Q: There are so many promising new developments in cancer. Shouldn't your Administration do more to help advance the progress against this disease?

A: I am very encouraged about the promising new breakthroughs in cancer research. I am proud of what this Administration is doing to advance this progress through three proposals that represent some of the highest priorities of the cancer community.

- Historic Investment in Cancer Research. My balanced budget includes an unprecedented multi-year investment in cancer research, with a 65 percent increase in the NCI budget over the next five years.
- Cancer Clinical Trials. My budget also includes a new demonstration to cover the patient care costs for Medicare beneficiaries who participate in certain clinical trials. The recent promising cancer therapies all have to go through clinical trials. Scientists have said that expanding access to these trials will increase their participation rates, which is critical to ensuring that these promising new therapies go from the experimental phase to the market where they can potentially help millions of Americans.
- Genetic Discrimination. Finally, I have asked Congress to pass legislation that prevents employers and health insurers from discriminating on the basis of genetic information. Studies show that a leading reason women do not get new genetic testing for susceptibility to breast cancer is because they worry about this kind of discrimination.

I urge Congress to pass all of these proposals into law this year.

Q: Should insurance companies be required to cover Viagra?

A: If the drug is medically necessary, it should be covered. Most policies today cover prescription drugs that have been determined by physicians to be medically necessary.

Some health plans are now suggesting that this drug is being prescribed and dispensed for conditions that may not meet a traditional definition of medical necessity; in response, they are contemplating new coverage rules. We will follow this closely to determine if medically necessary medications are covered. But as a general matter, I believe there should be very careful deliberation before the government takes any action to require coverage for a particular prescription drug.

Q: But isn't it inconsistent to cover Viagra, in light of the fact that many policies do not now cover birth control pills?

- A: The decision to require coverage for any particular drug should be carefully considered. The question is whether the denial of coverage creates problems of real access to medically necessary prescription drugs. Before we proceed in this area we should make sure that the need justifies governmental intervention.

WHITE HOUSE DRUG CZAR BARRY McCAFFREY,
MISSISSIPPI ATTORNEY GENERAL MIKE MOORE
SPEAK OUT ON GATEWAY LINK BETWEEN YOUTH SMOKING AND DRUG USE

(BILOXI, Miss.) -- Youth smoking plays a dangerous role in leading to more dangerous, illicit drugs, Barry R. McCaffrey, Director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy, and Mississippi Attorney General Mike Moore said today after a meeting in Biloxi.

"We need to fight gateway behaviors like smoking," McCaffrey said. "Many kids get on the addiction expressway with cigarettes and end up crashing with heroin or cocaine. It's irresponsible drug policy to stand up for youth cigarette use."

"I am very pleased that the nation's Drug Czar, Gen. Barry McCaffrey, is speaking out on the correlation between youth smoking and the usage of other drugs," Moore said. "My entire 20-year career has been focused on educating kids about the dangers of using alcohol, tobacco and other illicit drugs."

Every day, 3,000 children start smoking; 1,000 of them will die because of it. Children who smoke cigarettes are more than 2.5 times more likely to use drugs than those who do not smoke. Recent studies also show a "reverse gateway" effect with cigarettes: increasing numbers of young people, predominately minorities, are now using cigarettes to prolong marijuana highs.

"By targeting youth smoking, we can reduce youth drug use before it starts," McCaffrey said. "Studies show that if we can get children to age 21 without them starting addictive behaviors, like cigarettes, they will probably never experience an addiction problem -- and that includes drugs like heroin and cocaine."

The Administration has a five-part counter-tobacco plan to reduce youth smoking: raise the price of cigarettes; full authority to FDA to regulate tobacco products; change the way the industry does business; progress on the public health front; and protect farmers and communities.

"Not only is selling tobacco products to kids illegal -- just like pushing any other illegal drug -- but youth smoking plays a role in other more dangerous behaviors," McCaffrey said. "No one committed to fighting drugs like marijuana and heroin can in good conscience stand up for tobacco and smoking among our children."

