Now to subject immediately at hand. How was the Tuesday unity event resolved as it relates to announcements? Is PBOR, as well as Medicare buy-in included? Any other health items. Should we pursue a Monday, leak for Tuesday strategy?

Give me a call or a page. Thanks.

Welfare to Work Reauthorization -- Proposed Provisions
(See italics for issues where your reaction would be particularly helpful)

Responsible Fathers Initiative

- Funding Flow: Require states to use at least 20% of their formula funds for services to help non-custodial parents increase their employment and child support.

We think it makes sense to include the funding for Fathers as part of the WtW formula grant rather than a separate funding stream--do you agree? It ensures a significant amount of resources and attention are focused on this population without creating yet another employment program (after we worked so hard to consolidate in the Workforce Investment Act). The downside is that it may be slightly harder to talk about.

This is also a clever resolution of the substate funding options we raised previously. Governors could choose whether to meet the 20% floor with a few concentrated projects or to pass this requirement down to every local PIC. A Governor who does not want to have a statewide fathers initiative could spend most or all of the Governor's 15% discretionary funds on fathers and make up the remaining amount by encouraging one or two localities to focus on fathers (not every PIC is ready or willing to have a fathers program). On the other hand, states such as MI, WI, and MO who have made non-custodial parents the primary focus of their WtW formula program could still do so.

Options for what happens if state does not meet the 20% floor for fathers could include: a) allow Governor to redirect funds to basic WtW services for hard-to-serve recipients, b) take back funds and put in same pot as unclaimed formula funds (see below), c) give to other states who commit to spend these funds on fathers. Any preference?

- Eligibility: Generally, low income non-custodial parents (primarily fathers) who enter into a personal responsibility contract. States would have some flexibility to target services among the following groups, listed in priority order. Eligibility would be tied to status of the children rather than the parent.

Non-custodial parents of:

- (1) children on public assistance for over 30 months or who are within 12 months of hitting a time limit;
- (2) child eligible for TANF;
- (3) child who left TANF within one year;
- (4) child eligible for food stamps or Medicaid (this would allow services to a broader population of low-income fathers).

We think this approach would keep eligibility relatively simple, while targeting services to fathers who are most likely to need help increasing their employment and child support and whose children are most in need of their fathers' support. If you support this basic approach, we will work further with DOL and HHS to refine the details.

Personal Responsibility Contract: Every father would sign a personal responsibility contract requiring them to establish paternity, pay child support, and work or participate in community service or another work activity in order to participate in the program. We need to decide how prescriptive to be in the statute -- we're inclined to make a general statement like the sentence above and let the rest be defined in regs or by the locals. What do you think?

We would also propose these state options. What do you think?

If a father is in community service or another work activity and temporarily unable to pay current support, the state could have the option to temporarily suspend or reduce current child support obligation (not past due support).

If a father has another child out of wedlock, the state would have the option to deny him services. This would be consistent with the state option on family cap, which is a roughly parallel policy for the moms.

If a father marries the mother of his child, the state could cancel or suspend the child support debts the father owed the State for past TANF payments to the mother.

- Allowable Activities: Use the same list as the current WtW statute, which allows funds to be used to move individuals into and keep individuals in lasting unsubsidized employment through: community service or work experience; job creation through public or private sector wage subsidies; on the job training; job readiness, placement, and post-placement services through contracts or vouchers; and job retention or support services if not otherwise available.

Through regulation or guidance, DOL could explain how a broader array of services to help fathers work and meet their child support responsibilities could be provided within the definition of job readiness and support services. Child support agencies and community and faith-based providers could deliver some or all of the services under contract with the state (in the case of 15% discretionary funds) or PICs (in the case of 85% formula funds). We think this approach will promote a strong focus on work, and avoid opening the statutory definition of allowable activities. Do you agree with this approach?

- Performance Measures: Use current WtW measures listed in the statute (employment, retention, earnings gain) and use the existing statutory authority for the Secretary to identify other measures as appropriate to add increased child support via regulations. Is this okay, or would you prefer a statutory change?
- State Plan: There would be a special part of the State WtW plan focused on fathers developed jointly with the workforce, child support and TANF agencies. It would document how the state planned to meet the 20% floor, and how it would ensure strong, ongoing coordination with the child support system, welfare agency, and community and faith-based groups working on fathers issues at both the state and service delivery level. DOL proposed that the child support agency sign off on the WtW plan to ensure adequate attention to issues related to non-custodial parents. This seems to make sense.

