both that they develop shared protocols in specific enforcement areas and that they coordinate their efforts generally, through shared information, etc.

3. Racial Profiling

The Justice Department has initiated a review of the extent of the federal government's use of racial profiling in law enforcement that will likely result in some kind of policy recommendation. As you know, profiling not only opens the door to race-based harassment (by legitimizing the notion that minority status is a signal that someone is suspicious) but also undermines the minority communities' confidence that they are being treated equally to Whites, thus dampening our efforts to improve relations between police departments and minority communities to further effective law enforcement. We could ask the Department to expedite their review and recommendation for completion prior to September 30th (the end of the Initiative).

TEXT:

As you requested, I asked ATF to look into the Washington Times article (May 22) stating that smuggling of Chinese cigarettes was a growing problem in the State of Washington. ATF contacted John Hough, Washington's senior assistant attorney general, who was quoted in the article, as well as Washington State's Department of Revenue. They both confirmed that the article refers to what was only a one-time event, where they seized 6000 cartons of illegally imported Chinese cigarettes in November that were headed for an Indian reservation known for selling smuggled domestic cigarettes. (As I am sure you are aware, the per pack state tax on cigarettes is 81.5 cents so smuggling of domestic cigarettes through Indian reservations is a problem in Washington). The Washington State officials confirmed that there is no evidence that smuggling of Chinese cigarettes is in any way an ongoing problem, and John Hough was very surprised that he was quoted in a manner to imply that there is a ongoing "influx" of smuggled Chinese cigarettes into the state, or that this is a "sign of things to come".

THE CLINTON/GORE ADMINISTRATION: MAKING GOVERNMENT WORK BETTER FOR ALL AMERICANS

June 1, 1998

"Today, with the President's Memorandum, plain language becomes the rule, rather than the exception, in the federal government. Clarity helps advance understanding and understanding can help advance trust. Trust -- especially trust in the promise of our self-government -- is essential if we are to come together to solve the problems we face as a nation."

Vice President Al Gore

Today, Vice President Al Gore announces the release of an Executive Memorandum making public government documents clearer, more straightforward, and easier to understand.

MAKING FEDERAL DOCUMENTS EASIER TO UNDERSTAND. Today, the President signs an Executive Memorandum directing all federal government agencies to: (1) write any new document that tells the public how to get a benefit or comply with a requirement in plain language by October 1, 1998; (2) write all new government regulations in plain language by January 1, 1999; and, (3) revise all existing letters and notices into plain language by 2002.

"PLAIN LANGUAGE" HELPS ALL AMERICANS INTERACT BETTER WITH GOVERNMENT. Many agencies have made substantial progress in rewriting their regulations into plain language, including:

- The Small Business Administration which has redrafted its loan applications. These new forms assisted victims of recent storms in California get their applications processed quickly;
- The Veterans Benefit Administration ("VBA") which has simplified the language used in its forms. These new forms caused one customer to remark, upon receiving a letter from the VBA, "this is how the government should write to its customers. I feel like I'm talking to a real person."

REINVENTING GOVERNMENT EFFORTS MAKE A DIFFERENCE. Today's announcement is another example of the Administration's commitment to a better, more efficient federal government. When they took office, the President and Vice President made a commitment to streamlining government and making it work better for all Americans. In March, 1993, the National Partnership for Reinventing Government ("NPR") was formed to address this matter. In the five years since its creation, the NPR has succeeded in:

- Reducing the size of the federal government by over 300,000 employees, giving us the smallest federal government since the early 1960s, and, as a percentage of the work force, since before the New Deal.
- Abolishing over 200 outdated federal government programs.
- Eliminating more than 16,000 pages of red tape, and saving the American people over $137 billion.

A CONTINUED COMMITMENT TO BETTER GOVERNMENT. The Administration will continue its efforts to make government work better. These changes are more than just cosmetic, the NPR has made the federal government less expensive, less expansive and more efficient. Under the leadership of the President and Vice President, the nature of our national bureaucracy has moved away from complacency and entitlement and toward initiative and innovation.
