President Clinton's 21st Century Policing Initiative January 14, 1999

Today, at the Alexandria Police Department, President Clinton will announce: (1) the release of new crime statistics showing that crime rates will continue to drop significantly in 1998; and (2) the inclusion in the FY 2000 budget of nearly $1.3 billion for a new 21st Century Policing Initiative. The new 21st Century Policing Initiative builds on the President's successful COPS program by helping communities to continue to hire, redeploy, and retain police officers; giving law enforcement access to the latest crime-fighting technologies; and targeting funds to engage the entire community in preventing and fighting crime -- including local prosecutors, probation and parole officers, school officials, faith-based organizations and others in the community.

Crimes Rates Continue to Decline in 1998

- New Mid-year Data for 1998. Today, for the first time, the Justice Department's Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS) released mid-year data showing that crime rates will continue to decline in 1998. According to BJS, the total number of violent crimes -- including crimes not reported to police -- is expected to fall below 3 million in 1998 for the first time since the start of its National Crime Victimization Survey in 1973. Property crimes will also continue to decline to record lows. By the end of 1998, both violent and property crime rates will have fallen by well over 20 percent since 1993.
- Murder rates down dramatically. Recently, BJS also released a study showing that homicide rates have dropped to their lowest level in 30 years. If the current rates remain steady through the end of 1998, the murder rate will have dropped by more than 30 percent since 1993.

Giving Police the Support and Tools They Need

- Renewing the COPS program. The President's FY 2000 budget proposes nearly $1.3 billion -- and $6.375 billion over the next five years -- for a new 21st Century Policing Initiative to help communities build on their efforts under the successful COPS program. Without these new funds, the COPS program would have expired this year, shortly after meeting its goal of helping communities put 100,000 more police on the street. National law enforcement organizations all support extending funding for the COPS program.
- 21st Century Policing Initiative. The 21st Century Policing program is designed to help communities continue to hire, redeploy, and retain police officers; to give law enforcement access to the latest crime-fighting technologies; and to engage the entire community in preventing and fighting crime -- including local prosecutors, probation and parole officers, school officials, faith-based organizations, and many others. Specifically, the initiative, as outlined in the FY 2000 budget, calls for the following investments:
 - $600 million for more police on the street. Similar to the current COPS program, these funds would be used primarily to continue to hire and redeploy an estimated 8,000 police officers each year, with an effort to target these new officers to crime "hot spots." A portion of the funds would also be dedicated to help economically-distressed communities absorb the long-term costs of their new police hires, as well as for special programs to train, educate and recruit police officers.

Automated Records Management System
Hex-Dump Conversion

- $350 million for crime-fighting technologies. These funds would be used to help state and local enforcement agencies tap into new technologies that will allow them to communicate more effectively, solve more crimes, and conduct comprehensive crime analysis. Examples include:

Improved police communications. The World Trade Center and Oklahoma City bombings dramatically illustrated the need for police to communicate effectively in joint operations. In Alexandria, the police department is piloting a number of different technologies (computers, wireless communications, videocams, software, and databases) that will enable police and other public safety officials to communicate and send data and images seamlessly across many jurisdictions. The President's new initiative will allow other communities to do the same, as well as to improve their communications in other ways.

New crime-solving technologies. We can solve many more crimes by improving the nation's overburdened and underfunded crime labs. The President's initiative proposes making high-end technologies -- such as DNA analysis, photo enhancement and voice recognition -- available to even the smallest police departments.

Bolstering Crime Analysis. As more police departments move toward community policing, many have found that their greatest tool is real time crime and arrest data that allows them to put their crime problems into context. A notable example is New York's COMPSTAT project, which utilizes computerized statistics and mapping to analyze crime trends and allocate police resources. The President's new initiative will help local police departments tap into crime mapping and other technologies that will improve police's ability to quickly analyze, respond to and potentially predict local crime problems.

- $200 million for "Neighborhood DAs." As police and community residents have joined forces to fight crime on a proactive basis, communities are turning to local prosecutors to play a more active role in the crime-fighting effort. In Multnomah County, OR, "Neighborhood DAs" work closely with local police, spend time in their neighborhoods, and help solve local crime problems. The President's initiative will help local prosecutors throughout the country to hire more personnel to do the same.

- $125 million for community-wide crime prevention. Finally, the President's 21st Century Policing proposes specifically targeting funds to engage the entire community in preventing and fighting crime. These funds could be used to: work with probation and parole officers in supervising released offenders; work with local school officials in adopting community-wide plans to prevent school violence; involve faith-based organizations in juvenile crime prevention; and establish citizens' police academies that teach neighborhood residents problem-solving skills.

