DRAFT -- NOT FOR RELEASE

H.R. 3534 - Mandates Information Act of 1998
(Condit (D) CA and 91 cosponsors)

The Administration strongly opposes H.R. 3534. Although the Administration welcomes the introduction of additional analytical information into the legislative process, there are concerns that the bill creates an inappropriate procedural obstacle to the enactment of legislation in the public interest, in particular that which is designed to protect human health, safety, or the environment.

Further, the amendment added to the bill which would establish a point of order on the use of revenues could delay or undermine funding for a number of well-established and important programs and laws which have traditionally received bipartisan support, including airline air traffic and ground safety, the Superfund program, the Senate-passed version of the IRS reform bill, and legislation under consideration that provides relief to tobacco farmers and additional resources for public health programs.

H.R. 3534 also fails to consider the benefits of legislation that protects the public health, the environment, and the American consumer.

The Honorable Henry J. Hyde
Chairman
Committee on the Judiciary
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Chairman Hyde:

Today, your Committee will mark-up H.R. 3736, the & Workforce Improvement and Protection Act of 1998 which is intended to address the growing demand for skilled workers in the information technology (IT) industry. H.R. 3736 enacts a temporary increase in the annual cap on the number of visas for temporary foreign specialty workers under the H-1B program, while also effecting reforms to the H-1B program that would help target usage of H-1B visas to industries and employers that are actually experiencing skill shortages.

The Administration believes that the first response for increasing the availability of skilled workers for industry must be increasing the skills of U.S. workers and helping the labor market work better to match employers with U.S. workers. Therefore, additional efforts to increase the skill level of U.S. workers and needed improvements to the H-1B program are necessary prerequisites for the Administration to support any short-term increase in the number of H-1B visas available for temporary foreign workers. Modifications to the H-1B program that appropriately protect U.S. workers are fully consistent with the Administration's longstanding support for legal immigration.

We are pleased that H.R. 3736 as reported from the Immigration and Claims Subcommittee is consistent with one of our primary objectives, insofar as it links a temporary increase in the H-1B cap to the enactment of meaningful reforms to the H-1B visa program. H.R. 3736 would help ensure that U.S. workers do not lose their jobs to temporary foreign workers and that employers have made serious efforts to recruit U.S. workers for open positions so that qualified U.S. workers have the opportunity to fill a job before a temporary foreign worker is hired. Moreover, H.R. 3736 expands enforcement authority to help prevent employer abuses of the H-1B program. These reforms will effectively target H-1B visas to industries experiencing skill shortages.

Unfortunately, H.R. 3736 does not contain any provision to encourage additional training of U.S. workers. Training is a vital component of our strategy to address the long-term demand for highly skilled U.S. workers and to enhance the international competitiveness of important U.S. industries. An effective training strategy would also work to reduce the demand for H-1B visas. The Administration strongly supports amending H.R. 3736 to provide for additional training opportunities for U.S. workers and believes that this training should be funded, in part, through a modest H-1B application fee paid by employers.

The Administration is also concerned that the increase in the annual number of H-1B visas reflected in this bill is too large, although we agree that the increase should last for only three years. In addition, the Administration does not support provisions in the bill that would impose occupation-based restrictions on the first 65,000 H-1B visas.

The Administration believes that the reforms included in H.R. 3736 would substantially improve the current H-1B program. With the addition of a meaningful training provision, a modest reduction in the level of increase in the annual H-1B visa cap, and modifications to make the bill consistent with U.S. international trade obligations, H.R. 3736 would garner the Administration's strong support. However, if amendments are adopted that substantially weaken the reform or enforcement provisions of H.R. 3736 or if meaningful provisions for increasing the skill levels of U.S. workers are not adopted, the Secretary of Labor and the Attorney General would recommend that the President veto this legislation.

The Office of Management and Budget advises that there is no objection to the submission of this report from the standpoint of the Administration's program.

