TEXT:

Fred DuVal has more or less agreed to have a conference call late this afternoon with Dem Govs staff (Miller, Romer, Dean, Chiles, Carper). Romer and Dean are pressing him very hard on the question of how they should respond to Carper's letter, since Carper is apparently pushing very hard for his 3-point position to become the Dem Govs position. The theory is that this conference call would reinforce our position, and slow down Carper. I'm a bit mystified as to why Dem Govs should be confused about our position, but maybe they really are.

If you don't think this conference call today is a good idea, you probably need to call Fred. He is out Thursday and Friday, which is why he's rushing. He thinks next week is too late since Carper is pushing these guys. It seems like you would have to be on such a call; we could do it without him Thurs. or Friday if we wanted.

Carper's 3 points are:

1. Recreate the CWEP system of paying the minimum wage (person can't work more hours than the state benefit divided by the minimum wage).
2. A confusing item that either weakens the work requirements by saying more things count, or just says that states can combine activities to hit the work requirements.
3. Says workfare people are not employees. This is how he gets around FICA, but obviously there's a lot more that this does.

Please substitute the following attachment for Wednesday's daily item.
The only change in the document is in sentence #3.

Before it read: "This combination appears to be a winning one: the program increased employment from 38 to 52 percent and reduced poverty from 60 to 44 percent over an 18 month period."

Now it reads: "This combination appears to be a winning one: after 18 months, 52 percent of MFIP participants were employed, compared to 38 percent in the control group. At the same time, 44 percent of MFIP families had income below the poverty level, compared with 60 percent in the control group."

Attached below are the revised q&as describing the report.

Subject: Daily Report Item for Wednesday

Stories are very likely to appear in Thursday's papers of a new MDRC study of Minnesota's welfare to work program. Attached above is a daily item I think should go in the Wednesday report -- the findings are interesting, and MDRC studies always make news, particularly on slow news days.

Daily Report
Cynthia Rice/Elizabeth Stock
8/27/97

On Thursday, the Manpower Demonstration Research Corporation (MDRC) will release a study showing Minnesota's Family Investment Program (MFIP) has both increased employment and reduced poverty among long-term welfare recipients. This welfare reform program was one of the first to provide both financial incentives to work and mandatory participation in employment-related activities. This combination appears to be a winning one: the program increased employment from 38 to 52 percent and reduced poverty from 60 to 44 percent over an 18 month period. However, because participants were able to earn more and still receive benefits, MFIP increased the duration of welfare receipt for some participants, and increased welfare spending by 8 percent.

Past studies have shown that mandatory employment-focused programs have often increased employment but not reduced poverty in the short run, while programs that let families keep more of their welfare benefits while working made families financially better off but did not produce big increases in employment. MFIP, by combining work requirements with incentives, has succeeded on both fronts. Minnesota, which started MFIP as a 7 county demonstration project under the Bush Administration and expanded it to 8 counties under a 1996 Clinton Administration waiver, has now adopted a modified version of the program statewide under TANF.

Questions and Answers
Manpower Demonstration Research Corporation Study
on Minnesota Family Investment Program (MFIP)

Question: What are the principal attributes of the MFIP program?

Answer: There are three principal attributes of the MFIP program. First, MFIP provides recipients with enhanced financial incentives to encourage work. Recipients continue to receive some MFIP benefits until their income is 40 percent above the poverty line. Second, MFIP requires long-term recipients to participate in mandatory employment and training services. This requirement is for single parents who have received welfare for 24 of the past 36 months and who are working fewer than 30 hours per week. Third, MFIP consolidates AFDC, Food Stamps, and the State's Family General Assistance into one cash grant.

Question: What are the principal findings of the MDRC study on MFIP?

Answer: MFIP has produced some of the largest employment effects for long-term recipients that MDRC has seen in a welfare-to-work program, and has helped a proportion of families leave poverty. At the end of the 18-month follow-up period, MFIP increased employment by almost 40 percent: 52 percent of these recipients were working compared with 38 percent of their counterparts in the traditional AFDC program. MFIP also reduced poverty by more than 25 percent: 44 percent of the MFIP families had income below the poverty line, compared with 60 percent of the families in AFDC.

Question: How long has MFIP been operational and which agency is responsible for running it?

Answer: The Minnesota Department of Human Services has been operating the MFIP since April 1994, under waivers granted under the Bush Administration and expanded under the Clinton Administration.

Question: Where does MFIP operate?