Draft 01/13/99 10:15am

Jeff Shesol

PRESIDENT WILLIAM J. CLINTON

REMARKS ON THE NEXT GENERATION COPS INITIATIVE

ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA

January 14, 1999

Acknowledgments: AG Reno; Alexandria Chief of Police Charles Samarra; Joe Brann, director of COPS program; official TBD; Arlington police officer TBD

For years, police, families, and the victims of violence waged the fight on their own for safe streets and safe homes. Washington sat on the sidelines. Six years ago, we moved to the frontlines -- joining the law enforcement officials we have here today in the fight against crime.

Today I want to talk about the progress we've made in our country's fight against crime and the steps we must take to build on that progress. When I became President, I committed my administration to recovering our nation's streets from crime and violence, to providing security for America's families. It required a new, comprehensive strategy of law enforcement, based simply on what works: on community policing, strong anti-gang efforts, and targeted deterrence; on tougher penalties and smarter prevention.

Our strategy -- from the Crime Bill to the Brady Bill to the assault weapons ban -- is showing remarkable results, as the Attorney General has noted. Since 1993, all across America, crime rates overall have dropped to a 25-year low. Property crime is down; and, as you can see [point to chart], the number of violent crimes has declined 20 percent in the last six years and continues to plummet.

The murder rate, too, is down dramatically, to its lowest level in 30 years, mostly due to the dropping number of youths wielding guns. We can take pride and comfort in this steady progress. Neighborhoods are safer; families are more secure; Americans have a new feeling of freedom.

There are many reasons for the drop in crime in our country: Stricter penalties. . . Stronger efforts to get guns out of the hands of criminals. . . The burning out of the crack epidemic, as the terrible human toll of that destructive drug scares more and more young people away. And, perhaps most important to the peace of mind of our people, the substantial, visible increase in the presence of police on our streets. Across America, you are stepping out of squad cars, joining our communities, protecting our people. To those of you who are out there, putting your lives on the line, America owes you a tremendous debt of gratitude. And I'm pleased to report that ahead of schedule and under budget, we've helped fund more than 92,000 of 100,000 community police -- making us all partners in the fight against crime. I used to say that the number of police had not gone up as the number of crimes had gone up; but now, with more police on the streets and fewer violent crimes, we are turning that around.

America is pressing its advantage in the fight against crime. But no matter how low crime rates go, we can never stop and say they are low enough. There are still too many neighborhoods in America where crime has not fallen as far or as fast as it should. There are still too many officers in the line of fire, where 155 of your colleagues lost their lives in the past year. There is still more work to do, even though the funding for our community policing effort is set to expire after the year 2000.

We know what works in the fight against crime, and it is working in communities across America. But now, we have a chance to focus our efforts on any stubborn pockets of resistance where the criminal culture holds sway. Today, I am announcing that my balanced budget will include nearly $1.3 billion -- an increase of more than $6 billion over 5 years -- to renew and redouble our community police program. That will help hire and re-deploy an additional 50,000 community police officers over that same period. We should refocus our resources -- and the energies of our men and women in blue -- on the high-crime, high-need neighborhoods where we know they can make a difference.

But community policing is not just about putting more officers on the street. It is also about giving our police the 21st Century tools they need to do the job -- crime-fighting, crime-solving, crime-preventing tools. Today, drug dealers communicate by cell phones and pagers. . . Scam artists work the Internet. . . Gangs carry cutting-edge weaponry.

If criminals have the best technology, police should, too. That is why, today, I am proposing that we devote $350 million, paid for in my balanced budget, to put crime-fighting technology into the hands of our police officers. For too long, we have seen some criminals go free because the methods used to gather evidence were not up to date. But when police can report from their squad cars, rather than return to the station to fill out paperwork, they can spend more time on the beat. When officers can track crime as it happens, using innovative crime mapping technology, they can respond more quickly and effectively. Chief Samarra has told us what a difference these new tools make.

Police carry a heavy burden; but we know they cannot carry it alone. There is more we must do to engage the entire community in the fight against crime -- to help win the fight police have been waging so successfully. My balanced budget targets additional funds for community-based crime-fighting -- everything from neighborhood DAs who work closely with police and residents, to faith-based organizations that help prevent juvenile crime.

I have put these programs in our budget; now, I want to do what we did on the Crime Bill, which is to sit down with law enforcement officials and talk about the best ways to make this initiative work. Because together, we can and will make it work.

America is grateful for the hard work of our men and women in uniform. Every day, you make our streets and schools safer, our homes more secure, our people more free. Still, we know you cannot do it alone. By working together and giving you the tools to do your job, we will make this a better and a safer nation in the 21st Century.