Elena,

I spoke with Bob Bach from INS last week. He said that the draft legislation was not finished and that they had some questions about our strategy for moving forward. According to Bob, INS still wants to include pay equity for inspectors (equivalent to law enforcement officers) in the legislation. The last time we discussed this, OMB made clear that this was not do-able at this time (it would be very expensive and was not anticipated in FY99). According to Peter, we must get draft legislation introduced -- a vehicle to nail down Reyes and others and to keep the discussion moving with our proposal as a frame.

Last week, Abraham made a speech in which he stated his intention to hold oversight hearings (starting after the Memorial day recess) to determine the best way to reform the agency and that he would consider the Administration's proposal and other alternatives. He also stated that he does not think that the issue of INS reform will be resolved this Congress. This is a good sign, b/c it signals to the appropriators (Rogers) that Abraham sees this as his (not their) issue. However, INS has indicated that they may want to move forward with reform without blessing from the Congress. Peter's instinct, given Abraham's statement, is for INS not to move forward without Congress's o.k. He would, however, want to know if INS has any different intelligence on this. Peter has calls into their leg. person (Alan Erenbaum).

I have a call into Bob to make clear our strategy and to ask that we set something up with us and OMB later in the week to resolve any lingering issues that they may have with the legislation and our overall legislative strategy.

Julie

DRAFT

May 5, 1998

MEMORANDUM FOR THE CHIEF OF STAFF

FROM: BRUCE REED
ELENA KAGAN

SUBJECT: USDA's Proposed Organic Rule

In 1990, Congress passed the Organic Food Production Act which required the Department of Agriculture (USDA) to establish a national standard defining the use of the term "organic" for use on food products. In December 1997, USDA published a proposed regulation to establish a national organic standard. Since that time, the proposed rule has been the subject of extensive criticism.

The primary complaint concerning the proposed rule has been that it does not explicitly prohibit the use of genetically modified organisms, irradiation, and biosolids (sludge) in food that could be labeled "organic." In the preamble to its proposal, USDA had requested comments as to whether foods using any of these techniques could be considered as organic. In response, USDA received almost 200,000 comments regarding the proposed rule, the most ever received for a USDA rulemaking. The rule has also been the subject of unfavorable editorials in many newspapers including the New York Times, the Washington Post, the Chicago Tribune, and the Los Angeles Times. (Sample "Organic Hash From the USDA Kitchen"). Finally, 47 members of the House and 30 Senators have signed letters to Secretary Glickman expressing concern about the proposed rule.

Current Status

Secretary Glickman proposes to issue a press release this Friday, May 7th, indicating that USDA will "make fundamental changes in the new proposed rule on organic standards." Specifically, the statement would indicate that biotechnology, irradiation, and biosolids are "being taken off the table and will not be included in our new proposal." Articles in the last week in USA TODAY, and the Washington Post have indicated that USDA is preparing such a statement.

Representatives of OMB and NEC have expressed disagreement with USDA's plan to issue a statement taking these techniques "off the table." These agencies argue that consumers will view a product labeled as organic as safe, despite the fact that there is not evidence to demonstrate that organic food is any safer than non-organic food, or that genetically modified, irradiated, or food grown using sludge is unsafe. These agencies have alternately suggested that the organic label be modified to include a provision stating something along the lines of “organic food may be no more or less safe than non-organic food” or that USDA continue its comment review process and not prematurely prohibit using the term organic for food using any of the three disputed techniques.

USDA responds that the organic label is not intended to signify the overall safety of the food, only the methods by which the food was produced. USDA argues that the disputed techniques are not in keeping with the public’s expectation of what constitutes organic. The Food and Drug Administration has expressed support for USDA’s position.

