Rewarding Excellence in Teaching to Strengthen Our Schools

To have the best schools, we must have the best teachers . . . We should reward and recognize our best teachers.

-- President Bill Clinton
State of the Union Address, 1997

The President Meets with 200 Master Teachers: President Clinton met today with the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards and close to 200 Board-certified master teachers from all over the country. These teachers met rigorous standards and passed rigorous tests developed by the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards, an independent, nonfederal board comprised of teachers, businesspeople, and other leaders in education. The Board was established in 1987, and has been chaired over the past X years by Gov. James Hunt of North Carolina. To date, the board has established assessments in seven fields of specialization, including Early Childhood, middle school English, and high school mathematics and science, that cover half the teaching population, and awarded the first national board certification to 5 teachers in 1995. Today there are nearly 600 board-certified teachers, and teachers in all 50 states are able to participate in the National Board certification process.

The President's Plan for Supporting Board Certified Teachers: In his State of the Union Address, President Clinton proposed a plan to help 100,000 teachers seek board certification as Master Teachers. In his balanced budget plan, President Clinton requested $105 million over 5 years to help the Board complete assessments in 25 academic areas covering the fields of 90% of the nation's teachers and to help defray the cost to teachers of taking part in the rigorous Board certification process. The President's proposal is designed to help reach the target -- set by the National Commission on Teaching and America's Future, chaired by Governor Hunt -- of certifying over 100,000 teachers within the next ten years. Today, President Clinton called on Congress to include funding for this program in the FY 1998 appropriations bill (status check)

The President's Challenge: Every School District and Teachers Organization in the Country Should Have a Plan for Rewarding Excellence and for Removing Incompetence Today, President Clinton will challenge every state to provide significant and meaningful rewards for master teachers. He will note that eight states and many local school districts are supplementing the salaries for National Board Certified Teachers, and that thirteen states are now paying the certification fee. And he will announce that, just this week, the New York City schools received a grant to boost the number of classrooms with Board-Certified teachers, and the Los Angeles schools have agreed to pay their National Board Certified teachers an additional 15%.

The President's Plan for Recruiting and Preparing Teachers for High Poverty Communities. The President will also call on Congress to approve his $350 million initiative, announced at the NAACP convention this summer, to attract talented people of all backgrounds into teaching at low-income schools across the nation, and to dramatically improve the quality of training and preparation given to our future teachers. This new initiative will help bring nearly 35,000 outstanding new teachers into high-poverty schools in urban and rural areas over the next five years. In addition, it will upgrade the quality of teacher preparation at institutions of higher education that work in partnership with local schools in inner city and poor rural areas. The President's initiative will help recruit and prepare teachers nationwide to help our neediest students succeed in the 21st century.

Comprehensive reforms to improve public education. The President will contrast his broad reform agenda, including high standards, better teaching, helping children to read better, getting more technology into the classroom, and public school choice through expanding charter schools, with the narrow Republican agenda that features vouchers that drain resources from our public schools.

By way of follow up on the AG preferring option 1, what steps do we need to take? One option would be to push DOJ/OMB to come up with a realistic cost estimate and then draft a brief memo for the President before this ball moves further down the public tracks. Alternatively, we could let things go a little further in the vetting with Kennedy. Thanks again for the HUD idea.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM J. CLINTON
REMARKS BEFORE NATIONAL BOARD FOR PROFESSIONAL TEACHING STANDARDS
THE WHITE HOUSE
OCTOBER 24, 1997

Acknowledgments: Sec. Riley, Rebecca Palacios [Puh- LAY-see-ohs], Members of Congress

I want to congratulate Governor Hunt on ten successful years at the helm of this very important organization. Because of you and the work of the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards, more teachers are being challenged to fulfill their greatest potential as teachers and, just as important, being rewarded for their innovation and commitment to our children.

And I know if anyone is up to the task of filling Governor Hunt's shoes, it's Barbara Kelley. She has worked tirelessly to improve education in her home state of Maine and has already served the National Board very well as its vice-chair. Barbara, I have to say, you've drawn quite a crowd for your first day on the job.

Six years ago, I challenged America to envision a bold course for our country in the 21st Century -- to make the American Dream come alive for every person responsible enough to work for it, to keep our country the world's strongest force for peace and freedom and prosperity, to bring our people together across all the lines that divide us, into one America.