Sincerely,

JANET RENO
Attorney General

ALEXIS HERMAN
Secretary of Labor

MEMORANDUM FOR ERSKINE BOWLES

THROUGH: Franklin D. Raines
FROM: Donald R. Arbuckle
SUBJECT: FDA Proposed Rule on "Off-Label" Uses

We will be concluding review by COB Tuesday of a proposed FDA rule allowing the dissemination of information on unapproved uses (commonly referred to as "off-label" uses) for marketed drugs, biologics and medical devices. The proposal implements the off-label provision of the Food and Drug Modernization Act of 1997 (FDAMA) which permits manufacturers to disseminate certain written information on the safety, effectiveness, or benefits of a product's use that has not yet been approved by FDA. For example, an antibiotic may be approved by FDA for use in treating sinus infections but also may be widely used by doctors in treating ear infections -- a use not yet approved for that particular drug. The proposal would require that sixty days before disseminating the information, manufacturers must first submit to FDA for approval a complete copy of the information and an application seeking approval for the new use.

The proposed rule also sets limits on the types of information that manufacturers can disseminate: it must be in the form of an unabridged medical journal article and must disclose that the use has not been cleared by FDA. And, the proposal limits who may receive the information -- doctors and insurance companies, for example, but not individual patients.

This provision was a key Administration concern during FDA reform that was resolved during the legislative process. The rule adheres closely to that compromise. While it may gain some attention in the press, we do not expect it to be highly controversial. FDA is anxious to publish the proposed rule as soon as possible in order to meet a statutory deadline for publication of a final rule by November 21st of this year.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

PRINTER FONT 12_POINT_COURIER
DRAFT
MAY 18, 1998
1:20 PM

Honorable Frank Riggs
Chairman, Subcommittee on Early Childhood,

Youth, and Families
Committee on Education and the Workforce
United States House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Mr. Chairman:

I am writing to express my strong objections to H.R. 3248, the "Dollars to the Classroom Act," which would convert a wide array of Federal education programs to block grants. The President stated last fall that such a step is unacceptable, and that he would use his veto power to prevent this approach from becoming law. If H.R. 3248 were presented to the President, I would recommend that he veto it.

Block grants would halt many of our most successful efforts to improve education, including our efforts to raise educational standards, make computers available in every classroom, and keep our schools safe and free of drugs. H.R. 3248 could also seriously harm the ESEA, Title I program, which provides extra help to low

-income students so that they can master the basic skills of reading and math, paving the way for them to reach high academic standards.

The American people rightly look to the Federal Government to focus its efforts not on general aid to school districts, but on national priorities, such as improving educational opportunities for poor children and other children with special needs, combating youth drug abuse and school violence, and researching and disseminating information on what works. This Administration has worked diligently to eliminate unnecessary regulations and take other steps to promote State and local flexibility in carrying out these targeted efforts, while supporting strong accountability mechanisms, such as the Government Performance and Results Act of 1993, that ensure program effectiveness and results and that justify continued support by the taxpayers. Block grants would replace these worthy efforts with general aid, providing no focus, no accountability for results, and no rationale for ongoing support.

The issue here is not about who controls public education -- we all agree that that responsibility rests at the local and State levels. The question, rather, is whether the Federal Government will maintain its long -standing, bipartisan commitment to helping local communities strengthen accountability, raise standards, and improve student achievement, by providing assistance that focuses on our neediest children and schools and on activities in which national leadership can play a critical role.

The Office of Management and Budget advises that there is no objection to the submission of this report from the standpoint of the Administration's program and that enactment of H.R. 3248 would not be in accord with the President's program.

Yours sincerely,

Richard W. Riley

DRAFT --- NOT FOR RELEASE

May 19, 1998

(House)

H.R. 3150 - Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1998
(Gekas (R) Pennsylvania and 75 cosponsors)

The Administration supports bankruptcy reform that requires responsibility of debtors who have the ability to repay a portion of their debts and prevents abuse of the bankruptcy system. However, the Administration [strongly?] opposes H.R. 3150. One provision of the bill would establish a rigid and arbitrary means test to determine whether a debtor could file for bankruptcy under Chapter 7 or would be required to file under Chapter 13 rules. Bankruptcy courts should have greater discretion to consider the specific circumstances that brought a debtor to bankruptcy.