Recommendation

We recommend that Secretary Glickman issue a clear statement taking biotechnology, irradiation, and sludge off the table for purposes of the new rulemaking. In order to better understand how the labels will be used, OMB has suggested USDA and FDA conduct a survey on consumer attitudes towards organic food to determine whether consumers purchase organic products on the basis of unproven safety claims. USDA has not objected to conducting such a survey. USDA has also agreed to insert in the preamble of its new rule language indicating that the National Organic Standard Board should report regularly to the Secretary on possible uses of new technologies and whether they might meet an organic standard. In addition, we recommend that USDA raise for discussion in its next proposed rule the possibility that a private industry body be responsible for formulating a nationwide organic standard.

TEXT:

HHS's report on the contingency fund is almost ready for prime time. It's required by Congress and was due April 1. We've worked with HHS in an effort to strike a good balance between an informative report that doesn't excessively dodge the questions and risks in this area, and yet is not unduly alarming about those risks. It should be issued in the next week or two. Below are highlights in case you are interested. If you see any problems, let me know in the next day or two.

Under current national economic projections, the contingency fund is adequate. But any evaluation at this time is preliminary, since the economy is strong and TANF is just being implemented. So we have to keep watching.

The report does not make any recommendations, but simply lists options for Congress to consider that we aren't endorsing at this time.

Eight states actually qualified for contingency funds in FY97 (Alaska, Calif, DC, Hawaii, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, and Washington). All of these states except New Mexico qualified based on the trigger that food stamp caseload had increased. New Mexico qualified based on the other trigger, that unemployment increased. However, only 2 of the 8 states actually requested contingency funds: North Carolina is getting $15 million, while New Mexico is getting $21 million. HHS assumes that the other states held back because they couldn't meet the 100% MOE test that contingency fund access requires.

We project that $210 million of the $2 billion contingency fund will be spent under current economic conditions, while CBO projects $435 million. However, these estimates are national in scope, and do not consider the possibility of a regional downturn that is not reflected in nation-wide figures. The report notes that at the moment most states have a cushion of unobligated TANF funds because of the economy and caseload drops. The only unresolved issue in the report is how to portray what a recession would do to the contingency fund. Levin specifically asked HHS to run a scenario on this. HHS estimates that a recession like the one in the early 90's would trigger a demand for contingency funds of $6.7 billion, far exceeding the $2 billion. HHS's estimate doesn't make sense to us at this point, so we are still looking at it. We are concerned about just dropping that number into the report, so if it doesn't change I'll let you know.

One frustration is that HHS has nothing to say about whether the 2 triggers for the contingency fund (food stamp caseload and unemployment) are good, bad, or indifferent. To me, the fact that 8 states have qualified for funds during these stellar economic conditions must mean that the triggers are too easy, but HHS was terrible at analyzing this, and the report only says that it's too early to judge this question. The report examines state complaints that the contingency fund MOE is too high and that it isn't fair to exclude separate state programs from the contingency fund MOE. (As you recall, a state must spend 100% of historical spending to access the contingency fund, while TANF requires only 75/80%. Also, separate state programs count toward the TANF MOE, but not toward contingency MOE. We like this feature very much because it discourages separate state programs.) The report tiptoes through the option of letting states count separate state programs toward contingency fund MOE, but then points out all the pitfalls associated with doing so -- higher costs, no apparent benefit, encouraging separate state programs. Finally, the report recounts how last year's adoption bill cut $40 million from the contingency fund, and how the first few states to access the fund could get screwed out of any money as a result. We are now arguing about whether to say that we might want to look for a new source for the $40 million because this isn't fair to those states.

FYI. Sally has asked INS to put off issuing a notice of reaching the cap until they are very close (within a couple thousand) to reaching it. As of April 15th, the State Dept. had issued 57,093 H-1B visas this year (including approximately 5,000 rolled over from last year). As of this morning, INS estimated that they were above 60,000, though Doris told Sally this afternoon that she was told they had reached 65,000. Bob Bach is going to get back to me on the exact number as soon as he can (hopefully as of the am).