Answer: MFIP has been operating in the three urban counties of Hennepin (which includes Minneapolis), Anoka, and Dakota, and the four rural counties of Mille Lacs, Morrison, Sherburne, and Todd. In May 1996, HHS approved a waiver to expand MFIP to Ramsey County. The Ramsey county program was not part of the MDRC study, however.

Question: Is Minnesota planning on building upon the success of MFIP?

Answer: Yes, Minnesota has adopted a modified version of MFIP as its statewide policy under TANF. Minnesota will reduce the income level at which working recipients become ineligible for welfare from 40 percent to 20 percent above the poverty line. This change should reduce the short-run costs of implementing the MFIP model statewide and reduce the duration of welfare receipt for some participants.

Question: Was Minnesota able to achieve these results without an increase in welfare spending?

Answer: No. MFIP increased welfare spending over the 18-month period by 8 percent, and increased the duration of welfare receipt for some participants, because working recipients were able to earn more and still be eligible for MFIP benefits. The Minnesota Department of Human Services is willing to make this investment because it believes that it will help families achieve permanent self-sufficiency.

Question: Will MDRC continue to study the MFIP program?

Answer: Yes. MDRC will produce a final MFIP evaluation report in 1999. This final report will examine the program's longer-term impacts, including child outcomes as well as financial measures.

HHS just called to tell me that MDRC had accidentally calculated their poverty numbers incorrectly. The new numbers are as follows:

After 18 months, 71.4 percent of MFIP families had incomes below the '94 poverty line, compared to 85.2 percent of control group families.

I have made these changes in the attached documents below.

Subject: REVISED Daily Report Item for Wednesday

Please substitute the following attachment for Wednesday's daily item. The only change in the document is in sentence #3.

Before it read: "This combination appears to be a winning one: the program increased employment from 38 to 52 percent and reduced poverty from 60 to 44 percent over an 18 month period."

Now it reads: "This combination appears to be a winning one: after 18 months, 52 percent of MFIP participants were employed, compared to 38 percent in the control group. At the same time, 44 percent of MFIP families had income below the poverty level, compared with 60 percent in the control group."

Attached below are the revised q&as describing the report.

Subject: Daily Report Item for Wednesday

Stories are very likely to appear in Thursday's papers of a new MDRC study of Minnesota's welfare to work program. Attached above is a daily item I think should go in the Wednesday report -- the findings are interesting, and MDRC studies always make news, particularly on slow news days. Elizabeth Stock drafted this using the MDRC press release, executive summary, and a memo Olivia and Pat Ruggles sent to Secretary Shalala. Elizabeth's in the office Wednesday if you have questions (6-7871); Diana, I've also left copies of the materials for you. Attached below are some q&as describing the report.

On Thursday, the Manpower Demonstration Research Corporation (MDRC) will release a study showing Minnesota's Family Investment Program (MFIP) has both increased employment and reduced poverty among long-term welfare recipients. This welfare reform program was one of the first to provide both financial incentives to work and mandatory participation in employment-related activities. This combination appears to be a winning one: after 18 months, 52 percent of MFIP participants were employed, compared to 38 percent in the control group. At the same time, 44 percent of MFIP families had income below the poverty level, compared with 60 percent in the control group. However, because participants were able to earn more and still receive benefits, MFIP increased the duration of welfare receipt for some participants, and increased welfare spending by 8 percent.

Past studies have shown that mandatory employment-focused programs have often increased employment but not reduced poverty in the short run, while programs that let families keep more of their welfare benefits while working made families financially better off but did not produce big increases in employment. MFIP, by combining work requirements with incentives, has succeeded on both fronts. Minnesota, which started MFIP as a 7 county demonstration project under the Bush Administration and expanded it to 8 counties under a 1996 Clinton Administration waiver, has now adopted a modified version of the program statewide under TANF.

Questions and Answers
Manpower Demonstration Research Corporation Study
on Minnesota Family Investment Program (MFIP)

Question: What are the principal attributes of the MFIP program?

Answer: There are three principal attributes of the MFIP program. First, MFIP provides recipients with enhanced financial incentives to encourage work. Recipients continue to receive some MFIP benefits until their income is 40 percent above the poverty line. Second, MFIP requires long-term recipients to participate in mandatory employment and training services. This requirement is for single parents who have received welfare for 24 of the past 36 months and who are working fewer than 30 hours per week. Third, MFIP consolidates AFDC, Food Stamps, and the State's Family General Assistance into one cash grant.