Other WtW Reauthorization Proposals

- Duration: DOL has proposed 5 year reauthorization. Are we supporting only a one year extension or multi-year reauthorization?
- Hard-to-Serve Eligibility Criteria: Retain the general focus on the hardest to serve, with some changes to make the criteria less burdensome. Currently, PICs must spend at least 70% of their funds on individual who (a) have been on public assistance for at least 30 months or are within 12 months of hitting a time limit and (b) have 2 of the 3 following barriers:
  - (1) lack a HS diploma/GED and have low math or reading skills;
  - (2) require substance abuse treatment; or
  - (3) have a poor work history.

Non-custodial parents whose children meet (a) and themselves meet (b) are also eligible.

PICs can also spend up to 30% of their funds on custodial or non-custodial parents who have characteristics associated with long-term welfare dependency, i.e. school dropout, teen pregnancy, poor work history.

DOL has proposed simplifying eligibility by requiring individuals to meet one rather than two of the “barriers” under the 70% category; decoupling the education barrier to be either lacking a HS diploma/GED or having low math, reading, or language skills; and adding physical or mental (including learning) disability to the list of “barriers”. DOL also proposed getting rid of the 70/30 split and allowing local flexibility to spend an unlimited portion of funds on those with characteristics associated with long term welfare dependence.

There have been lots of complaints from states and locals about how hard it is to find people who meet the current 70% criteria, with most concern about the “and” in the education barrier. We think that simplifying the 70% eligibility requirements as proposed, but leaving the 70/30 split intact, will go a long way to addressing these concerns without diluting the focus on the long-term/hard to serve population. The addition of language skills should help highlight the ESL issue. DOL also proposed adding homeless to the list of barriers but we’re not convinced this is necessary--most homeless welfare recipients are likely to have one of the other barriers.

- Unclaimed Formula Funds: Add authority for DOL to make formula funds not accepted by states available to Native American WtW programs and/or for additional competitive grants, with preference to tribes or competitive grants in the states who chose not to accept formula funds. DOL is still working through the mechanics, but we think the intent makes sense--to make sure services are still available to people in a given area, even if the Governor opts not to accept funds.
- Tribal Set-Aside: Increase set-aside for tribal grants from 1% of total funds to either 2% or 3% (if funding level drops from $1.5 B to $1.0 B, a 3% set aside would double the funds available to tribes). Tribes would be encouraged to serve non-custodial parents, but would not be required to spend at least 20% of their grant on this population.

- Tribal Authority for Competitive Grants: Provide new authority for tribes to apply directly to DOL for competitive grants. Currently they must do so “in connection with” other entities, i.e. the local PIC.
- Reporting and Evaluation: DOL wants to move responsibility for all WtW program reporting and evaluation to DOL. Current law earmarks .06% ($18 M over two years) for evaluation and gives HHS responsibility for conducting the WtW evaluation and for collecting program data from formula grantees, while DOL has overall administrative responsibility, collects program data from competitive grantees, and financial data from both formula and competitive grantees.

This ‘bifurcated’ system has been challenging for all involved. We’re not sure how HHS would feel about losing this responsibility, and there are some on the Hill who deliberately gave HHS this role. We propose to leave the evaluation with HHS. Do you have a preference?

- Match: Retain current formula grant match requirement of $1 non-federal for $2 federal. Regulations allow up to 50% of non-federal match to be “soft” or in-kind match. DOL has proposed increasing this to 75%.

DOL is responding to complaints from some states who are having trouble making the match. We’re not convinced reducing the “hard” match requirement is warranted, especially if the total funding level for formula grants is reduced by approximately one-third as the total funding level decreases from $1.5 B to $1.0 B.

