Q. If federal employees in the Executive Branch are subject to drug testing, why isn't the President also subject to tests?

A. The reason the President is not subject to drug testing is the same reason that Members of Congress are also not tested: since they serve at the will of the people who elected them -- and not any other "employer"-- they could not be removed from their positions for failing a drug test. This policy could be changed for Members of Congress and the President, but it would require Congressional action.

Gun Litigation
Question and Answer
January 5, 1999

- Q. What is your response to the collective efforts to sue the gun industry cited in today's Washington Post? Will the Administration take a strong position on this issue as it did in the tobacco litigation?
- A. As the President said last November when Chicago filed its lawsuit, he will be watching this and other lawsuits closely. He was particularly intrigued by the Chicago case which alleged widespread illegal practices by gun dealers. Although we know that legitimate gun dealers make every effort to comply with the law, if these charges are proven true, it would demonstrate that at least some parts of the gun industry are helping to promote an illegal market in firearms. Such disrespect of our law -- by gun dealers or gun manufacturers -- endangers our people. We will continue to track the progress of these lawsuits.

DRAFT -- January 4, 1998

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: Bruce Reed

SUBJ: Secretary Shalala's Report on State Welfare Spending

The attached memo from Secretary Shalala provides a useful update on state welfare reform spending trends. While this is a preliminary snapshot of spending, the analysis shows that through June 1998 states spent only about three-quarters of available funds, leaving about $3 billion unobligated. There is growing concern among states and some advocates that these surpluses may make TANF an attractive target for budget savings. Others worry that states are not doing enough to invest in welfare reform, although, even with these savings states are actually spending more per person than before reform while spending less overall due to caseload declines. On the other hand, these surpluses, which can be carried over from year to year, will help provide assistance to additional families if needed during an economic downturn.

To identify the reasons for these trends, HHS surveyed the 12 states with the lowest obligation rates, which together account for 80% of the total unobligated funds (CA, FL, KA, LA, MN, NJ, NY, OK, PA, WA, WV, WI). Key factors identified by the states include:

- 1) Unexpectedly large caseload reductions provided states with unforeseen funds which they have not yet spent. For example, Minnesota, anticipating caseload increases due to expanded eligibility rules, had actually cut back on some support services. In light of unanticipated caseload reductions, the state plans to increase these services.
- 2) Early stages of TANF implementation. Many fiscal and policy decisions made by Governors and state legislators had not taken effect as of last June. For example, California's new law did not take effect until January 1998, which means counties didn't start bringing large numbers of people into the program and spending new funds until mid- to late-1998.
- 3) Saving for possible economic downturns. States are saving money in rainy day funds to ensure they have adequate resources to meet future spending requirements. For example, Florida's legislature required a $250 million rainy day fund (which represents 43 percent of their FY 1998 block grant). In addition, states are spending state funds before federal funds in order to meet the maintenance of effort requirement. This requirement, which is a fixed percentage of each state's historic spending levels, must be met each year regardless of total spending level while federal money may be carried over to future years.

4) Some states have concrete plans in place for investing TANF resources, while others do not. The Secretary recommends that we continue to send a strong message about the importance of maintaining investments in low-income working families.

The Secretary's report shows that more states are beginning to use their flexibility to transfer funds from TANF to the Social Services Block Grant and the Child Care Block Grant. By the third quarter of FY 1998, twenty-seven states -- or double the number from the prior quarter -- transferred some funds, although the amount transferred is well below the maximum allowed. There are indications from states that these transfers will increase, which should increase overall TANF spending.

While not specifically referenced in Secretary Shalala's report, it is important to remember that caseloads have fallen by more than one-third from the base years used to calculate the TANF block grant, so even if states spend only 75 percent of their block grant funds this year, they are actually investing more per person. GAO estimates that, nationwide, states had nearly 40 percent more federal funds per recipient under TANF in 1997 than they had in the prior year under AFDC.

President Clinton Continues the Fight Against Youth Smoking
1/4 Draft

Last fall, President Clinton declared the $206 billion multi-state tobacco settlement a step in the right direction and said enacting national tobacco legislation to finish the job would be one of his top priorities in the next Congress. In the coming months, he will push a comprehensive agenda to reduce youth smoking and hold the tobacco industry accountable for targeting children.

Reimburse Taxpayers for the National Costs of Tobacco

The $206 billion multi-state settlement with the tobacco industry will reimburse states for tobacco-related medical costs. Now it's time for the federal taxpayers to obtain the same relief.

Costs to Our Armed Forces, Veterans, and Federal Employees. Every year, the Department of Defense, Veterans Affairs, and the Federal Employees Health Benefit Program spend more than $7 billion in tobacco-related health costs for members of the armed forces, veterans, and federal employees who smoke or use tobacco products. Federal taxpayers, like those in the states, deserve reimbursement for these tobacco-related health costs, and this year's budget will include a $.55 per pack tobacco excise tax to pay for these $7-billion-a-year tobacco-related costs.