TEXT:

PRESIDENT CLINTON AND VICE PRESIDENT GORE UNVEIL NEW INITIATIVE TO IMPROVE ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITIES FOR AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES

January 13, 1999

Today, President Clinton will unveil a historic new initiative that will remove significant barriers for people with disabilities to go back to work. This three-part budget initiative, which invests more than $2 billion over five years, includes: (1) full funding of the Work Incentives Improvement Act which will be introduced by Senators Jeffords, Kennedy, Roth, and Moynihan next week; (2) a new $1,000 tax credit to cover work-related costs for people with disabilities; and (3) expanded access to information and communications technologies. With these new proposals, the Administration will have taken action on every recommendation made in the report of the President's Task Force on the Employment of Adults with Disabilities, which the Vice President accepted last month. Justin Dart, one of the foremost leaders of the disability community, stated in response to today's proposals: "The Clinton-Gore Administration has a long history of supporting the disability community. This policy initiative is one of the boldest since the landmark passage of the ADA."

CRITICAL NEED TO REMOVE BARRIERS TO WORK

Since President Clinton took office, the American economy has added 17.7 million new jobs, and unemployment is at a 29-year low of 4.3 percent. The unemployment rate among all working-age adults with disabilities, however, is nearly 75 percent. According to current estimates, about 1.6 million working-age adults have a disability that leads to functional limitations and 14 million working-age adults have less severe but still significant disabilities.

People with disabilities can bring tremendous energy and talent to the American workforce, but institutional barriers often limit their ability to work. Most critically, people with disabilities often become ineligible for Medicaid or Medicare if they work. This means that many people with disabilities are put in the untenable position of choosing between health care coverage and work. In addition, advances in technology and communications are often not accessible to people with disabilities.

THREE-PART INITIATIVE TO IMPROVE ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITIES FOR AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES

Funding the Work Incentives Improvement Act in the President's budget. Health care -- particularly prescription drugs and personal assistance -- is essential for people with disabilities to work. Today, the President is announcing that his FY 2000 budget will fund the full cost of the Work Incentives Improvement Act. This proposal, which costs $1.2 billion over 5 years, would:

- Improve access to health care by:

-- Expanding states' ability to provide a Medicaid buy-in to people with disabilities who return to work. This provision would enable states to offer the buy-in to people whose assets and/or income exceed current limits. It also would give states the option of offering the buy-in to people with medical conditions, such as rheumatoid arthritis, who do not meet the current

On Monday, we had talked about leaking Child Care Saturday for Sunday. I'd like to put the timing on that on hold for now -- we have a lot of SOTU stories in the works for Sunday and may want to let those stand on our own and do Child Care for Monday.

Can we talk about this tomorrow am?

first, thank you for joining the meeting this morning, especially on such short notice. second, sandy feldman wants to meet with our social security team for a briefing. sweeney thought this would be very good since sandy is very inclined to be helpful. gene, pls feel free to have whoever you want in the meeting ---larry stein would be helpful -- and perhaps bruce may want to join us for at least part of the meeting since he does so much work w/ sandy --- melissa would you set this up probably directly with sandy feldman's office -- gigi georges could give you some guidance.

thanks, all, kt

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release January 14, 1999

TEXT OF A LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT
TO THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE

January 13, 1999

Dear Mr. Speaker: (Dear Mr. President:)

In accordance with the resolution of advice and consent to ratification of the Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Production, Stockpiling and Use of Chemical Weapons and on Their Destruction, adopted by the Senate of the United States on April 24, 1997, I hereby certify in connection with Condition (7) (C) (i), Effectiveness of Australia Group, that:

Australia Group members continue to maintain an equally effective or more comprehensive control over the export of: toxic chemicals and their precursors, dual-use processing equipment, human, animal, and plant pathogens and toxins with potential biological weapons applications, and dual-use biological equipment, as that afforded by the Australia Group as of April 25, 1997; and,

The Australia Group remains a viable mechanism for limiting the spread of chemical and biological weapons-related materials and technology, and the effectiveness of the Australia Group has not been undermined by changes in membership, lack of compliance with common export controls and nonproliferation measures, or the weakening of common controls and nonproliferation measures, in force as of April 25, 1997.

For your information, the Australia Group has not loosened its controls on chemical and biological weapons-related items since the entry into force of the Chemical Weapons Convention.

Sincerely,

WILLIAM J. CLINTON

21st CENTURY POLICING INITIATIVE ANNOUNCEMENT

DATE: January 14, 1999
LOCATION: Alexandria Police Department
BRIEFING TIME: 10:00am - 10:25am
EVENT TIME: 11:05am - 11:50am
FROM: Bruce Reed

I. PURPOSE

To announce to the law enforcement community the inclusion in the FY 2000 budget of nearly $1.3 billion for a new 21st Century Policing Initiative. The new 21st Century Policing Initiative builds on your successful COPS program by helping communities to continue to hire, redeploy, and retain police officers; giving law enforcement access to the latest crime-fighting technologies; and targeting funds to engage the entire community in preventing and fighting crime -- including community, prosecutors, probation and parole officers, school officials, and faith-based organizations. National law enforcement organizations all support extension of the COPS program.