H.R. 3150 also would make nondischargeable certain credit card debt. The Bankruptcy Code generally makes nondischargeable debts only where there is an overriding public purpose, as with debts for child support and alimony payments, educational loans, tax obligations, or debts incurred by fraud. These credit card debts do not rise to that level of public priority, nor has there been sufficient finding that current protections against fraud and debt incurred prior to bankruptcy are ineffective. Moreover, by making these credit card debts nondischargeable, the bill puts them in competition with payments to a former spouse or custodial parent after the debtor leaves bankruptcy, which would diminish the ability of debtors to fulfill their family obligations. Amendments made during the Judiciary Committee mark-up do not effectively eliminate this problem.

The Administration looks forward to working with the Congress on a balanced package of reforms that addresses these concerns and requires responsibility on the part of both debtors and creditors.

Poverty Measurement Policy Working Group -- May 26

The primary purpose of this meeting is to try and reach consensus around a key set of policy recommendations related to the issues our group has been discussing over the past three months. These are recommendations to the Census about how they might present their alternative poverty measurement calculations. Attached to this agenda is a one-page summary of the NAS recommendations for a new poverty line measure, and a one-page summary of the four policy issues we've discussed at our last four meetings.

AGENDA

I. Key issues to be discussed

A. How should the thresholds be determined in the first year an alternative measure is published? To be specific: should the alternative poverty rate be benchmarked in 1997 to be identical to the 1997 official poverty rate or is there an alternative "benchmark" that makes more sense?

(Note: We appear to have a general consensus within the group from our earlier discussions to support benchmarking the alternative poverty rate to the 1997 official rate.)

B. How should the poverty thresholds be updated over time? Specifically, (1) should they be adjusted on an annual basis by the overall CPI or by a CPI for food shelter & clothing only and revisited every 5-10 years for a more complete recalculation; or (2) Should they be completely recalculated each year as a share of current expenditures on food, clothing, and housing?

(Note: There seemed to be general consensus for the first approach, particularly if a CPI for food, shelter and clothing was used. OMB seemed reasonably confident that they and Census could establish a process to assure that poverty measurement is reviewed on a regular basis.)

C. Should the poverty thresholds be adjusted for geographic variations in the cost of living?

(Note: There seemed to be general consensus that any "base" alternative poverty measurement should not include geographical price variation, although Census may well want to publish an alternative that includes this as part of the NAS recommendations.)

D. How (if at all) should the adjustment for Medical out-of-pocket (MOOP) expenditures occur? Specifically, should the Census follow the NAS recommendations to impute MOOP and subtract it from individual income before calculating individual poverty status?

(Note: There is more disagreement on this issue than on any other. The three deputies present at our last meeting generally agreed that the Census should follow the NAS recommendations for now, but that further work refining these calculations (and considering other alternatives) should go forward. But some of the staff present at the meeting were in less agreement.)

E. Do we have any recommendations to Census about how to present their alternative poverty calculations? Specifically, do we want to recommend they present a primary "base" alternative poverty calculation (for instance: benchmarked to 1997, updated by the CPI for necessities, without geographic price variation, and including MOOP), and then a few alternatives (with and without MOOP, with and without geographic price variation)?

II. Process from here.

NAS Recommendations on How to Measure Poverty

A poverty measure consists of two pieces: (1) A definition of family resources, and (2) A poverty threshold against which resources are compared. If resources are below the threshold, a family is considered poor.

(1) Defining Family Resources

Family resources = Cash income

+ Near money in-kind benefits (food stamps, housing subsidies, school lunch, LIHEAP, etc)

- Taxes

- Child care costs (for families in which there is no nonworking parent, with a cap, and not to exceed the earnings of the parent with lower earnings)

- Work expenses (a flat amount per week of work)

- Child support payments

- Out of pocket medical care expenditures, including health insurance premiums.

