DRAFT -- NOT FOR RELEASE

April 30, 1998

The Honorable Lamar Smith
Chairman
Subcommittee on Immigration
Judiciary Committee
U. S. House of Representatives
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Mr. Chairman:

Today, your Subcommittee will mark-up H.R. 3736, the Workforce Improvement and Protection Act of 1998 which is intended to address the growing demand for skilled workers in the information technology (IT) industry by enacting a temporary increase in the annual cap on the number of temporary visas for foreign specialty workers under the H-1B program, while also effecting reforms to the H-1B program that would help target their usage to industries and employers that are actually experiencing skill shortages.

The Administration believes that the first step in increasing the availability of skilled workers must be raising the skills of U.S. workers and helping the labor market work better to match employers with U.S. workers. Therefore, substantial additional efforts by industry to increase the skill level of U.S. workers and needed improvements in the H-1B visa program are necessary prerequisites for the Administration to support any short-term increases in the number of visas for temporary foreign workers.

We are pleased that H.R. 3736 is consistent with one of our primary objectives, insofar as it conditions a temporary increase in the H-1B cap on the enactment of meaningful reforms to the H-1B visa program. Your bill would help ensure that no U.S. worker would lose their job to a similarly qualified temporary foreign worker and that every qualified U.S. worker would have the opportunity to fill a job before a temporary foreign worker. Moreover, your bill greatly strengthens program requirements and enforcement to prevent employer abuses of the H-1B program.

Unfortunately, H.R. 3736 does not contain any provision for additional training opportunities for U.S. workers. This training is a vital component of our strategy to address the long-term demand for highly skilled U.S. workers and to enhance the international competitiveness of important U.S. industries. An effective training strategy would also work to lessen the need for more H-1B visas. We are also concerned that the increase reflected in this bill is large and is not, in any event, targeted to skill shortages being used to justify this change in policy (i.e., advanced degrees or significant practical experience in math, science, or engineering).

For these reasons, the Administration believes that this legislation would substantially improve the current H-1B program and, with the addition of meaningful training strategies and a modest reduction in the level of increase in the annual cap, would garner the Administration's strong support. We look forward to working with the Congress on these and other specific provisions in the bill.

The Office of Management and Budget advises that there is no objection to the submission of this report from the standpoint of the Administration's program.

Sincerely,

Bruce Reed
Assistant to the President for Domestic Policy

Gene B. Sperling
Assistant to the President for Economic Policy

DRAFT

Senator Orrin Hatch
Chairman

Senate Judiciary Committee
U.S. Senate
Washington, DC

Dear Mr. Chairman,

I am writing to express the Administration's general views on consumer bankruptcy reform proposals currently under consideration in the Congress.

Over the past two decades, consumer bankruptcy filings have risen sharply. While there are many contending theories on the cause of that increase, it is clear that there is no single explanation. Nonetheless, the growing number of filings, examples of abuse of Chapter 7 and state exemptions, and evidence of imprudent extensions of credit suggest some changes to the consumer bankruptcy laws are appropriate. The lack of definitive evidence about the reasons for the rise in bankruptcies means that it is difficult to predict the effect of reform efforts. The Administration, therefore, has developed the following set of principles to guide its review of changes to the consumer bankruptcy laws.

1. Access to Chapter 7 should not be governed by an arbitrary means test; the court must have discretion to fairly account for the great variations in circumstances that bring debtors into bankruptcy (including medical expenses, unemployment, divorce, responsibility for the care of others, etc.) . To promote more uniform application of bankruptcy standards, this determination should take place within indicative or presumptive guidelines established by Congress that take into account factors such as the debtor's income and ability to repay a portion of the debt.

2. National bankruptcy policy can respect state variation in exemption levels without allowing state exemptions to be used to shield luxury assets from creditors.

3. It is appropriate to expect debtors who can afford to repay a portion of their debts (taking into account all relevant circumstances) to act responsibly; but the bankruptcy and credit reporting system should reward those who complete a Chapter 13 plan.

4. Bankruptcy reform should not create opportunities for creditors to coerce debtors to forgo bona fide rights in bankruptcy.

5. Bankruptcy rules should discourage bad faith repeat filings and other attempts to abuse the privilege accorded by access to bankruptcy.

6. Child support and alimony payments should be carefully protected.

We must ensure that reforms have no unintended adverse impact on debtors' ability to meet these, and other, priority payments.

7. Bankruptcy data collection and accuracy must be improved.

Analysis and understanding of the forces affecting bankruptcy filings are impeded by the lack of high-quality, nationally uniform data. Better data collection and verification procedures should be incorporated in any reform proposals. Such data can be used to assess and monitor the impact of reform legislation.

8. Scrutiny must also be given to credit industry practices that have led some borrowers to overextend themselves.

While some of these issues may fall outside of the Judiciary Committee's jurisdiction, Congress and the Administration should consider proposals to ensure that consumers are well informed about the dangers of excessive debt accumulation and understand the implications of their credit agreements.

The Clinton Administration is open to responsible consumer bankruptcy reform that meets these principles. We have reluctantly concluded that we cannot support H.R. 3150 in its present form. We would look forward to working with Congress toward legislation more similar to the approach of S. 1301 -- with modifications necessary to meet the principles articulated above.

Sincerely,

May 7, 1998

S. 1723 - American Competitiveness Act
(Abraham (R) Michigan and 15 cosponsors)

S.1723, "The American Competitiveness Act," is intended to respond to a reported skills shortage in the information technology industry by increasing the annual cap on the number of temporary visas for foreign "specialty" workers under the H-1B program. For the reasons outlined below, the Administration strongly opposes Senate passage of S. 1723. If S. 1723 were presented to the President, the Secretary of Labor would recommend that the bill be vetoed.