You will also release new crime statistics from the Justice Department showing that crime rates will continue to drop significantly in 1998.

II. BACKGROUND

As you know, your COPS Initiative has helped to fund over 92,000 additional community policing officers and awarded over $5.3 billion in grants to police and sheriff's departments across the nation. Over 11,300 state and local law enforcement agencies receive COPS funds -- more than half of the nation's policing agencies -- which serve nearly 90 percent of the American public. In addition, COPS has helped trained over 21,000 law enforcement officers and community members, and targeted special programs to combat youth firearms violence, gangs, and domestic and school violence. Without new funds, however, the COPS program would be phased out this year, shortly after meeting its goal of helping communities put 100,000 more police on the street.

Your FY 2000 budget proposes nearly $1.3 billion -- and $6.375 billion over five years -- for a new 21st Century Policing Initiative to prevent the COPS program from lapsing and to help communities build on their efforts under the successful COPS. Specifically, it proposes:

Automated Records Management System
Hex-Dump Conversion

- $600 million for more police on the street. These funds would be used primarily to hire and redeploy between 30,000 and 50,000 more law enforcement officers over five years, with an effort to target new police officers to crime “hot spots.” A portion of the funds would also be dedicated to help economically-distressed communities absorb the long-term costs of their new police hires, as well as for special programs to train, educate, and recruit police officers.

- $350 million for crime-fighting technologies. These funds would be used to help state and local enforcement agencies tap into new technologies that will allow them to communicate more effectively, solve more crimes, and conduct comprehensive crime analysis. Examples include:

Improved police communications. The World Trade Center and Oklahoma City bombings dramatically illustrated the need for police to communicate effectively in joint operations. In Alexandria, the police department is piloting a number of different technologies (computers, wireless communications, videocams, software, and databases) that will enable police and other public safety officials to communicate and send data and images seamlessly across many jurisdictions. Your initiative allow other communities to do the same, as well as to improve their communications in other ways.

New crime-solving technologies. We can solve many more crimes by improving the nation’s overburdened and underfunded crime labs. Your initiative proposes making high-end technologies -- such as DNA analysis, photo enhancement and voice recognition -- available to even the smallest police departments.

Bolstering Crime Analysis. As more police departments move toward community policing, many have found that their greatest tool is real-time crime and arrest data, which allows them to achieve a detailed understanding of their crime problem and determine how to best combat it. A notable example is New York’s COMPSTAT project, which utilizes computerized statistics and mapping to analyze crime trends and allocate police resources. Your new initiative will help local police departments tap into crime mapping and other technologies that will improve the police’s ability to quickly analyze, predict and respond to local crime problems.

- $200 million for Community Prosecutors and “Neighborhood DAs.” As police and community residents have joined forces to fight crime on a proactive basis, communities are also turning to local prosecutors to play a more active role in the crime-fighting effort. In Multnomah County, OR, “Neighborhood DAs” work closely with local police, spend time in neighborhoods, and help solve local crime problems. Your initiative will help communities throughout the country do the same by hiring more community-based prosecutors and developing community-based prosecution programs.

- $125 million for community-wide crime prevention. Finally, your 21st Century Policing proposes specifically targeting funds to engage the entire community in preventing and fighting crime. These funds could be used to: work with probation and parole officers in supervising released offenders; work with local school officials in adopting community-wide plans to prevent school violence; involve faith-based organizations in juvenile crime prevention; and establish citizens' police academies that teach neighborhood residents problem-solving skills.

New Mid-year data for 1998. You will also announce that today, for the first time, the Justice Department's Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS) will release mid-year data showing that crime rates will continue to decline in 1998. According to BJS, the total number of violent crimes -- including crimes not reported to police -- is expected to fall below 3 million in 1998 for the first time since the start of its National Crime Victimization Survey in 1973. Property crimes will also continue to decline to record lows. By the end of 1998, both violent and property crime rates will have fallen by well over 20 percent since 1993.

TEXT:

Democratic staff are meeting at 5:00 to discuss a possible Democratic first day tobacco bill. There's no decision to have one, but they've decided to discuss whether there's enough agreement to put one together.

Tom Mahr/Conrad is thinking about a bill that would entail:

- 1) Price increase to be determined (would want to coordinate with us if they decide to move ahead; he had heard we were in the 50-70 cent range but didn't push me to comment)
- 2) FDA
- 3) Durbin lookbacks (not because they're realistic, just because they had a bipartisan vote on them)
- 4) Menu for 50% of state funds that is a) half tobacco control and b) half McCain menu
- 5) General language authorizing the Secretary of Agriculture to run an assistance program for farmers.

I also heard from Waxman and Meehan staff today eager to coordinate as we move forward.