Together, we've made great progress -- our economy is growing, crime is down, our social fabric is mending. But we have much more to do. Every one of you here is engaged in the most important task our country faces -- providing all of our children the world-class education they need to make the most of their lives in the next century. The future rests in your hands -- and in the hands of teachers just like you.

As you know, meeting this challenge won't be easy. No quick-fix will fix our schools. No single gimmick will give our children the education they are counting on. Instead, we need patient progress and comprehensive reform. My Administration is fighting to raise academic and teaching standards, to bring more choice and competition into public education, to equip our classrooms with the latest technology, and to empower parents to take active roles in their children's education.

I have called on all Americans to work with me to make sure that every eight-year old can read, every 12-year old can log onto the Internet, every 18-year old can go to college, and all Americans can keep learning throughout a lifetime.

The historic balanced budget I signed last summer brings us closer to these goals, throwing open the doors of the college even wider through education IRAs, expanded Pell Grants, Hope Scholarships and other tax credits. The budget will also go a long way toward completing our mission to connect every classroom and library to the Internet by the year 2000.

But these things will mean little unless our children master the basics. I am committed to setting high national standards of academic excellence and voluntary tests in fourth grade reading and eighth grade math. Through national standards, our parents and teachers can make sure that their children gain the skills they need to thrive in our global economy. And I thank Governor Hunt for being one of the first Governors to support national standards.

And we must work through American Reads to send an army of volunteer reading tutors into our schools to help every child read independently by the end of third grade. I'd like to thank Congress for taking the first step toward making this idea a reality.

Raising the quality of teaching is an essential part of my comprehensive plan. As we all know from experience, a single extraordinary teacher can literally change a child's life, providing him or her with the inspiration and the tools to fulfill his most cherished dreams.

We must reward excellence in teaching and national board certification defines excellence. That is why I have asked Congress for $105 million over the next five years to help 100,000 teachers earn board certification as master teachers. Think of the difference one master teacher -- one of you -- can make in each school across our country. I know that if we can get at least one master teacher in every school, then that one teacher can inspire colleagues, revitalize classrooms, and challenge our children to reach higher than ever.

All across America, states, school districts and businesses are already stepping up to the challenge. Eight states and many local school systems offer board certified teachers higher salaries. Last month, the Los Angeles Unified School District and the United Teachers of Los Angeles agreed to reward board certified teachers with a 15 percent raise. And just a few days ago, the McGraw-Hill company joined forces with the New York City Board of Education, the United Federation of Teachers, and New York University to prepare more teachers for board certification.

These public-private partnerships are crucial to our schools. I call every state, every school board, every business to help our teachers become master teachers. Our students can only reach high standards if our teachers do.

And as the National Board continues to define "what teachers should know and be able to do," I urge you to make the effective use of technology an important part of these standards. Our teachers should be as comfortable with a computer as they are with a chalkboard.

Finally, we must challenge more of our finest young people to consider teaching as a career. I call upon Congress to support my proposal for a $350 million scholarship program modeled on the National Medical Service Corps: The scholarship will pay for a talented young person's education in exchange for a promise to teach children growing up in our most underprivileged communities. And it will strengthen teacher training in those colleges that work directly with inner city and poor rural schools.

So I thank all of you for the important work you do every day on behalf of our children. Every one of you made a decision that you would give yourselves to the next generation, that you would prepare America for tomorrow. Henry Adams once said that "Our teachers affect eternity; they can never tell where their influence stops." But we know where it begins -- with each child whose life is enriched by your talents and dedication.

As the attached document shows, we've made good progress on our issues in the TANF reg negotiations so far. There are about 8-10 issues that still need to be resolved.

But first, we need as soon as possible to decide our position on waivers. Please review the new option described in the attached, which is designed to try to narrow the scope of the provision without rendering it meaningless (not an easy task, we've found).

Is it possible for us to meet this afternoon to discuss the waiver issue specifically? HHS is awaiting our position on this issue. We'd also be happy to discuss any of the other issues.

OMB's plan for the next step in the negotiation is for Sally Katzen to host an OMB-HHS-DPC meeting to try to settle the unresolved issues.

