Florida Tobacco Settlement and Implications for Children's Coverage. You have asked whether we could work with Governor Chiles to allow Florida to keep all or most of its settlement if it can illustrate it is being spent on children's health coverage. While we might well like to move in this direction, it appears that current law gives us little flexibility in this regard. The statute explicitly requires us to collect any portion of Medicaid dollars that have been recaptured by the states. If we do not, we are vulnerable both to Justice action and possibly qui tam suits. These are false claims suits filed on behalf of the taxpayers against the states for not reporting their tobacco settlement recoveries to the Federal government. The damages for such suits are treble plus $5,000 per claim — 20 to 33 percent of which would go to the lawyer. The Justice Department has received some preliminary inquiries in this regard. The only other non-legislative way to assist states like Florida is to conclude that most of the settlement is not Medicaid related and, as such, we have no claim on the dollars. However, this weakens our position with respect to other states' and a national settlement. It also is hard to claim that these settlements are not primarily Medicaid-related and, if we try, we could be sued for being in a conspiracy with Florida in misrepresenting the amount owed to the taxpayers. Thus, we will be looking at the proposed legislative changes like the national settlement or a bill proposed by Senator Graham that explicitly preempts the underlying Federal recapture requirements for the purpose of the settlement.

Confirmation Update: Nancy-Ann Min DeParle and Dr. David Satcher. The Senate confirmed Nancy-Ann Min DeParle to become the HCFA Administrator last weekend. Unfortunately, despite a 12-5 vote to report Dr. Satcher out of the Labor Committee, the Congress adjourned before they could schedule a final confirmation vote. Although it seems clear that he would have easily been confirmed, Senator Ashcroft (R-AZ) placed a hold on the vote, explicitly suggesting that the primary reason he did this was that Dr. Satcher would not reject the Administration's position on late term abortion. Some have suggested that this was a purely political move on the Senator's part to position himself for the 2000 Presidential run. What is certain is that Dr. Satcher has never been a player in the abortion debate and has explicitly said he does not intend to use the Office of the Surgeon General to forward any abortion rights agenda. He continues to enjoy the strong support of virtually every credible health care player in the nation, including the AMA. However, in an effort to not take anything for granted, we are working with the AMA and other groups -- as well as key Republican Senate supporters (Frist, Nickles, Jeffords, etc.) -- to get a successful vote soon after the Congress reconvenes line up have the support of the AMA and many other middle and right of center health care groups. We are currently discussing how to best promote Dr. Satcher and this nomination and prevent it from becoming a referendum on partial birth abortion during the recess.

Quality Commission. Next week, you are scheduled to accept the Quality Commission's Bill of Rights. We plan to submit a memo to you on Monday which will summarize the Bill of Rights and recommend options as to how you might want to respond. We are also reviewing Executive Actions you may be able to take that will improve quality in the Federal government. We will discuss these in the memo as well.

Response to HHS Study Regarding Reductions Decline in Take-Up Rates for Health Insurance. You asked for a response to a recent HHS study in the decline in take-up rates for health insurance. It referred to a study conducted by HHS of the 10-year trends in access to and participation in employer-sponsored health insurance. The study's findings are not quite as dramatic as the reports would suggest. Between 1987 and 1996, the proportion of workers with access to employer-based insurance remained constant (about 82 percent). However, the proportion of workers accepting that coverage declined slightly, from 93 to 89 percent. This decline was more pronounced for younger and low-income people; today, about three-fourths of these groups who had access to insurance purchased it. This occurred during a period when premium growth was three times higher than wage growth. Reiterating this fact does confirm one of the tenets of the Administration's health agenda: that affordability of insurance is as important as access to it. We hope that the 1999 budget and the tobacco settlement will offer opportunities to build upon our efforts in Medicaid waivers and the Children's Health Insurance Program to provide premium assistance for uninsured Americans.

FORD FOUNDATION TO HOST UNIQUE MEETING OF CORPORATE LEADERS TO DISCUSS THE BENEFITS OF INTEGRATING WORK AND PERSONAL LIFE

Ford Foundation Introduces Web Site Offering Full Text of Groundbreaking Report

NEW YORK, September 15, 1997 -- The Ford Foundation and the Xerox Corporation today will host the "CEO Summit on Relinking Life and Work." Ford Foundation President Susan V. Berresford and Xerox Chairman & CEO Paul A. Allaire will lead 75 CEOs in discussing how helping employees meet the dual challenge of integrating work and personal life needs can be a powerful business tool. The summit was designed to give a broad range of CEOs insight into groundbreaking research, while discussing its implications for their own companies.