Costs to Medicare. Tobacco-related health problems cost the Medicare program billions of dollars over the last three decades making it more difficult to preserve and protect Medicare for the 21st century. To recover these losses, the U.S. Department of Justice intends to bring suit against the tobacco industry, and the new FY 2000 budget will contain $20 million to pay for the necessary legal costs. All recoveries will be used to extend the life of the Medicare program for future generations.

Costs to Medicaid. The federal government pays 57 percent of all Medicaid costs and is legally required to collect 57 percent of state Medicaid recoveries, including Medicaid funds recovered through the state tobacco settlements. However, because the federal government and the states share the goals ensuring the health of our nation's families, the Administration would be willing to consider legislation to waive the federal claim for recovery if states agree to spend a portion of their settlement on a negotiated menu of items. Possible menu options include:

- McCain Menu (which was negotiated and agreed to by NGA and the Administration):
1) Maternal and Child Health Bureau's Title V program; 2) Child Care and Development Block Grant; 3) Child welfare programs (Title IV-B); 4) SAMHSA; 5) Safe and Drug Free Schools program; 6) Professional Development (Eisenhower) grants; 7) CHIP matching funds (limited to 6 percent of restricted funds).
- McCain Plus Tobacco Control and Farmer Assistance: Another alternative would be to preserve the McCain list but add tobacco control activities, such as counter-advertising campaigns and state and community based education and prevention programs, and assistance to tobacco farmers and their communities.

- Scaled Back McCain Plus Tobacco Control and Farmer Assistance: A third option would be to pair down the McCain list to four or five programs and add tobacco control and farmer assistance.

Because adopting a menu will require extensive discussions between the states, the Congress, and the Administration, the Administration proposes to allow up to a year to enact this provision.

To pay for this one year delay in recoupment, the President's FY 2000 budget would accelerate a previously enacted $.15 per-pack cigarette excise tax increase. If a menu cannot be agreed to within a year, the Administration plans to withhold Medicaid funds from the states in an amount equal to 57 percent of the state tobacco settlements starting in FY 2000.

Reduce Youth Smoking

Every day, 3,000 children become regular smokers and 1,000 have their lives shortened because of it. Almost 90 percent of adult smokers began smoking by age 18 and today, 4.5 million children aged 12 to 17 -- 37 percent of all high school students -- smoke cigarettes. Tobacco is linked to over 400,000 deaths a year from cancer, respiratory illness, heart disease and other problems. To end this scourge, we must do everything we can to reduce youth smoking. The President has set a goal of cutting youth smoking in half within five years. To do so he proposes:

Reaffirm FDA's Authority to Treat Nicotine Like a Drug. Nicotine is an addictive drug, and it's time for the Congress to recognize that by affirming the Food and Drug Administration's authority over tobacco products. In 1996, the FDA approved a regulation designed to keep young people from smoking before they start by stopping advertising targeted at children and curbing minors' access to tobacco products. Unfortunately, most of the rule's provisions have been blocked in court. Now Congress can take this matter out of the courts by confirming FDA's authority in this area. While the new multi-state tobacco settlement contains many important provisions restricting tobacco marketing, it does not go far enough to protect children. Congress should reaffirm FDA's authority by either:

- Clarifying the definitions of "drug" and "device" to explicitly include tobacco products and clarify FDA's statutory authority to place restrictions on medical device products to explicitly include tobacco advertising, as proposed by Conrad, Harkin/Chafee, and Hansen/Meehan.
- Create a separate chapter in the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act to address tobacco as proposed by McCain/Frist.

In addition, legislation could contain additional restrictions on tobacco advertising that go beyond those contained in the FDA regulation, such as banning the use of human images or cartoons in all tobacco advertising, banning the use of all outdoor advertising of tobacco products, and banning tobacco advertising on the Internet.

Look-Back Surcharges. Strong look-back surcharges will act as an insurance policy to ensure youth smoking declines. Because increasing the price of cigarettes is one of the most effective ways to reduce youth smoking, tobacco legislation should increase per pack tobacco excise taxes if youth smoking is not cut in half within five years. In addition, individual companies could pay a surcharge based on how many underage youth smoke their brands, to provide additional funds to fight youth smoking.

Public Health Funding. The President's FY 2000 budget will include core public health funding to prevent young people from smoking by curbing youth access to tobacco products, sponsoring counter-advertising and other public information campaigns, funding prevention programs in states and local communities, conducting additional research on what works, and monitoring youth behavior through expanded surveys. To fulfill these goals, the President's budget will double the funding for the Food and Drug Administration's tobacco budget to $68 million, increase funding for the Centers for Disease Control's tobacco control efforts from $73 to $100 million, and fund $4 million in research at SAMSHA.

Price. As described above, the Administration proposes to reimburse federal taxpayers for the yearly tobacco-related health costs for the armed forces, veterans, and federal employees. To reimbursing this $7 billion cost, the President's FY 2000 budget proposes to increase the cigarette excise tax by $.55 per-pack. This price increase will have the additional benefit of preventing youth smoking, since young people are particularly sensitive to higher cigarette prices.