Please review the chart in preparation for a meeting to be scheduled and chaired by Sally Katzen===== ATTACHMENT 1 =====

I. STATUTE

“Waivers in Effect on Date of Enactment of Welfare Reform”: “... if any waiver granted to a state...is in effect as of the date of enactment..., the amendments made by [PRWORA]...shall not apply with respect to the state before the expiration (determined without regard to any extension) of the waiver to the extent such amendments are inconsistent with the waiver.”

“Waivers Approved Subsequently” section says that such a waiver “shall not affect the applicability of section 407 to the state.” (Work requirements)

Legislative History: statutory language was narrowed from ‘if have a waiver, new law does not apply’ to ‘inconsistent’ standard. Final report language added clause re: “program features of state program not specifically covered by the waiver must conform to this part.”

II. HHS PROPOSED REG

Legal Theory:

A provision of TANF is inconsistent with a waiver only if the State must change its waiver policy in order to comply. The definition of a waiver can include applicable provisions of prior law if their inclusion was necessary to achieve the objective of the approved waiver. For example, a state whose waiver program counted community college attendance as work did not need a waiver of AFDC law in order to do this. The reg would permit such a practice to continue, because it would require a change in state policy to do otherwise, and it’s inconsistent with TANF’s definition of work. Legally, the reg defends the decision to consider prior law as part of the waiver on the grounds that doing otherwise would allow very few waiver practices to continue (largely just time limits), rendering that section of the law meaningless.

Policy Effect:

Work Requirements:

Section 407 doesn’t apply to waivers to the extent their features are inconsistent with current law. Examples given are looser definitions of work and requiring fewer hours of work per week to be counted as working. However, states may not claim inconsistencies that affect the denominator of the participation rates -- i.e., limit the universe of people to whom the participation rates are applied. The reg defends this decision by noting that HHS never granted a waiver of a participation rate, nor a waiver that granted new exemptions from work requirements.

Time Limits:

States whose waivers have time limits may use their waiver’s more liberal exemption and extension policies.

- Extensions -- The draft reg says that both the federal and state clocks must start ticking simultaneously but that, once the federal clock expires, the state may grant extensions in accordance with the approved waiver until the waiver expires. The reg also says that a state need not comply with the law’s 20% limit on exemptions if its waiver’s extension policies cause it to exceed 20%.
- Exemptions -- The draft reg also says that months during which a recipient is exempt from time limits because of waiver policy do not count toward the federal five-year limit.

III. OUR PROPOSAL

The Challenge: To define “inconsistent” in a way that narrows the effect of the provision without rendering the entire provision meaningless.

Work Requirements:

- Argue that definitions of work activity were not necessary to achieve objective of approved waiver (objective was to put more people to work)-- thus no grandfathering of more liberal job search and vocational criteria.
- Alternative argument with the same result: Only permit specific items waived from compliance with prior law, rather than allowing states to import “provisions of prior law” into the definition of waiver. In this case, the definition of work in any waiver could not be inconsistent with the law, because in no case was the definition of work activities a "program feature...specifically covered by the waiver". Thus more liberal definitions of job search and vocational education could not be continued under the guise of waivers. [This theory may not, however, allow the policy listed in next bullet below; thus it may result in the provision having no effect on work rates, which HHS argues it must since the statute specifically exempts “waivers granted subsequently” from having any effect on work rates.]
- Allow, as the draft reg now does, for waivers to be considered inconsistent if they specified the number of hours of work to be determined according to individual circumstances, but make explicit that these inconsistent waivers can only be continued in the same geographic areas as originally approved in the waiver and in effect at date of enactment [i.e., if a state had approval to expand a waiver statewide but had not done so yet, it could not].

Time Limits:

- Allow, as the draft reg now does, for exemption and extension policies to be considered inconsistent, but make explicit that these waivers can only be continued in the same geographic areas as originally approved in the waiver and in effect at date of enactment [i.e., if a state had approval to expand a waiver statewide but had not done so yet, it could not].

Changes Applying to Both Work Requirements and Time Limits:

- A state that continues a waiver inconsistent with PRWORA’s time limits or work requirements shall not be eligible for a high performance bonus or a caseload reduction credit.
- A state that continues a waiver inconsistent with PRWORA’s time limits or work requirements shall not be eligible to receive a reasonable cause penalty exception, to enter into a corrective action plan, or receive reduced penalties.
- In order to continue a waiver inconsistent with PRWORA’s time limits or work requirements, the state must notify the Secretary in writing in a letter signed by the governor.
- The regulation shall place the burden of proof that waivers are inconsistent with the law on the state and must collect information necessary for the Secretary to make that determination.