Question: What are the principal findings of the MDRC study on MFIP?

Answer: MFIP has produced some of the largest employment effects for long-term recipients that MDRC has seen in a welfare-to-work program, and has helped a proportion of families leave poverty. At the end of the 18-month follow-up period, MFIP increased employment by almost 40 percent: 52 percent of these recipients were working compared with 38 percent of their counterparts in the traditional AFDC program. MFIP also reduced poverty by more than 25 percent: 44 percent of the MFIP families had income below the poverty line, compared with 60 percent of the families in AFDC.

Question: How long has MFIP been operational and which agency is responsible for running it?

Answer: The Minnesota Department of Human Services has been operating the MFIP since April 1994, under waivers granted under the Bush Administration and expanded under the Clinton Administration.

Question: Where does MFIP operate?

Answer: MFIP has been operating in the three urban counties of Hennepin (which includes Minneapolis), Anoka, and Dakota, and the four rural counties of Mille Lacs, Morrison, Sherburne, and Todd. In May 1996, HHS approved a waiver to expand MFIP to Ramsey County. The Ramsey county program was not part of the MDRC study, however.

Question: Is Minnesota planning on building upon the success of MFIP?

Answer: Yes, Minnesota has adopted a modified version of MFIP as its statewide policy under TANF. Minnesota will reduce the income level at which working recipients become ineligible for welfare from 40 percent to 20 percent above the poverty line. This change should reduce the short-run costs of implementing the MFIP model statewide and reduce the duration of welfare receipt for some participants.

Question: Was Minnesota able to achieve these results without an increase in welfare spending?

Answer: No. MFIP increased welfare spending over the 18-month period by 8 percent, and increased the duration of welfare receipt for some participants, because working recipients were able to earn more and still be eligible for MFIP benefits. The Minnesota Department of Human Services is willing to make this investment because it believes that it will help families achieve permanent self-sufficiency.

Question: Will MDRC continue to study the MFIP program?

Answer: Yes. MDRC will produce a final MFIP evaluation report in 1999. This final report will examine the program's longer-term impacts, including child outcomes as well as financial measures.

attached is a 1-pager on the minimum wage and a short document on how families have benefited wage-wise under the Clinton Administration.

INCREASING THE MINIMUM WAGE: A RAISE FOR AMERICAN FAMILIES
September 1, 1997

ON SEPTEMBER 1, 1997, THE FEDERAL MINIMUM WAGE WILL INCREASE FROM $4.75 TO $5.15. President Clinton's fight for a 90-cents per hour minimum wage boost -- which included a first step-up from $4.25 to $4.75, effective October 1, 1996, in addition to this second step, effective Labor Day 1997 -- increases earnings for full-time minimum wage workers by $1,800. If the President had not acted, the minimum wage would have fallen to its lowest real level in 40 years.

ABOUT 10 MILLION WORKERS, ALMOST 10% OF ALL WORKERS, WILL BENEFIT FROM THE INCREASE IN THE MINIMUM WAGE -- including those who were helped by the first step-up.

- 71% of these workers are adults (age 20 and over), according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.
- Almost half of these workers (46%) work full-time, and another 33% work between 20 and 34 hours per week.
- Two out of every five (38%) of these workers are the sole wage earners in their households; the average minimum wage worker brings home half of the family's earnings.
- Over one million families with children are dependent on the earnings of a minimum wage worker (i.e., a minimum wage worker accounts for 50% or more of the family's total weekly earnings).
- Nearly three-fifths (58%) of the workers directly affected by the minimum wage increase are women. 16%, almost 1.6 million, are African American, and over 17% are of Hispanic origin.

THE MINIMUM WAGE INCREASE HAS HELPED TO LIFT EARNINGS AT THE BOTTOM OF THE INCOME DISTRIBUTION. According to data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, real earnings at the 10th decile of the earnings distribution rose almost 1 percent between the first quarter of 1996 and the first quarter of 1997 -- faster than the growth in real median earnings. Many experts attribute the relative increase to the effects of the higher minimum wage.

DESPITE THE CLAIMS OF SOME CRITICS, THE EVIDENCE SUGGESTS THAT THE INCREASE IN THE MINIMUM WAGE HAS NOT HAD AN ADVERSE EFFECT ON EMPLOYMENT. Indeed, the unemployment rate stands at 4.8%, as low as it's been in 24 years.