(2) Defining a Poverty Threshold

The threshold should be determined for a family of four (two adults and two children) based on a point in the distribution of annual expenditures by such families on food, clothing, and shelter, plus a small multiplier. (This is based on Consumer Expenditure Survey data, probably using a three-year average to guarantee adequate sample size.) The recommended percentage of annual expenditures is between 30 and 35 percent (i.e., 15 to 20 percentage points below the median); recommended multipliers are between 1.15 to 1.25.

Thresholds for other family sizes should be determined based on an equivalence scale calculation.

The NAS panel recommends using

$$\text{Scale value} = (A + PK)^F$$

where A is the number of adults and K the number of kids. P is the scaling for children (if P=1, kids are treated the same as adults); and F is the scaling for family size. The NAS panel recommends P=0.70 and F in a range of 0.65 to 0.75.

Geographic costs of living are taking into account, based on a regional index of housing costs (which varies by size of metropolitan area and region of country) which is weighted by the share of housing costs in the expenditure bundle.

Over time, new poverty threshold should be updated by recalculating annual expenditures on the most recent three years of data, and reapplying these other calculations using the most recent data available on housing costs.

Policy Issue 1: Determining the Threshold

Agenda

1. How does the NAS propose to determine thresholds?
How does this compare to the current poverty line?
2. Comments on the fundamental indeterminacy of the “right” threshold ...
Implies a range of thresholds are viable.
3. Benchmarking a threshold so poverty numbers in a specific year are unchanged.
 - A. How do this?
 - B. Why do this?
 - C. What are the implications of benchmarking?
 - a. Change history
 - b. Change who is poor, even if the aggregate number is unchanged
4. What are the alternatives to benchmarking?
NAS recommendations
5. What are the criticisms of these different approaches?

Pros of benchmarking:

There may be large political advantages to saying “We want to improve the measure of poverty, but to show you that we’re doing this in a non-political manner, we’ll benchmark so there is no change in the overall aggregate poverty rate in the year we implement this change.” There are still those who will be upset about the changes in the distribution of poverty or in the past history of poverty rates, which will change (you can benchmark one year only.)

Cons of benchmarking

Backing out a threshold so that the current poverty rate is unchanged produces a threshold that is very far down in the percentile distribution of expenditures on food, shelter and clothing -- somewhere around 20-25% rather than the 30-35% range recommended by the NAS.

Pros of using the NAS alternative (which establishes a higher threshold and higher poverty rates)

Utilizes the recommendations of the NAS panel, based on their judgement about the accumulation of evidence.

Maintains threshold levels that are very similar to the current thresholds (it’s not clear how much this matters given the resource definition has changed.)

Cons of using the NAS alternative

Results in a substantially higher poverty rate, which will draw an great deal of criticism. At the same time, it has the same problems as benchmarking, in that it also changes history and it changes the relative poverty share of different groups (although all subgroup poverty rates would go up.)

Policy Issue 2: Updating the Poverty Thresholds Over Time

Agenda

1. How have the poverty thresholds been updated?
CPI adjustments
2. What does the NAS recommend?
Recalculating the threshold
3. What are the implications of these different approaches?
Absolute poverty thresholds (current approach)
Relatively-absolutely poverty thresholds (NAS approach)
Relative poverty thresholds
4. What are the alternatives?
 - A. Adjust with CPI
 - B. Adjust with CPI but embed a commitment to recalculate thresholds on a regular basis.
 - C. Utilize the relatively-absolute (NAS) technique annually
5. What are the criticisms of these different approaches?