INS wants to release the notice as a way of providing better "customer service." Sally is reluctant to issue a notice (and a statement that no more applications will be accepted OR that new applications will be denied) until we are sure that the new legislation will not meet the need in time.

Elena,
INS has received some press calls (most notably from the Washington Times) to respond to the protest that took place in front of the WH by those who are upset at being cut-off of work authorizations and stays of removal by the 9th Circuit's Section 377 decision. Attached is a draft q&a for their use. Please let me know if this looks o.k. Thanks.

Q: What is the INS doing to provide relief to the thousands who, because of Section 377 of the INA, are in danger of being deported?

A: The INS is aware of the issues surrounding those who were members of the CSS, LULAC and Zambrano classes who are now ineligible for immigration benefits (such as work authorization and stays of removal). Current immigration law may provide some avenue for relief for CSS class members. Those who have been in the country for more than 10 years may be eligible for cancellation of removal under IIRIRA. Because of the continued pendency of litigation in both the LULAC and Zambrano cases, we cannot comment on possible outcomes there.

I will be around to help on this event until the night before. I also think this event would be a very good opportunity for Andrea to have her first chance to brief POTUS. She has been doing a fabulous job -- since she started, but especially since I got wrapped up in tobacco land -- and we need to make sure she's recognized for it.

Subject: Welfare to Work Partnership Event

Based on the Ann Lewis meeting with Eli Segal and Partnership folks, here is the update on the May 27th welfare event.

Program:
Eli Segal - growth of Partnership (5,000 companies), success in terms of retention.
Jerry Greenwald, United Airlines - good for business, tell his retention success.
Former Welfare Recipient - tells personal story of transition to work POTUS

- Cabinet will be seated on Stage.
- CEOs/Board of Directors will be seated in the front row.
- 10-15 former welfare recipients/success stories that the POTUS has met w/ previously and new ones will be seated in the front row.
- 100 business members of the Partnership in the audience.

ISSUES NEEDING RESOLUTION:

1. FYI: The welfare recipient the Partnership has recommended is african-american. She is from Smith-Barney and is featured in the PSA campaign. Apparently, she has a magnificent story, but we are getting other options.
2. The Partnership has requested a working meeting with the President, Cabinet, Governors, and their Board of Directors prior to the event. Ideally, they would like a longer substantive meeting, but Stephanie Streett indicated that we can probably only get POTUS to drop-by for 15 minutes at the conclusion of their meeting. The meeting would be in the Roosevelt Room prior to the event. This will come up at the next COS scheduling meeting.
3. Governors will not have a speaking role, however, they will be invited to a meeting before hand. Are you okay with them not speaking -- particularly if they are not part of a substantive meeting w/ POTUS before hand if he only drops by.

Press Strategy:

Leak Partnership polling data and state by state numbers to USA Today for weekend story over the 4 day Memorial Weekend prior to the Wednesday event. Work stories for day of event w/ Wall Street Journal (perhaps give them the Fortune 500 companies that have signed up), and A.P. CEOs meet with Washington Post Editorial Board morning of event. CEOs submit Op-Ed's to key regional papers (ie. Chicago, Philadelphia, NYT,) Eli is meeting w/ Peter Jennings to pitch good success stories for ABC to follow leading up to the event. TV and Radio PSAs are being distributed to networks and Bloomberg. HBO has committed to running them. Pitch CEOs for morning shows.

I understand that there has been no decision about this week's radio address topic, but that child care remains a contender.

If child care prevails (as we hope it does), here is what we envision: the message would be Mother's Day, with the President stressing that today mothers are more pressed than ever, working outside the home in greater numbers than ever, and struggling to balance their responsibilities to their jobs and their families. He would talk about the need for Congressional action on child care, harken to the Casey Foundation's report which came out this week stressing the urgency of child care needs, and make two announcements aimed at giving mothers greater peace of mind about child care: (1) the release of Department of Justice guidelines for screening child care workers and other caregivers -- designed to reduce the incidence of abuse by care providers; and (2) the release of two HHS items: a report documenting model consumer education efforts and underscoring the critical importance of getting good information to parents on child care, and a check list for parents of questions to ask and things to look for in finding high quality child care.