The summit is being sponsored in cooperation with MacDonald Communications, publishers of Ms., Working Woman and Working Mother, which today released its annual list of the 100 best companies for working mothers.

The summit draws from a 1996 Ford Foundation-sponsored report, "Relinking Life and Work: Toward a Better Future." The report, which focuses on Xerox operations, describes how restructuring the way work gets done can help employees integrate their work and personal life needs, and also improve business results. According to Berresford, "The surprise from the research was that changes that made the workplace more family- and community-friendly had a positive bottom-line impact."

"This is a historic event," says Xerox CEO Paul Allaire. "Our very presence here today says something about the new realities of leading a company in the global marketplace. I don't believe any of us would be here today if we weren't convinced our discussion today has ramifications for our businesses beyond the issue of family-friendly policies."

Allaire adds that the research findings provided what are believed to be the most striking "measurable evidence that creating a culture where people can integrate life and work doesn't mean sacrificing business performance."

Other business leaders attending the summit include J. Michael Cook, Chairman and CEO of Deloitte & Touche, LLP; Livio DeSimone, Chairman & CEO of Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Corporation (3M); James Dimon, Chairman & CEO of Smith Barney/Travelers Group; George M.C. Fisher, Chairman, President and CEO of Eastman Kodak Co.; James A. Johnson, Chairman of Fannie Mae; Jan Leschly, President and CEO of SmithKline Beecham Corp.; Henry B. Schacht, Chairman and CEO of Lucent Technologies; and Thomas B. Wheeler, Chairman and CEO of Mass Mutual Life Insurance Corp.

During the course of the summit, Lotte Bailyn, T. Wilson Professor of Management at the M.I.T. Sloan School of Management, will present the major findings of the report, which she wrote with Rhona Rapoport, co-director of the Institute of Family and Environmental Research. Seeking to test the idea that "family-friendly" work practices can also help improve business results, the researchers worked with three Xerox business units to help workers change how they do their work. They ferreted out the invisible inefficiencies and non-productive work practices that exist in any job and gave creative solutions to work-family conflicts a chance to emerge. The researchers found that helping people address work-personal life issues also frees them to think more creatively about work in general, providing companies with a strategic opportunity to achieve a more equitable, productive and innovative workplace.

The business results described in the Ford Foundation report were striking. In the Dallas sales/service office, sales revenues exceeded expectations and customer satisfaction improved as sales, service and support people formed cross-functional teams to address work/family conflicts and improve customer service. Absenteeism dropped 30 percent among the 320 employees at the southern customer administration center in Dallas. The office color business team in Webster, NY, introduced the Xerox 4900 desktop color printer on schedule in 1994, a rare occurrence for the high-tech industry, where many factors can prevent on-time product launches.

"Developments like these are encouraging," Berresford adds. "Strong support for good work-personal life practices will make us all work more efficiently and profitably, and enrich our communities and families and the nation."

The Foundation has made available an electronic version of the Relinking report -- which has prompted a great deal of interest among management consultants and human resource executives and the media -- in its newly introduced website, located at <http://www.fordfound.org>. The Subject: child care

Jen and I just finished conference calls with 8 Governors Offices: Almond, Voinovich, Edgar, Whitman, Chiles, Hunt, Romer, Carper. For what its worth, here's what I think-

Anything other than adding more money to the block grant opens up all the old fights and will be opposed by a significant portion of states (no matter what policy you choose). States mainly think the block grant is working and don't want more complicated funding streams. There is always a split on quality and serving more kids (as there was today and not on party lines)--and I think we should stay out of that. Lastly, it seems like a big loser to me to pick a particular age group-each state has their own view of where the need is. I can't attend the Deputies meeting this week but I look forward to future confrontations with HHS!

clearly they want more money--more subsidized care. they also all agreed on the Teach model, and thought training was a worthy investment (unprompted)--it's a pretty noncontroversial way to add money to quality. Nobody wants new federal requirements--more money, no strings (surprise)

TEXT:

I just had another conversation with DoJ and I and they are comfortable with this document being released as a "working document" tomorrow. By "working document" we mean something which the Board can use as a discussion tool (if they want) for their meeting and a document with Education can use in order to conduct outreach with relevant communities -- which I have confirmed they have not yet done. I have asked DoJ to make this guide a priority at this point and, if they do so, DoJ and I are confident that the document can be re-worked into a useable tool and the appropriate bases can be touched in the next 2 weeks. (I guess that would take us up to about the time of the town hall?)

How does that timeframe sound?