- According to a recent report by the Economic Policy Institute, the evidence shows that the minimum wage hike has increased wages for the lowest paid Americans without sacrificing jobs.
- Nearly two dozen empirical studies have found that moderate increases in the minimum wage do not have a significant effect on employment.
- In 1995, 101 economists, including three Nobel prize-winners, signed a letter concluding that the minimum wage increase's "overall effects on the labor market, affected workers, and the economy would be positive." The evidence suggests they were right.

THE ECONOMY UNDER PRESIDENT CLINTON: MORE MONEY IN WORKING FAMILIES' POCKETS

In the 15 years before President Clinton took office, America's families worked harder just to stay afloat. Since 1992, however, these families have seen their economic well-being improve as the economy strengthened and President Clinton ensured that government worked better for America's working families. Across the income spectrum, families are better off -- they have more money in their pockets and they are more confident about their future than any other time in the last two decades.

- Minimum Wage Hike Increases Pay By $1,800 for Full-Time Worker. On September 1, 1997, the minimum wage increases to $5.15 per hour for nearly 10 million workers. For someone working at the previous minimum wage, $4.25 per hour, that's a raise of 90-cents per hour -- or $1,800 per year for a full-time worker.
- Family Incomes Up $1,600. According to the Bureau of the Census, real median family income in 1995 was $1,600 higher than it was two years earlier. [Source: Bureau of the Census]
- Expanded EITC Puts Money Back in Working Families' Pockets. The President fought for a substantial expansion in the Earned Income Tax Credit in 1993 -- the average family with two kids who received the EITC got a tax cut of $1,026. [Source: Department of Treasury]
- $500 Child Tax Credit For 27 Million Families with 45 Million Children Under Age 17. The balanced budget legislation that the President negotiated with the Congress includes a $500 per-child tax credit for children under age 17. Because of the President's efforts, 13 million children from families with incomes below $30,000 will receive the tax credit -- up to 7.5 million more than under the House plans. [Source: Department of the Treasury]
- Education Tax Breaks. The balanced budget deal also includes a $1,500 Hope Scholarship to make the first two years of college universally available, and a 20-percent tuition tax credit for college juniors, seniors, graduate students, and working Americans pursuing lifelong learning. For a student attending the average 4-year college, these education tax incentives will provide tax savings of up to $5,000. [Source: Department of the Treasury]
- Nearly 13 Million New Jobs in 4½ Years. Since President Clinton took office, 12.9 million new jobs have been created -- over two-thirds in job categories paying above the median wage. The unemployment rate has fallen from 7.5 percent in 1992 to 4.8 percent today -- that's as low as it's been in 24 years. [Source: BLS]
- Lower Mortgage Rates Saving Families Thousands. According to the New York Times and Money, lower interest rates as a result of the President's 1993 Economic Plan saved 10 million families who refinanced their home mortgage between $1,000 and $2,000 per year.
- Capital Gains Tax Cut for Homeowners. The Balanced Budget Act eliminates capital gains taxes for up to $500,000 in gains from selling a home. This exclusion replaces the one-time $125,000 exclusion previously available for taxpayers over age 55. [Source: Department of the Treasury]
- Closing Costs Reduced By $1,200 For First-Time Homebuyers. President Clinton has reduced closing costs for FHA loans three times -- these reductions, along with savings passed on to homebuyers from increased efficiency in the FHA, will save homebuyers $1,200 in closing costs on the average FHA mortgage of $85,000. Family #1 -- The Smith Family
SINGLE MOTHER WITH TWO KIDS
EARNING THE MINIMUM WAGE

WHY THE SMITH FAMILY IS BETTER OFF

| | | |
|-----|-----------------------------------|---------|
| I. | MINIMUM WAGE INCREASE | $1,800 |
| II. | EXPANDED EARNED INCOME TAX CREDIT | $1,294 |

AMOUNT BETTER OFF: $3,094

Explanation: Since Ms. Smith works full-time, year-round at the minimum wage, the increased minimum wage the President fought for will raise her earnings by $1,800 per year (90 cents per hour times 2,000 hours per year). If President Clinton had not expanded the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC), the Smith family would have received an EITC of $2,106. Under the new law, the family will receive an EITC of $3,400 -- that's an increase of $1,294 per year.