- Technical Assistance and Research: DOL has proposed reserving 2% of total funds for national TA and R&D projects ($20 M). Half of this money ($10 M) would be focused on fathers initiatives, of which about $5 M would be directed to the OCSE to ensure a strong focus on parental responsibility through child support and paternity. DOL currently has no WtW funds for TA/Research. We’re not sure OMB supports this, though some TA does seem warranted, especially on the new fathers component. OCSE is sending over additional justification.
- Formula/Competitive Split: Retain current split of about 75% for formula grants to states and 25% for competitive grants. Retain requirement that 85% of formula funds get passed to local PICs/workforce boards (unless state requests a waiver) and 15% is available as Governor’s discretionary funds for special projects to help long term welfare recipients become employed.

NOTE: DOL continues to propose that up to one-third of the formula funds could be used to upgrade the skills of low-wage incumbent workers. We’re not aware of any support within EOP for this proposal, and DOL has wisely made it their third priority (after hard-to-serve welfare recipients and fathers).

PRESIDENT CLINTON AND VICE PRESIDENT GORE UNVEIL HISTORIC LONG-TERM CARE INITIATIVE TO SUPPORT FAMILY CAREGIVERS AND HELP ADDRESS GROWING LONG-TERM CARE NEEDS

January 4, 1999

Today, President Clinton is unveiling an historic new initiative to support Americans with long-term care needs and the millions of family members who care for them. This four-part, $6.2 billion (over five years) initiative takes important steps to address complex long-term care needs through: (1) an unprecedented $1,000 tax credit that compensates, for formal or informal costs, Americans of all ages with long-term care needs or the family caregivers who support them; (2) a new National Family Caregivers Support Program that provides a range of critical services for caregivers such as respite, home care services, and information and referral; (3) a national campaign to educate Medicare beneficiaries about the programs' limited coverage and how best to evaluate long-term care options; and (4) a proposal to have the Federal government serve as a model employer by offering quality private long-term care insurance to Federal employees at group rates.

The President will be joined by First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton, Secretary Rubin, Secretary Shalala, and OPM Director LaChance to unveil this initiative at the White House. The Vice President and Mrs. Gore are participating from an adult day care center in California, one of four states with model statewide family caregiving resource programs.

MILLIONS OF AMERICANS HAVE LONG-TERM CARE NEEDS

More and more Americans have a range of long-term care needs. Over five million Americans have significant limitations due to illness or disability and thus require long-term care. Approximately two-thirds are older Americans. Also, millions of adults and a growing number of children have long-term care needs because of health conditions from birth or a chronic illness developed later in life.

The aging of Americans will only increase the need for quality long-term care options. The number of Americans age 65 years or older will double by 2030 (from 34.3 to 69.4 million), so that one in five Americans will be elderly. The number of people 85 years or older, nearly half of whom need assistance with everyday activities, will grow even faster (from 4.0 to 8.4 million).

MULTI-FACETED INITIATIVE TO SUPPORT FAMILY CAREGIVERS AND ADDRESS GROWING LONG TERM CARE NEEDS. The President is unveiling a four-part initiative that is designed to address the broad-based and varied long-term care needs. It will: (1) provide immediate support and assistance for the millions of Americans who care for family members with major long-term care needs; (2) educate the elderly and people with disabilities about long-term care issues and options; and (3) promote new promising strategy directions for long-term care policy for the twenty-first century. The President is also asking the Vice President to host a series of forums around the nation to raise awareness about the need to support family caregivers and address the growing need for long-term care options.

The long-term care proposal being unveiled today by the President and Vice President includes:

Supporting families with long-term care needs through an historic $1,000 tax credit. This initiative, for the first time, acknowledges and supports millions of Americans with long-term care needs or the family members who care for and house their ill or disabled relatives through a $1,000 tax credit. This new tax credit supports the diverse needs of families by compensating a wide range of formal or informal long-term care for people of all ages with three or more limitations in activities of daily living (ADLs) or a comparable cognitive impairment. This proposal, which supports rather than supplants family caregiving, would provide needed financial support to about 2 million Americans, including 1.2 million older Americans, over 500,000 non-elderly adults, and approximately 250,000 children. It costs $5.5 billion over five years and phases out beginning at $110,000 for couples and $75,000 for unmarried taxpayers.