Elena,

The meeting with high-tech human resources VPs went well. Sally clearly communicated our desire to work with them to develop legislative language that meets our goals (targeting to skill shortages and protecting U.S. workers), while not being either too burdensome on employers or too difficult for DOL to administer. The companies have agreed to try to draft some language (particularly on the lay-off and job contractor provisions) that would both capture the bad actors and work effeciently for the good actors.

Many in the room seemed to agree with our goals, but appear to be looking for confidence on the details.

The last I knew, House Judiciary mark-up is scheduled for next Wed. The Abraham bill may still go to the floor next week.

TEXT:

The event is Thursday from 1-2 p.m. in room 450. Program includes: HHS Asst Secretary Olivia Golden, Secretaries Alexis Herman and Rodney Slater, Senator Specter, and Congressman Danny Davis. Two Congressional participants were chosen in consultation with Jeff Forbes -- Specter is key appropriator and offered Senate amendment (along with Santorum and Moseley-Braun) to increase Access to Jobs; Davis offered House amendment. Olivia will open and frame issue for 5 minutes, everyone else as 10 minutes to speak. Main goal is to raise visibility for the appropriations process. There not be Q&A during the program, but press will be able to speak to agency officials informally afterwards. We should have about 100 people attending including about a dozen Hill staff, lots of state and local organizations representing welfare, workforce, and transportation issues, community-based organizations, representatives from a number of state and local agencies.

Handouts will include: one-pager on Access to Jobs (what it is, why we need it), one pager summarizing two welfare to work transportation examples which show the need for transportation and how Access to Jobs could help (1. former welfare recipient who now runs a business operating a van to transport other welfare recipients in Anne Arundel and 2. bus link from Camden, NJ to UPS facility at Philadelphia airport). Former recipients from each place, representative from UPS, and asst director of Anne Arundel will also be in the audience and available for press to talk with afterwards.

Proposed below, very roughly, is an agenda for our Benchmarking meeting on Friday, and the individuals expected to respond initially to a given issue. I would appreciate your comments on it -- including order, what to add, leave out, or change, so that we can have a productive meeting on Friday. Thank you.

AGENDA

-- Background: Legislative Update on Status of ISTEPA (Leg Affairs, Nancy McFadden)

-- Background: Status Update on DOT's Final Regs -- expected completion and expected release date (Nancy McFadden)

-- Background: Justice Department Developments (they are being pushed on getting the new regs implemented, I am told) (Justice folks)

-- Background: Status of SBA's ramp-up of new certification process (Richard Hayes)

-- Finality of Regs: Any outstanding issues? -- are benchmarks completed? is there agreement on content? [Note: any disagreement about needed content changes should not be hashed out at this meeting, but rather noted, and resolved at future meetings between necessary people]

-- Timing: When should we release them given the background info above? What other events (e.g., VP's announcements) might we link with?

-- Roll-out Strategy: Assignment of responsibilities for Talking Points, briefings, overall message, etc.

-- Other?

Q: Do recent events -- the tobacco settlement in Texas or the release of documents showing some companies were marketing to children -- diminish the need for legislation or the chance that it would get passed?

A: No. It is a good sign that industry is being held accountable for the harms it has caused, and that we are getting information out about how the industry has hurt children. That should serve as still further impetus for comprehensive legislation. We need a comprehensive system of penalties to make sure companies reduce teen smoking; we need the FDA to have authority over tobacco products to protect our health; and we need to make sure tobacco companies don't market to children. I think all the attention from these events makes it clear why we need a national solution, and why it's so important to get it done soon.

Q: Lawyers in both Texas and Florida have asked for obscene amounts of money for their role in bringing about settlements with the tobacco industry. Will you support a provision in national legislation to limit fees for lawyers?