I'd rather not have it used even as a working document or discussion tool in connection with the Advisory Board meeting, unless there is some really strong need to do so. However, Education will need to use it as a working document and show it to relevant groups in order to do the type of outreach it has done in the past -- e.g. with the Title IX sexual harrassment guidance. But, they should be able to do this on a low-key basis.

Also, I think the Race Initiative staff should take a more active role in reviewing this document and assisting Education and us in producing a good, useable guide.

ONE AMERICA: THE PRESIDENT'S INITIATIVE ON RACE

A Stronger America. The President is leading us through a critical transition to a new era, building a new nation to meet the challenges in the century ahead. His agenda has elements in trade, the post-Soviet security framework, getting our fiscal house in order, a domestic investment and renovation strategy spearheaded with education and the environment. America cannot be its best in the new economy and the new era unless it is One America. Building One America is a critical piece of the work we must do to build the future we want for our children. And the greatest obstacles we face in creating One America are the fault lines of color that in many ways still divide our communities, minds and hearts.

As we enter the next century, we face economic and non-economic challenges. By drawing from the strength of every American we strengthen our nation.

- Our rich diversity strengthens our ability to compete and win in the global market place.
- Our diversity makes our unique culture and our nation a richer place to live.
- The cost of a nation divided along ethnic and racial lines is horrific (Bosnia).
- Equal treatment of fellow Americans is a core principle of what defines our nation -- treating others with dignity and respect is part of what it means to be an American.

A Post-Civil Rights Era. The past two decades have been a time of great change, and our nation has entered into a new era with new challenges. Much turns on recognizing the new nature of the challenges. In race, the traditional civil rights agenda of legislative and regulatory attacks on discrimination accomplished a great deal, including a remarkable transformation in civic norms. But times are different now, and we must move forward in a context much changed from the 1960s. The demographics of race move us beyond the black-white paradigm. The competitive global economy attaches higher costs to misfires in America's opportunity engine. All of this requires a new and expanded agenda to achieve the racial justice required for One America.

This is not about integration in the old sense, nor about anti-discrimination law enforcement alone. This initiative is about a broader goal of opportunity and responsibility, reaching every American. Achieving that goal requires all Americans to face the age-old problems of interethnic hostility, suspicion, and rivalry based on color, which is particularly as compounded by class. The challenge is great, but we must meet it to forge the social compact for the New Economy. We must do this for One America that is just.

The Goal of One America. The President's powerful and important vision for One America is to create a nation in which diverse citizens can recognize, respect, and celebrate their differences, yet can live and work and join together as one community and one nation. His vision rejects the extremist assimilationist/"melting-pot" and the "identity politics" models that seek to deny the rich diversity of our differences or require that the differences divide us. By embracing our diversity as a source of strength, our cultural lives will be enriched, and our ability to compete and win in the global market place will be enhanced.

The Advisory Board. The President has asked seven distinguished Americans of diverse backgrounds and talents to reach out to the nation and give him their counsel. The Advisory Board is chaired by Professor John Hope Franklin and its members include Linda Chavez-Thompson, Suzan D. Johnson Cook, Thomas H. Kean, Angela E. Oh, Robert Thomas and William F. Winter. Based on the advice of his Advisory Board, the President is focusing the policy efforts on educational and economic opportunity. The Board also recommended that the President place a special emphasis on reaching the youth of America, in order to establish the foundation for long-term, enduring progress.

The Course. This President's vision is extremely ambitious and cannot be achieved in one year. However, through his Initiative on Race, the President intends to set the nation on a course, leading us in the right direction for achieving One America for the 21st century. Throughout his presidency, President Clinton has worked to promote opportunity, responsibility, and community for all Americans. By building on these themes, expressing his vision for One America and listening to the views of Americans from around the country, President Clinton intends to put the mechanisms in place to help us achieve the promise of one nation, undivided, with liberty and justice for all. Through Action, Dialogue, and Study, the President's Initiative on Race will help chart our course toward achieving the President's vision.

Action: The President and the Race Initiative are identifying and developing policy initiatives that will build community, support personal responsibility, and create opportunity for all Americans. In addition to policy actions undertaken directly by the federal government, the Race Initiative seeks to identify and foster the successful state and local government programs, as well as the private, non-governmental activities, that are already working to achieve the President's vision. Taking the recommendation of the Advisory Board, the primary focus of our policy action will be to enhance educational and economic opportunity, as well as to support the efforts of Americans who are currently working to bridge racial divides. Also, because discrimination is still an unfortunate reality for too many of our citizens, the President will ensure that our civil rights laws are strictly enforced.