Family #2 -- The Jones Family
FAMILY EARNING $65,000 WITH ONE 13-YEAR OLD SON
AND ONE 18-YEAR OLD DAUGHTER IN COLLEGE

WHY THE JONES FAMILY IS BETTER OFF

| | | |
|------|--------------------------------------|---------|
| I. | INCREASE IN REAL PRE-TAX INCOME | $1,527 |
| II. | REFINANCED THEIR HOME AT LOWER RATES | $1,668 |
| III. | CHILD TAX CREDIT | $500 |
| IV. | EDUCATION TAX CREDIT | $1,500 |

AMOUNT BETTER OFF: $5,195

Explanation: According to the Bureau of the Census, since 1993, the real income of families similar to the Jones family increased from $63,597 to $65,124 in 1995, adjusted for inflation. Experts -- including Alan Greenspan -- agree that President Clinton's 1993 Economic Plan helped lower interest rates. As the New York Times wrote: "In 1993 alone, six million homeowners, most of them solidly middle class, refinanced their mortgages because of the lower rates. Most of these families locked in rates two percentage points or so lower than their previous mortgages. On a standard 30-year fixed mortgage of $100,000, for example, the monthly savings was $139 a month, or $1,668 a year." [August 3, 1996] The balanced budget deal also helps the Jones family by providing a $500 child tax credit for their 13-year old son and $1,500 HOPE scholarship tax credit for their 18-year old daughter in college.

Family #3 -- The Johnson Family
FAMILY WITH 16-YEAR OLD AND 8-YEAR OLD SONS AND 12-YEAR OLD DAUGHTER AND INCOME OF $42,000

WHY THE JOHNSON FAMILY IS BETTER OFF

| | | |
|-----|---------------------------------|---------|
| I. | INCREASE IN REAL PRE-TAX INCOME | $1,088 |
| II. | CHILD TAX CREDIT | $1,500 |

AMOUNT BETTER OFF: $2,588

Explanation: According to the Bureau of the Census, since 1993, the real income of families similar to the Johnson family increased from $40,914 to $42,002 in 1995, adjusted for inflation. The balanced budget deal also helps the Jones family by providing a $500 child tax credit for each of their three children -- a tax benefit of $1,500 per year.

Family #4 -- The Green Family
FAMILY WITH TYPICAL INCOME, $100,000 MORTGAGE, AND A DAUGHTER WHO IS A JUNIOR IN COLLEGE

WHY THE GREEN FAMILY IS BETTER OFF

| | | |
|------|--------------------------------------|---------|
| I. | INCREASE IN REAL PRE-TAX INCOME | $1,631 |
| II. | REFINANCED THEIR HOME AT LOWER RATES | $1,668 |
| III. | EDUCATION TAX CREDIT | $1,000 |

AMOUNT BETTER OFF: $4,299

Explanation: According to the Bureau of the Census, since 1993, the real income of families similar to the Green family increased from $38,980 to $40,611 in 1995, adjusted for inflation. Experts -- including Alan Greenspan -- agree that President Clinton's 1993 Economic Plan helped lower interest rates. As the New York Times wrote: "In 1993 alone, six million homeowners, most of them solidly middle class, refinanced their mortgages because of the lower rates. Most of these families locked in rates two percentage points or so lower than their previous mortgages. On a standard 30-year fixed mortgage of $100,000, for example, the monthly savings was $139 a month, or $1,668 a year." [August 3, 1996] The balanced budget deal also helps the Green family by providing a 20 percent tax credit on the first $5,000 of their daughter's college tuition.

Family #5 -- The Brown Family
YOUNG COUPLE EARNING $40,600 WITH INFANT CHILD,
AND ARE FIRST-TIME HOMEBUYERS

WHY THE BROWN FAMILY IS BETTER OFF

| | | |
|---------------------------|--|----------------|
| I. | INCREASE IN REAL PRE-TAX INCOME | $1,631 |
| II. | CHILD TAX CREDIT | $500 |
| III. | REDUCED FHA CLOSING COSTS FOR FIRST-TIME HOMEBUYERS | $1,200 |
| AMOUNT BETTER OFF: | | $3,331 |

Explanation: According to the Bureau of the Census, since 1993, the real income of families similar to the Brown family increased from $38,980 to $40,611 in 1995, adjusted for inflation. The balanced budget deal also helps the Brown family by providing a $500 child tax credit for their infant child. On an average FHA mortgage of $85,000, President Clinton has reduced closing costs three times. The three reductions -- along with savings passed on to homebuyers because of increased efficiency in the FHA -- save homebuyers $1,200.