Update on TANF Regulation Negotiations

Proposed Change	Change Made	Partial Change Made	To Be Resolved
DOMESTIC VIOLENCE
1) HHS may grant reasonable cause exemptions from penalties to states that fail to meet the work participation rates due to granting of good cause domestic violence waivers.		X <sup>1</sup>
2) States will be exempted from penalties only if they fail the work rate by no more than the number of individuals granted good cause waivers multiplied by the participation rate.	X
3) HHS may grant reasonable cause exemptions from penalties for those good cause domestic violence waivers only for waivers that were granted appropriately .	X
4) HHS may grant reasonable cause exemptions from penalties only for good cause domestic violence waivers that are temporary ( less than six months long ).	X
5) HHS shall not grant reasonable cause exceptions to penalties to states for exempting more than 20 percent of the caseload from the five year time limit due to granting of good cause domestic violence waivers.			X
CASELOAD REDUCTION CREDIT
1) States that have expanded eligibility shall not get credit for caseload reductions that would have happened in	X

<sup>1</sup> The reg is now changed to say the the Secretary “will determine whether a State has reasonable cause based on its demonstration that its failure to meet the work participation rates is attributable to its provision of good cause domestic violence waivers. If a state fails to meet these standards to the satisfaction of the Secretary, the Secretary will not grant the exemption.”
Is this enough?

Proposed Change	Change Made	Partial Change Made	To Be Resolved
the absence of the expansion.
2) States shall not have a choice of applying the two parent caseload reduction or the overall caseload reduction as a credit to the two parent work participation rate.			X
3) HHS shall not have the option to allow states to exclude some or all families in any separate State program from the caseload reduction calculation “based on nature of benefits provided.”			X
4) Fingerprinting, drug testing, and whole grant sanctions shall not be defined as eligibility changes that must be factored out of the caseload credit.		X <sup>2</sup>
5) Individuals receiving one-time, short-term assistance, or services with no monetary value shall not be eliminated from the caseload reduction credit calculation.		X <sup>3</sup>
6) States shall report eligibility changes on a form consistent across states and the regulation shall define a more specific set of criteria upon which the Secretary shall evaluate this information.	X
PENALTIES

<sup>2</sup> The reg now refers more generally to excluding “procedural changes that have the effect of delaying or denying eligibility” but HHS policy would be to tell states that caseload changes from fingerprinting, etc., should count in that category. This HHS policy could help prevent states from gutting the work requirements: by not allowing a state to claim a caseload credit for caseload reductions due to fingerprinting (up to 15% in some states) the policy could prevent a state from lowering its work rate from, say, 50% to 35%.

<sup>3</sup> The reg eliminates these cases from both comparison years, thus making more of an “apples to apples” comparison. For purposes of calculating the caseload credit, the TANF + MOE caseload not receiving short-term or non-monetary assistance in a given year is compared to the FY 1995 AFDC caseload without any short-time Emergency Assistance cases. The policy effect of this definition is that states that shift their services from monthly cash grants to either non-monetary services or one-time diversion grants will receive higher caseload credits.

Proposed Change	Change Made	Partial Change Made	To Be Resolved
1) In order for a state to be eligible to receive a reasonable cause penalty exception, to enter into a corrective compliance plan, or receive reduced penalties (“some or all”) or penalties based on degree of non-compliance, a state must prove that it did not divert families to a separate state program for purposes of avoiding the work participation rates or preventing the federal collection of child support.	X <sup>4</sup>		X <sup>5</sup>
2) States may not retrospectively reclassify families in TANF as “state only” in order to game the work rates.	X
3) States shall provide quarterly data regarding how many people have been sanctioned for not working. The data reports shall include the information necessary to determine if the state imposed a pro-rata reduction required by law, and whether the state required the individual to perform work within two years.	X <sup>6</sup>
4) HHS shall enter into a corrective	X		X <sup>7</sup>

<sup>4</sup> HHS has made the following changes: in order to be eligible for a reasonable cause penalty exception or a reduced penalty based on degree of non-compliance, a state must prove that it did not divert families to a separate state program for the purpose of avoiding work participation rates.