- Providing quality educational opportunity to all. On July 17, 1997, in an address before the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, President Clinton announced a $350 million proposal to attract talented people of all backgrounds to teaching at low-income schools and to improve the quality of training and preparation of America's future teachers. This new initiative will help bring nearly 35,000 outstanding new teachers into high-poverty schools in urban and rural areas over the next five years.
- Enforcing the nation's laws and preventing housing discrimination. President Clinton has directed Housing and Urban Development Secretary Andrew Cuomo to lead the federal effort to crack down on housing discrimination. On September 30, 1997, Secretary Cuomo announced that HUD will double the number of civil rights enforcement actions by the year 2000. Secretary Cuomo also announced that $15 million dollars was being given to 67 fair housing centers around the country to assist in combating housing discrimination this year. Since the September 30 announcement, HUD has initiated ___ new enforcement actions in ___ states, including one against a West Virginia couple who allegedly threatened a black family with a knife and gun, and intimidated the family by hanging plastic ducks, painted black, to a cross on the family's property. [Correct information is expected from HUD today.]

- Promising Practices. Community efforts are crucial to the success of the President's Initiative on Race. In communities throughout the country, people are working to bridge racial divides and to create equal opportunity for all. Recognizing that long-term progress depends upon the efforts of citizens, the Race Initiative is identifying and creating a compilation of descriptions of efforts deemed "Promising Practices," so that others may participate in them, or replicate them in their own communities, schools, businesses, and religious organizations. Thus far, 14 Promising Practices have been highlighted on the Race Initiative's Web site, and there will be at least 40 highlighted by the President's Town Hall on Race on December 3. As more practices are identified, they will be featured on the Race Initiative's Web site, discussed by Advisory Board members during their travels around the country, and included in the President's Final Report.
- Corporate Leadership. In a landmark achievement, the Small Business Administration (SBA) has reached an agreement with the "Big Three" U.S. automakers that will increase subcontract awards to disadvantaged and minority small businesses by nearly $3 billion over the next three years -- a 50% increase over current levels. This unique public-private partnership marks the first time a major industry group has engaged in a cooperative effort with the SBA to increase private sector opportunities for small, disadvantaged business.
- Recruiting leaders. Throughout the year, the President will seek the active engagement of leaders in several sectors to support and advance the goals of the Race Initiative. Identifying leaders to help carry out the President's vision will provide both breadth and depth to the Initiative and ensure that the effort continues beyond this year. Leaders from various sectors will be identified throughout the country, with a special emphasis on recruiting leaders from three areas: education, religion and corporate America. Already, hundreds of university and college presidents have agreed to foster dialogue and engage their campus communities in our effort. A group of corporate leaders has started working to engage the business community, and the faith community is exploring ways in which it can continue this important effort beyond this year. Most importantly, the President seeks the active involvement of youth leaders throughout the country so that the President vision can be realized and maintained throughout the 21st century.

- Focus on Youth. The 21st century belongs to the youth of today. Throughout the year, the President and the Race Initiative will aggressively seek the active participation of America's youth in achieving the President's vision for One America in the 21st century. By engaging youth -- soliciting their ideas and recruiting youth leaders -- we hope to ensure that the important new direction we take this year will lead to long-lasting and permanent change through their stewardship of America's future.
- The President's Report to the Nation. [I am awaiting Chris's input.] In addition to his ongoing leadership in this effort throughout the year, President Clinton will issue a Report to the nation that will serve as a useful resource book on race, and provide a road map for creating One America in the 21st century. His report will capture his vision for One America and will include significant facts pertaining to race, some of the most effective promising practices, a report on the status of the nation's dialogue on race, and more. The President's Report will help guide the nation toward achieving the high ideals to which it aspires.

Dialogue: Throughout the year, we are engaging the nation in a discussion on our values, our communities, and ourselves: What unites us? What divides us? How can we build bridges of understanding between America's diverse racial communities? By creating genuine and honest dialogue between and within communities, we hope to understand what obstacles we face, and, more importantly, successful ways in which we can overcome these obstacles to come together as One America.