Pros of a more relative approach (B or C above):

1. CPI-adjusted thresholds become obsolete over time. As standards of living change, so do social norms.
2. If we don't create the expectation of a regular recalculation/update of the poverty line, we'll end up in 30 years exactly where we are today, using an outmoded statistic.
3. If we calculate the thresholds relative to some level of median expenditures on necessities, it is most consistent if we update in the same way, i.e., with a procedure that changes the thresholds relative to median expenditures on necessities.

Pros of CPI updating (A or B above):

1. Relative changes create a moving target of poverty. In the short run, one is most interested in knowing how many people have purchasing power above a pre-set level. If the level changes with standards of living, it's much harder to interpret the poverty statistics.
2. Standard of living changes (and social norm changes) occur only very slowly. Better to take them into account every-so-often, rather than to embed them annually into the poverty rate.
3. If we update with a CPI for necessities only (food, shelter, & clothing), we might capture most of the relevant changes (since much of the change in expenditures on these items is due to price changes rather than quantity changes) and have an easier time explaining the short run updating procedure.

Policy Issue 3: Adjusting for Geographic Variations in Cost of Living

Automated Records Management System
Hex-Dump Conversion

Agenda

1. How does the Census propose to do this?
2. What are the results of such an adjustment?
3. What are the alternatives?
 - A. Adjust for the official poverty counts, but don't adjust the guidelines
 - B. Publish an adjustment index for researchers who want to use it, but adjust neither the official poverty counts nor the guidelines
 - C. Adjust both the official poverty counts and the guidelines
4. What are the criticisms of these different approaches?

Reasons to adjust for geographic variation:

If the poverty thresholds provide a measure of "income needs" they should reflect cost of living differences across regions. Theoretically, most statisticians/economists agree that such adjustments should be done if the data is available.

Reasons not to adjust for geographic variation:

Adjustments in the thresholds can lead to a "slippery slope", with advocacy groups arguing that such price adjustments should be done in a wide variety of program benefit payments as well. This can also lead to much greater efforts by legislators to intervene in exactly how the "correct" regional price adjustments are done.

Researchers would not be able to duplicate poverty counts based on geographic price variation because the detailed geographic information required to calculate these would violate privacy constraints in some cases.

Tentative consensus among the group:

* If Census decides that they want to publish a poverty count based on thresholds with geographical price variation, we recommend that such an adjustment not be part of the "base" alternative poverty count, but one of the alternatives.

* At some point in the future, should we discuss changing the poverty guidelines used for program purposes, these should not include geographical price variation.

Policy Issue 4: Accounting for Medical Out-of-Pocket (MOOP) Expenditures

Agenda

1. How does the NAS propose to deal with MOOP expenditures?
Why do it this way?
2. How does this affect poverty calculations?
3. What are the alternatives?
 - A. Account for MOOP in the resource count (NAS)
 - B. Account for MOOP in the thresholds
 - C. Ignore issue entirely
4. How does this issue interact with our measures and data concerning the broader question of health and health care coverage?
5. What are the pros and cons of these approaches?

Pros of handling MOOP as recommended by the NAS (subtracting it from income):

* The NAS argues (and some of our group strongly agree) that it is better to remove MOOP from the income side rather than add it into the threshold side.

* This is the approach that Census has investigated and can implement in a timely fashion.

* The alternative of ignoring MOOP entirely (neither taking account of it in the thresholds nor the income side) has real credibility problems, given extensive attention to the problems of lack of insurance and high out-of-pocket medical expenditures.

* If we do this adjustment now, further changes that better take account of MOOP in the future will involve relatively small changes to the poverty numbers. If we don't do it now and want to take account of MOOP in the base alternative in the future, it will involve a major realignment of numbers.

Cons of handling MOOP as recommended by the NAS:

* The data for imputing MOOP is not as recent as we'd like (although this will improve markedly in the next few years.)

* If we ignore MOOP entirely, benchmarking the poverty rate to the 1997 numbers will allow us to set the thresholds at a share of expenditures that is closer to the NAS recommendations.

* Some of our group are strongly convinced that it would be better to include MOOP in the thresholds rather than subtracting it from income, and would like to see this implemented.