<sup>5</sup> HHS has not agreed to make the following changes: 1) in order to enter into corrective compliance plan or receive a reduction in penalties (“some or all”) for not correcting a failure through such a plan, a state must prove that it did not divert families to a separate state program for the purpose of avoiding work participation rates; 2) condition a state’s eligibility for any of the penalty exceptions/reductions on the state proving that it did not divert families in order to prevent the federal collection of child support; and 3) to collect data that will help determine if states are diverting individuals to separate state programs (include in the MOE data report information on whether individuals served in the separate state program were on TANF within the last six months).

<sup>7</sup> HHS does not want to limit the compliance plan to six months. They’ve made the

Proposed Change	Change Made	Partial Change Made	To Be Resolved
action plan with a state only if such a plan: a) contains monthly process and outcome goals that the state must meet in order to continue to operate under a corrective action plan; b) contains significant new actions the state plans to take to meet the law's requirements; c) contains a letter signed by the governor outlining the need for the corrective action plan; d) shall be no longer than six months.	(all but six month limit)
5) The regulations shall detail a sliding penalty scale that will be imposed based on degree of noncompliance with the work participation rates.	X <sup>8</sup>		X <sup>9</sup>
6) Eliminate the option for the Secretary to reduce the penalty on a state that has failed to correct a violation through a corrective compliance plan if a state a) expended more resources; b) made substantial progress; or c) encountered circumstances that could not have been anticipated.			X <sup>10</sup> argument that the statute allows states up to two months to complete and file the plan, so in reality the compliance plan is in effect for 10 months. A six month time limit would give states only four months to comply.

<sup>8</sup> HHS has agreed to a sliding scale as follows: only states that met at least 75 percent of the work participation rate (e.g., 75% of 30% or 22.5%) would be eligible for a sliding penalty based on degree of non-compliance. All states falling below that standard will receive the full penalty. If a state failed both the overall and the two parent work rates, then its penalty would be reduced in direct proportion to the level of achievement above the 75 percent threshold (e.g., if a state were halfway between 22.5% and 30%, its penalty would be reduced in half). If a state failed only the two parent rate, its penalty would be first be multiplied by 10 percent and then reduced in direct proportion to the level of achievement above the 75 percent threshold.

<sup>9</sup> We proposed that the threshold be raised from 75 percent to 90 percent -- only states meeting a 90 percent of the work participation rate would be eligible for a sliding penalty based on degree of non-compliance. HHS has objected to this change.

<sup>10</sup> HHS has proposed only minor word changes to this section, such as adding “expended significantly more resources”, made “substantial progress”, and “encountered overriding circumstances that were beyond its control and could not have been anticipated.”

Proposed Change	Change Made	Partial Change Made	To Be Resolved
7) OMB has sought to allow the Secretary to include certain child only cases in the work participation rate (denominator and, if applicable, numerator) if the Secretary determines that the state re-classified families as "child only" for purposes of avoiding the work rates (by statute, the work rates don't apply to child only cases).			X
ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS
1) OMB has sought to have a federal, rather than state, definition of administrative costs, which the statute limits to 15 percent of the total block grant.		X <sup>11</sup>	X <sup>12</sup>
WAIVERS			HHS is awaiting our proposal.

<sup>11</sup> OMB has succeeded in getting HHS to agree to include several types of spending in a federal definition.

<sup>12</sup> OMB is still seeking to include spending on case management and eligibility determination in the federal definition of administrative costs.

Expanding the Hate Crimes Statute to Include Sexual Orientation, Disability, and Gender.

In preparation for the November 10th White House Conference on Hate Crimes, the Attorney General has indicated that she will recommend that the federal hate crimes statute be expanded to include gender, sexual orientation, and disability. This option was supported by most interest groups and the Civil Rights Division of DOJ. Senator Kennedy had indicated he would introduce legislation to this effect shortly before or on the day of the Conference. This option, which only requires the broadest possible Commerce Clause nexus for the offense to fall within the federal statute, is expected to require a substantial increase of resources for both the FBI and U.S. Attorney offices. One other option presented to the Attorney General would have included gender, sexual orientation, and disability as new categories of hate crimes, but would have required a showing of animus by the criminal offender. This option was preferred by the FBI and federal prosecutors in order to address the concern that, without the animus provision, the statute would require federal review of most gender-related offenses.