Creating an unprecedented National Family Caregiver Support Program. Recent studies have found that services like respite care can relieve caregiver stress and delay nursing home entry, and that support for families of Alzheimer's disease patients can delay institutionalization for as long as a year. This new nationwide program, strongly advocated by the Vice President, would support families who care for elderly relatives with chronic illnesses or disabilities by enabling states to create "one-stop-shops" that provide: quality respite care and other support services; critical information about community-based long-term services that best meet a families' needs; and counseling and support, such as teaching model approaches for caregivers that are coping with new responsibilities and offering training for complex care needs, such as feeding tubes. This program, which costs $625 million over five years, would assist approximately 250,000 families nationwide.

Launching a national campaign to educate Medicare beneficiaries about the programs' limited coverage of long-term care and how best to evaluate their options. Nearly 60 percent of Medicare beneficiaries are unaware that Medicare does not cover most long-term care, and many do not know what long-term care services would best meet their needs. This $10 million nationwide campaign would provide all 39 million Medicare beneficiaries with critical information about long-term care options including: what long-term care Medicare does and does not cover; how to find out about Medicaid long-term care coverage; what to look for in a quality private long-term care policy; and how to access information about home-and community-based care services that best fit beneficiaries' needs.

Having the Federal government serve as a model employer by offering quality private long-term care insurance to Federal employees. The President will also call on Congress to pass a new proposal that allows OPM to use its market leverage and set a national example by offering non-subsidized, quality private long-term care insurance to all federal employees, retirees, and their families at group rates. This proposal, that costs $15 million over five years, will provide employers a nationwide model for offering quality long-term care insurance. OPM anticipates that approximately 300,000 Federal employees would participate in this program.

Pay Equity Initiative

Automated Records Management System

Hex-Dump Conversion

On April 2, 1998, the President issued a proclamation designating National Equal Pay Day in which he urged all employers to review their wage practices and to ensure that all their employees, including women, are paid equitably for their work. The typical woman who works full-time earns just 74 cents for each dollar that the typical man earns. This gap is in part attributable to differing levels of experience, education, and skill. However, even after accounting for these factors a significant pay gap still remains between men and women in similar jobs.

To address this problem, the President's FY 2000 budget proposes a $14 million pay equity initiative to focus additional resources on providing employers with the necessary tools to assess and improve their pay policies, and educating the public (including employers, employees, unions, and advocacy groups) on the importance of this issue as well as their rights and responsibilities. Specifically the budget requests:

- ◆ $10 million (4 FTE) for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's (EEOC) wage discrimination initiative which will:
  - provide necessary training of enforcement staff in identifying wage discrimination cases;
  - increase outreach, education, and technical assistance including funding public service announcements to educate the public on the importance of this issue as well as their rights and responsibilities, and developing training programs for employers, employees, unions and advocacy groups on pay issues; and,
  - fund research on how pay disparities arise and where they are most prevalent in order to better target resources in the future.
- ◆ $4 million (20 FTE) for the Labor Department's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs' (OFCCP) pay equity initiative, which is part of its overall initiative to increase compliance through enhanced compliance assistance. The pay equity initiative will:
  - continue monitoring of pay equity to reduce occupational segregation and to assure that appropriate criteria are used for setting salaries for women, minorities, and persons with disabilities;
  - provide enhanced technical assistance through technology, specifically by developing and providing guidelines via the Internet that address pay issues, including industry best practices;
  - increase outreach and education efforts, such as research and public education grants on corporate management reviews (glass ceiling reviews), as well as technical and educational brochures that will keep the public informed about the various OFCCP requirements; and,
  - provide a focused effort on women in non-traditional jobs which will challenge discrimination by identifying best practices and assisting contractors in identifying resources for recruiting and developing qualified individuals in non-traditional occupations thereby improving women's access to and experiences in non-traditional occupations.

Draft 1/4/99 7:30 pm
Lowell Weiss/ June Shih

PRESIDENT WILLIAM J. CLINTON
REMARKS ON BREAKING THE CYCLE OF DRUGS AND CRIME
THE WHITE HOUSE
January 5, 1999

Acknowledge: Atty. Gen. Reno, Gen. McCaffrey, Lt. Gov. Townsend. I want to thank her for pioneering a tough program of drug treatment and testing in her state that has been an inspiration for our efforts today.

Six years ago, America was at peace, but many of our communities were at war. Illegal drugs were ravaging cities on both coasts and in the American heartland in between. Crack and methamphetamine use were at near-epidemic levels. Drug dealers who controlled whole neighborhoods thought nothing of opening fire on passing police cars. Too many communities lived in terror. Too many children feared they would not live to march in their high school graduations.