Regrettably, S.1723 emphasizes providing opportunities for foreign workers rather than providing opportunities for and protecting U.S. workers. The bill's temporary increase in the annual number of H-1B visas is too large (up to 115,000) and lasts too long (5 years). In addition, the bill does not help ensure that U.S. workers do not lose their jobs to temporary foreign workers and that qualified U.S. workers have the opportunity to fill a job before a temporary foreign worker is hired. Moreover, rather than strengthening program requirements and enforcement to prevent employer abuses of the H-1B program, S.1723 undermines some of the program's important enforcement provisions.

Since 1993 the Administration has sought reforms of the H-1B program, including requiring employers to make bona fide efforts to recruit and retain U.S. workers before hiring temporary foreign workers and prohibiting lay-offs of U.S. workers to replace them with foreign temporary workers. These reforms, if enacted, would help target H-1B usage to industries and employers that are experiencing skill shortages.

Also, the Administration believes that the first step in increasing the availability of skilled workers for industry must be increasing the skills of U.S. workers and helping the labor market work better to match employers with U.S. workers. Although S.1723 includes an authorization for a scholarship fund and a small fund to train dislocated workers, the Administration believes that increased training opportunities for U.S. workers should be funded through an H-1B application fee paid by employers.

Substantial additional efforts by industry to increase the skill level of U.S. workers and needed improvements in the H-1B program are necessary prerequisites for the Administration to support any short-term increase in the number of H-1B visas available for temporary foreign workers. The Administration wants to work with the Congress to develop a bill that addresses the growing demand for highly skilled workers, while effectively protecting and promoting the interests of U.S. workers and enhancing the international competitiveness of important U.S. industries.

MEMORANDUM FOR ERSKINE BOWLES

THROUGH: Franklin D. Raines

FROM: Donald R. Arbuckle

SUBJECT: Heads-up on EPA's proposed rule on the Identification of Lead Standard

We expect to complete our review this Friday of EPA's proposed standards that identify hazardous levels of lead-based paint, lead-contaminated dust, and lead-contaminated soil for residential housing. EPA estimates costs associated with this rule of more than $50 billion over the next 50 years. These costs represent the lead hazard testing and abatement likely to occur in response to the new proposed standard. EPA estimates the benefits to range from approximately $40 billion by one model to $160 billion by another model. The benefits are largely from the avoidance of IQ loss due to lead exposure.

In the course of our review, EPA agreed to expand their discussion of key elements of the proposal, such as the effect of different levels of soil standards, in order to set out alternative options for public comment. EPA has also agreed to conduct further analysis of these alternatives before submitting a final rule in order to provide a more complete picture of their preferred option and the identified alternatives.

Environmental and child safety groups support a more stringent set of hazard standards than that proposed by EPA. In contrast, associations of real estate agents and multi-family dwelling owners support less stringent options. On balance, we believe the rule fairly describes EPA's preferred standards while also preserving the option to go with alternative standards if compelled by public comment or further analysis.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

The Honorable Henry J. Hyde
Chairman
Committee on the Judiciary
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Chairman Hyde:

Today, your Committee will mark-up H.R. 3736, the Workforce Improvement and Protection Act of 1998 which is intended to address the growing demand for skilled workers in the information technology (IT) industry by enacting a temporary increase in the annual cap on the number of visas for temporary foreign specialty workers under the H-1B program, while also effecting reforms to the H-1B program that would help target their usage to industries and employers that are actually experiencing skill shortages.

The Administration believes that the first step in increasing the availability of skilled workers must be raising the skills of U.S. workers and helping the labor market work better to match employers with U.S. workers. Therefore, substantial additional efforts to increase the skill level of U.S. workers and needed improvements in the H-1B visa program are necessary prerequisites for the Administration to support any short-term increase in the number of visas for temporary foreign workers.

We are pleased that H.R. 3736 as reported from the Immigration and Claims Subcommittee is consistent with one of our primary objectives, insofar as it links a temporary increase in the H-1B cap to the enactment of meaningful reforms to the H-1B visa program. H.R. 3736 would help ensure that U.S. workers do not lose their jobs to temporary foreign workers and that qualified U.S. workers have the opportunity to fill a job before a temporary foreign worker is hired. Moreover, H.R. 3736 modestly expands enforcement authority to help prevent employer abuses of the H-1B program. These reforms will effectively target H-1B visas to industries experiencing skill shortages. The Administration strongly opposes amendments that would weaken these reforms.

Unfortunately, H.R. 3736 does not contain any provision to encourage additional training of U.S. workers. Training is a vital component of our strategy to address the long-term demand for highly skilled U.S. workers and to enhance the international competitiveness of important U.S. industries. An effective training strategy would also work to reduce the demand for H-1B visas. The Administration strongly supports amending H.R. 3736 to provide for additional training opportunities for U.S. workers and believes that this training should be funded, in part, through a modest H-1B application fee paid by employers. The Administration is also concerned that the increase in the annual number of H-1B visas reflected in this bill is too large, although we agree that the increase should last for only three years.

The Administration believes that H.R. 3736 would substantially improve the current H-1B program and, with the addition of a meaningful training provision and a modest reduction in the level of increase in the annual H-1B visa cap, would garner the Administration's support. We look forward to working with the Congress on these and other specific provisions in the bill.

The Office of Management and Budget advises that there is no objection to the submission of this report from the standpoint of the Administration's program.

Sincerely,

Labor

Justice