- Presidential Leadership. The President is reaching out to many groups -- including youth groups, white ethnic groups, racial minorities, and others -- to share his vision of One America, as well as to listen to their ideas and concerns.
 - Race Town Hall: On December 3, the President will host a Town Hall meeting in Akron, Ohio, to engage young people and others in a discussion about race in America, the values that unite us, and the obstacles we have to overcome.
 - Hate Crimes Conference: On November 10, the President and Attorney General Janet Reno hosted the first-ever White House Conference on Hate Crimes, which featured many experts and law enforcement officers from around the country. The President announced significant law enforcement and prevention initiatives to get tough on hate crimes.
- Conversation with the Nation. The members of the Advisory Board and the executive director have spoken with over 100 audiences, amounting to more than 10,000 people. These meetings provide an opportunity for the Board members to share the President's vision of One America as well as to receive the input of Americans of all races on the areas in which we have established common ground and on the obstacles that we must continue to strive to overcome.

- Listening to the Nation. In addition to the feedback received by Advisory Board members, the Race Initiative is establishing One America: Conversations that Bring Us Together -- which are actual conversations hosted by Presidential appointees around the country to solicit the views of Americans on how we can achieve One America. Further, through the Race Initiative Web site and letters, Americans are providing their advice on how we can move forward together.

Study: Throughout the year, and through a variety of vehicles, we will seek to educate Americans on the facts on race. Together with the Council of Economic Advisors and leading experts from the statistical agencies, the Race Initiative will compile and publish relevant factual indicators on the status and relevance of race in America. By next spring, a comprehensive resource book will be published and much of the information will be included in and inform the President's Final Report. In the interim, facts and information will be posted on the Race Initiative's Web site (www.whitehouse.gov/Initiatives/OneAmerica) and discussed during Advisory Board meetings.

BILL SIGNING CEREMONY FOR HR 867,
THE ADOPTION PROMOTION ACT OF 1997

DATE: Thursday, November 18, 1997
LOCATION: The East Room
TIME: 1:40pm-2:20pm
FROM: John Hilley
Bruce Reed
Melanne Verveer

I. PURPOSE

To sign into law H.R. 867, the Adoption Promotion Act of 1997.

II. BACKGROUND

Today's bill signing of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 represents an enormous victory for your agenda to promote adoption and improve our nation's child welfare system. As you know, the bill largely incorporates the Administration's proposals in this area, as outlined in your executive memorandum on adoption to members of your Cabinet (which you issued in a radio address on December 14, 1996.) See attachment #1. Also attached is a November 16, 1997 New York Times article on the significance of this legislation. See attachment #2.

In particular, the bill (1) makes clear that children's health and safety are the paramount concerns of the public child welfare system; (2) clarifies the "reasonable efforts" standard; (3) speeds up court hearings for children in foster care and generally requires states to initiate proceedings to terminate parental rights after a child has been in foster care for 15 of the previous 22 months; (4) provides states with financial incentives to increase the number of children who are adopted; (5) reauthorizes the Family Preservation Program (staving off an expected battle next year) and increases its funding; (6) ensures health coverage for adopted children with special needs by requiring states to provide coverage through Medicaid or the new child health program; (7) expands HHS's authority to issue waivers to states for child welfare and foster care demonstration projects; and (8) breaks down barriers to adoption across state lines by prohibiting states from denying a suitable out-of-state adoption when no in-state adoption is available.

As you know, Representatives Camp and Kennelly sponsored an adoption bill, H.R. 867, that passed the House last spring, which you strongly endorsed. That bill included nearly all your recommendations and was generally well-received by child welfare advocates. Some advocates, however, urged the Senate bill sponsors -- Senators Chafee and Rockefeller -- to include additional resources in their bill. The final bill includes certain additional investments (largely the reauthorization and expansion of the Family Preservation Program and the guarantee of health care coverage for special needs children who are adopted). It carries no pay-as-you-go costs in the initial years, but costs slightly more than $50 million over five years.

The bill sponsors -- Representatives Camp and Kennelly and Senators Chafee and Rockefeller -- were particularly significant to the success and strength of this legislation. Through many ups and downs in the past year, they kept together an impressive bipartisan coalition of advocates and members.

Olivia Golden, HHS Commissioner for the Administration on Children, Youth, and Families, will be presenting the 1997 Adoption 2002 Excellence Award to the recipient families and organizations tomorrow morning before the signing ceremony begins. A Presidential Directive was issued on December 14, 1996 to double, over the next five years, the number of children from the foster care system who are adopted or placed in other permanent placements. HHS, in response to the directive, prepared a report that proposed steps to establish annual awards to recognize states, local agencies, courts, private organizations, employers and others who are making key contributions to the effort. There are a total of 13 recommended awards, in six award categories. These awardees will be in the audience during the signing ceremony.

Ms. Sue Ann Badeau will be introducing you. She is a 20 year old girl that was adopted, along with her three siblings, by her foster parents. She is one of 19 adopted children in a family of 21 children. She is from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