I took office determined to give all those children back their futures and all those communities back their peace of mind. In every successive year of my presidency, I have proposed and passed the largest anti-drug budget ever. Between 1996 and 1999 alone, we have increased funding for anti-drug efforts by more than 30% -- even as we produced the first balanced budget in a generation. And under the leadership of Gen. McCaffrey, we have put these resources to very good use: Unprecedented new tools for domestic law enforcement. Unprecedented new campaigns to convince young people that drugs kill. Unprecedented new efforts to stem the flow of drugs across our borders. Unprecedented new efforts to stop the revolving door between prison and the street, between drug use and criminal activity.

As you've heard from Gens. Reno and McCaffrey, our strategy is working. Not only do we have the lowest crime rates in 25 years. At long last, overall drug use is falling. Even drug-use among young people is beginning to decline.

But now is not a time to rest. Now is the time to work harder than ever to build on these very encouraging trends. At this time of prosperity, we have the resources, the proven strategies, and the confidence to make this new year the best year ever for reducing drugs and crime.

I believe that there is no better way to meet this ambitious goal than to expand our efforts to force our prisoners to make a clean break from drugs. Today, we are releasing a new study by the Department of Justice that offers more convincing evidence that drug use stokes all types of crime, from property crimes like burglary and auto theft to violent crimes like assault and murder. It shows that one in six offenders landed in prison for a crime he committed just to get money for drugs...that nearly a third of all prisoners were using drugs at the time they committed their crimes...and that more than 80% of all prisoners have a history of drug abuse. There is no question that if we are to continue reducing the rate of crime, we cannot afford to continue releasing criminals with their dangerous drug habits intact.

As you have heard from Gens. Reno and McCaffrey, we have already done much to expand drug-testing and treatment in federal prisons and to encourage states to do the same. But today, we will make a quantum leap forward. I am proud to announce that the balanced budget I will submit to Congress will contain a $215 million zero-tolerance drug-supervision initiative, our nation's most comprehensive effort ever to test and treat not only criminals in prison, but also those out on probation and parole. To inmates in every state we will say: If you stay on drugs, then you'll stay behind bars. And to probationers and parolees the message will be equally clear: If you want to keep your freedom, you have to keep free of drugs.

Through this initiative, we will also expand our efforts to help communities build and administer drug courts. As you have heard from Gen. Reno, drug courts are one of the most effective ways of making offenders give up both drugs and a life of crime. When I took office there were four drug courts in operation, including the one Gen. Reno launched in Miami. Today, there are more than 400. And if my budget proposal is approved by Congress, we can have more than a thousand up and running by the end of next year.

I am also proud to announce that on top of these new budget proposals, we will free up another $120 million for drug-free prison initiatives this year -- to help eight states purge their prisons of drugs with advanced new technologies.

In these final years of the 20th century, America made tremendous progress in our efforts to free our children and our communities from the dangerous threat of drugs and crime. Now, as we begin a new century, we have a remarkable opportunity to use the power of the courts, prisons, prosecutors, probation officers, and police to break the drug habits of our prisoners -- and break the cycle of drugs and crime once, and for all time. Let us seize it. Thank you and God bless you.

Zero Tolerance Drug Supervision Event
January 5, 1999
Questions and Answers

Q. What more can you tell us about the Justice Department report released today?

A. The President highlighted key findings of the report on prisoner drug use, including:

Vast majority of all prisoners report drug use. In 1997, 83 percent of state prisoners and 73 percent of federal prisoners reported past drug use -- considerably more than the 21 percent of state prisoners and 60 percent of federal prisoners who are serving time for drug offenses. In addition, 57 percent of state prisoners and 45 percent of federal prisoners reported using drugs in the month before their arrest.

Many prisoners commit crimes to buy drugs or while high. Nearly 20 percent of state prisoners and 15 percent of federal inmates reported committing their offense to get money to buy drugs. And 33 percent of state prisoners and 22 percent of federal prisoners were actually under the influence of drugs at the time of their offense.