Protection for Farmers and Their Communities

As part of a comprehensive plan to reduce youth smoking, the President is committed to protecting farmers and farm communities. Currently, there are on-going discussions between the tobacco industry, the tobacco growers, and the states over proposals for purchase guarantees in which the companies would commit to buy a certain amount of tobacco each year, a possible industry-established trust fund of up to $5.15 billion to help growers adjust as the demand for tobacco declines, and the potential set aside of state settlement funds to assist farmers and their communities.

The President is committed to protecting tobacco farmers and their communities, and he will monitor these efforts closely to ensure they are successful. If needed, the President will consider further measures, such as requiring states to set aside state settlement funds for tobacco farmers and additional surcharges earmarked for farmers if necessary.

Subject: Read-out of stake-out following Crime and Drugs event

Miraculously, today's crime and drugs announcement was the sole topic of discussion at the stake-out (though Sen. Leahy walked out the door of the West Lobby about halfway through the stake-out, and got mobbed by reporters near pebble beach).

General McCaffrey opened the dialogue by giving context on today's announcement. He noted that drug abuse leads to crime and that at least half of those in prison are there for reasons related to drug abuse. He also emphasized that the President announced a 40 percent increase for next year in drug treatment initiatives in the justice system, and that the initiatives announced today will help break the cycle of crime and drugs. Representative Rangel then reflected on his experiences as a prosecutor and echoed General McCaffrey's statements. Maryland Lieutenant Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend then emphasized that we must end the useless debate between treatment and punishment, and said that today's announcement guarantees better results. Laurie Robinson, Assistant Attorney General, Office of Justice Programs, agreed and emphasized that we need to use every opportunity to coerce drug abusers to change behavior linked with crime. Judge Jeffrey Tauber, President, National Association of Drug Courts; and Mayor Jeff Griffin of Reno, NV echoed her comments.

DOJ is on the verge of distributing just over $300 million to all 50 states from the Victims Fund. This is a pretty huge amount and very good from a message perspective -- taking from the law breaking to give to the law-abiding...very Robinhood. They were thinking of announcing it at the AG's availability this Thursday, but might we want to do something instead...either this week, weekend or add to next Thursday's crime roll-out?

Think about it and let me know your thoughts.

Attached is a comprehensive table on abortion provisions in appropriations language that will require policy decisions in order to print the FY 2000 Budget Appendix. Traditionally, the Budget shows the prior year's (i.e., FY 1999 enacted) appropriations language, brackets language proposed for deletion, and italicizes any new or revised language. Note that there is an overlap with the abortion items in the L/HHS General Provisions tracker on health related issues on which you are currently being consulted.

Due to the FY 2000 Budget print schedule, we are requesting your views/comments on these provisions by cob, January 7th. Please let me know by then whether or not you agree with the recommendations in the attached file or if you think we need to meet on any of these provisions.

Please note: the file is a legal size document.

FROM: OMB LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS

DATE: JANUARY 5, 1998

SUBJECT: LEGISLATIVE REPORT

The Senate and House will meet at noon tomorrow, Wednesday January 6, 1999 to convene the 106th Congress.

The Senate Armed Services Committee held a hearing on Readiness Issues today. All Military Department Chiefs testified. A summary of the hearing will be forwarded shortly.

CONGRESS -- THIS WEEK:

SENATE

Senate Democrats are scheduled to caucus in private at 9 a.m. on Jan. 6 in the Capitol, three hours before the Senate convenes. Lott is expected either to call for a similar private caucus or to meet with other GOP leaders Wednesday morning, as well.

The Senate will convene at Noon on January 6. Following the prayer, the Vice President will give the oath of office to new and returning senators in alphabetical order. No legislative business scheduled.

The Senate impeachment trial is still expected to begin next week. Regarding introduction of legislation, the most recent notification to Members was that bills could be introduced on the 19th.

HOUSE

The House is expected to convene at noon on January 6th and following the action discussed below is expected to recess until the State Of The Union on January 19th. The first votes are expected on the 20th.

At noon tomorrow, the House will proceed to a quorum call. Following the quorum call, the House will elect its speaker (Hastert) - then the House members will be sworn in by the new speaker.

Next, the House will consider a rules package which will be debated for one hour and voted en bloc. The rules changes include language allowing the House Government Reform Committee to retain its Census Subcommittee. The proposed rules would also extend the life of the select committee established last year to investigate technology transfers to China. Another provision would authorize the Budget Committee to publish FY99 spending allocation numbers in the Congressional Record that shall be effective in the House as though established by passage of a concurrent budget resolution for FY99".

Finally, the Government Reform & Oversight Committee and the House Oversight Committee would be renamed as the Government Reform Committee and the House Administration Committee, respectively. The rules would revert the National Security Committee back to its former name, the Armed Services Committee.

The House Democrats will offer an alternative rules package. This package is expected to fail on a party line vote. One item in the package would create a new point of order against using any Social Security surplus or any on-budget surplus until Social Security is in actuarial balance.

Also, the House must reappoint the managers of the impeachment trial in the Senate. This may be a part of the Rules package or it may be a separate vote.

House Democrats have a caucus tentatively scheduled for Wednesday morning. House Appropriations Democrats are hoping to appoint members to subcommittees this week but the majority has not yet given the subcommittee ratios. It is therefore on hold until that is finalized.