1996 NAEP Science Results. This week the National Assessment Governing Board (NAGB) released a performance report on the 1996 National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) in science, showing that less than 30% of U.S. students reach proficient levels of scientific knowledge and understanding, with 29% reaching the proficient level at grades 4 and 8, and 21% demonstrating proficiency at grade 12. The basic level -- representing partial mastery of fundamental knowledge and skills -- was reached by 67% of students in grade 4, 61% in grade 8, and 57% in grade 12. The 1996 science NAEP was developed from a new content framework, so results cannot be directly compared to previous assessments. Numerical scores for the 1996 test had previously been released, but this week's report was based on levels for basic, proficient, and advanced performance approved by NAGB in August.

Vouchers/Coverdell. This week the House passed the Gingrich/Armey version of Sen. Coverdell's K-12 education savings accounts legislation. Vote on final passage was 230-198, with 8 Republicans voting against the bill and 15 Democrats voting for it. A Rangel substitute, which would have expanded a school construction bond provision enacted in the tax reform bill, was defeated 224-199. On Friday the the Republicans canceled a mark-up of legislation that would have allowed ESEA Title VI funds to be used to pay for private school tuition. Evidently they were unable to muster sufficient Republican support to get the bill out of committee. However, Republicans will probably attempt to attach voucher language to the Riggs-Roemer charter schools bill on the House floor next week.

National Tests: Friday afternoon the AP ran a story indicating that the Republicans had decided to send the Labor HHS appropriations bill to you, including Goodling's prohibition on developing or implementing national tests. Others in the media are picking up this story, though the only source for the story appears to be unidentified staff to Goodling or Ashcroft. Goodling has in fact drafted a new provision that would (1) continue to prohibit the development or implementation of national tests; (2) require the Education Department to cancel the current contract for test development; and (3) direct the National Academy of Sciences to conduct a study, with NGA and NCSL, of the feasibility of comparing the results from different, existing standardized tests, as an alternative to the national tests. The Republicans have forwarded Goodling's proposal to the Democrats, though it is not yet clear if this is intended as the first step in negotiations, or if it reflects a decision to force a veto before any final resolution that acceptable to you. We are working closely with Obey to determine how best to respond. In addition, we have indicated to the press that this "compromise" is unacceptable to you, and that this provision would cause you to veto the bill--as you stated clearly in your remarks to the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards.

FROM: OMB LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS

DATE: OCTOBER 24, 1997

SUBJECT: LEGISLATIVE REPORT

Today Senators Byrd and Moynihan introduced a bill S. 1319 to repeal the Line Item Veto Act.

CONGRESS TODAY (10/24)

SENATE

Failed (43-49) to invoke cloture on the modified committee amendment to S. 1173, the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1997. (Cloture was also defeated twice on Thursday.) Senator Lott today filed another cloture motion on the modified committee amendment. This fourth cloture vote will occur on Tuesday. Lott has indicated this will be the last cloture attempt on ISTEA.

[SAP sent, 10/8: Administration supports Senate passage, but has a number of concerns, including making the bill fully consistent with the Bipartisan Budget Agreement.]

Passed (UC) H.R. 2013 - Designating the David B. Champagne Post Office Building, clearing the measure for the President

HOUSE

Adopted (233-171) H.R. 2107 - Interior Appropriations Conference Report (Adopted the Rule by a vote of 247-166)

[Letter sent 9/30: Senior advisers veto recommendation based on House failure to fund NEA and to provide $700 million in land acquisition funds (BBA violation); objectionable House/Senate environmental riders.]

Continued consideration of, but did not complete action on H.R. 2247 - Amtrak Reform and Privatization Act of 1997 (Open Rule)

[House Rules SAP sent 10/21: Administration strongly opposes]
 While under consideration of H.R. 2247, the House took the following action:

- o LaTourette proposed an amendment to replace Shuster's labor reforms with a proposal similar to the Administration's. Representative Quinn offered a perfecting amendment that would have effectively wiped out the LaTourette amendment. The Quinn perfecting amendment was rejected by a vote of 198-223. Subsequently, Chairman Shuster pulled the bill from the floor to avoid votes on the underlying Latourette amendment (a vote for labor and against Shuster) and final passage.

Rejected (168-244) Motion to Adjourn