Drug offenders have long "rap sheets." State prisoners serving sentences for drug offenses reported extensive criminal histories: 76 percent had been previously sentenced to prison or probation; 54 percent were on probation or parole at the time of their arrest; 45 percent had three or more prior sentences; and 23 percent had previously committed a violent crime. Although federal drug offenders generally reported less severe criminal histories, 59 percent had prior criminal records.

However, the report makes other significant findings, such as:

Prisoners report significant alcohol use. About 37 percent of state prisoners and 20 percent of federal inmates committed their offense under the influence of alcohol. About 40 percent of state and 30 percent of federal prisoners reported a prior binge drinking experience. In addition, over 40 percent of both state and federal inmates had driven drunk in the past.

Smaller portion of prison population receiving treatment. The percentage of prisoners participating in drug treatment since admission declined between 1991 and 1997: from 24 percent to 9.7 percent for state inmates; and from 15.7 percent to 9.2 percent for federal inmates. However, between 1991 and 1997, prisoner participation in other drug abuse programs (e.g., peer groups, self-help) grew -- from 15.5 percent to 20.3 percent for state inmates, and doubled for federal prisoners, from 10 percent to 20 percent.

[Additional questions about the report's findings should be forwarded to the Office of Justice Program's Bureau of Justice Statistics.]

Q. The Administration cites in its accomplishments that it has increased drug testing and treatment in the federal prisons, but the Justice Department report suggests a decrease in inmate treatment since 1991. How do you explain this contradiction?

A. We have definitely increased the number of federal inmates that are drug tested and treated. The 1994 Crime Act mandated that, by the end of FY 1997, all federal prisoners eligible for residential drug treatment should receive such treatment. As a result, by 1998, the Federal Bureau of Prisons was conducting about 30,000 more drug tests per year and providing residential drug treatment to four times as many prisoners. The number of inmates participating in other types of drug abuse and education programs also increased during this time.

However, these increases may not have kept pace with the rapid growth in the prison population during that same period. In fact, between 1991 and 1997, the federal prison population grew by well over 50 percent (from 71,000 to about 113,000). Thus, even while more treatment slots were being made available -- and more prisoners were participating in other drug abuse and education programs -- the overall percentage in treatment may have declined.

Finally, it should be noted that the Justice Department report includes a disclaimer saying that -- because the likelihood of receiving treatment increases as a prisoner's release date approaches -- it may have underestimated the total number of prisoners who will ultimately receive drug treatment.

Q. What will the overall increase in funding be for drug testing and treatment as a result of this new initiative?

A. The "zero tolerance" drug supervision initiative represents a funding enhancement of $112 million for FY 2000. This includes: $100 million in new funds for states and localities to drug test and treat prisoners, parolees, and probationers; an increase of $10 million for additional drug courts (from $40 to $50 million); and an increase of $2 million for the residential drug treatment in state prisons (from $63 million to $65 million).

Q. What is the average cost of a drug test?

A. The Federal Bureau of Prisons spends less than $9.00 per drug test for the nearly 130,000 drug tests it conducted last year. Costs can vary depending on the number of drugs tested for, procedural requirements, and the number of tests needed -- lower quantities will cost more.

Q. Is overall drug use increasing or decreasing? And how does it compare to the statistics contained in today's report on prisoner drug use?

- A. According to the most recent National Household Survey on Drug Abuse, there were 13.9 million current drug users in 1997 -- or about half the number of drug users during the peak year of 1979. These nearly 14 million drug users represent about 6 percent of the American population age 12 and older, and the number has remained roughly flat since 1992.

By comparison, current drug use by prisoners has increased since 1991, and ranges between 5 to 10 times greater than the overall population. Current drug use by state prisoners increased from 50 percent to 57 percent between 1991 and 1997, and from 32 percent to 45 percent for federal inmates during the same period.

Q. But isn't youth drug use increasing?

- A. Not according to the most recent study released by the Department of Health and Human Services. The 1998 Monitoring the Future Survey showed that for the second year in a row, youth drug use, in nearly every category, has either decreased or leveled off among 8th, 10th, and 12th graders. Specifically, marijuana use -- the most widely used drug by teens -- appears to have leveled off, with declines reported for the second year. Just as importantly, youth attitudes toward drugs appear to be turning around, with more young people viewing marijuana use as risky behavior.

So, while teen drug use remains unacceptably high -- and considerably higher than its low point in 1991 -- we are encouraged by these positive trends.