A: I'm primarily concerned with ensuring that tobacco legislation reduces youth smoking and protects the public health -- not with collecting and distributing money from a settlement. The lawyers who brought these suits have expended lots of time and effort, and deserve to be well recompensed for their work. But everyone agrees that fees shouldn't be out of proportion to the work that was done.

DRAFT -- NOT FOR RELEASE

March 31, 2010 (Senate)

S. 1723 - American Competitiveness Act
(Abraham (R) Michigan and 15 cosponsors)

S.1723, "The American Competitiveness Act," is intended to respond to a reported skills shortage in the information technology industry by increasing the annual cap on the number of temporary visas for foreign "specialty" workers under the H-1B program. For the reasons outlined below, the Administration strongly opposes Senate passage of S. 1723. If S. 1723 were passed by the Congress and presented to the President, the Secretary of Labor would recommend that he veto the bill.

Regrettably, S.1723 emphasizes providing opportunities for foreign workers rather than providing opportunities for and protecting U.S. workers. The bill's temporary increase in the annual number of H-1B visas is too large (up to 115,000) and lasts too long (5 years). In addition, the bill does not help ensure that U.S. workers do not lose their jobs to temporary foreign workers and that qualified U.S. workers have the opportunity to fill a job before a temporary foreign worker is hired. Moreover, rather than strengthening program requirements and enforcement to prevent employer abuses of the H-1B program, S.1723 undermines some of the program's important enforcement provisions.

Since 1993 the Administration has sought reforms of the H-1B program, including requiring employers to make bona fide efforts to recruit and retain U.S. workers before hiring temporary foreign workers and prohibiting lay-offs of U.S. workers to replace them with foreign temporary workers. These reforms, if enacted, would help target H-1B usage to industries and employers that are experiencing skill shortages.

Also, the Administration believes that the first step in increasing the availability of skilled workers for industry must be increasing the skills of U.S. workers and helping the labor market work better to match employers with U.S. workers. Although S.1723 includes an authorization for a scholarship fund and a small fund to train dislocated workers, the Administration believes that increased training opportunities for U.S. workers should be funded through an H-1B application fee paid by employers.

Substantial additional efforts by industry to increase the skill level of U.S. workers and needed improvements in the H-1B program are necessary prerequisites for the Administration to support any short-term increase in the number of H-1B visas available for temporary foreign workers. The Administration wants to work with the Congress to develop a bill that addresses the growing demand for highly skilled workers, while effectively protecting and promoting the interests of U.S. workers and enhancing the international competitiveness of important U.S. industries.

Elena,

FYI. According to Bob Bach, the State Dept. has issued approximately 64,000 H1B visas as of today. They have enough applications in the pipeline that by tomorrow, they will have reached the cap. INS is issuing a notice of reaching the cap and that b/c their statute requires that once they run out of visas they must deny additional applications, they would advise employers not to file new applications until further notice.

As you know the PIR May Advisory Board meeting on Race, Crime and the Administration of Justice is taking place on May 19. Attached is a list of possible participants. Additional names were suggested to us; these are our top contenders.

We need one presenter for the factual overview and about 8 roundtable panelists. Keeping in mind our need for gender and racial diversity, please let me know if there are any panelists you think we should eliminate or that we should definitely pursue by COB tomorrow, Thursday, May 7.

Thanks for your input. --Jacinta===== ATTACHMENT 1 =====

DRAFT Statement by the President

I commend Representatives Hansen and Meehan for their hard work to put together a strong, bipartisan comprehensive tobacco bill designed to reduce youth smoking in this country. The Hansen-Meehan bill contains a substantial price increase, strong industry and company penalties for failure to reduce youth smoking, full FDA authority to regulate tobacco, strong restrictions on advertising and youth marketing of tobacco products, and strong protections against exposure to environmental tobacco smoke. I look forward to working with them to ensure that their legislation adequately protects tobacco farmers and to pass a comprehensive tobacco bill this year.
