The Ed letter isn't going to do the trick. Your suggestion sounds fine, but quite honestly, so long as Justice is where Justice is on this issue, Tracy is going to have a hard time just making it go away.

Subject: Charter Schools/Bill Lan Lee

I have been asked to participate in a conference call today, Friday at 4pm on Bill Lan Lee and need your advice.

After our meeting on charter schools earlier this week, Tracey Thornton called me to inform me that Senator Hatch and other folks have linked the charter schools issue with Bill Lan Lee's nomination and they feel they need a letter or some document that separates this issue from his nomination asap.

I explained to Tracey that Education is drafting a letter that addresses the larger issue of civil rights and schools. Tracey thought that would be fine, however upon further reflection, I am not sure if this Education letter is really the kind of response that will separate the issue from Bill's nomination. It may make more sense for someone else - preferably with credibility in both the charter school and civil rights arenas - send a letter that separates this issue from Bill's nomination. Of course, we should provide policy directions but the letter could be similar to the general letter that White House Counsel's office drafted last month that indicates that the Administration supports both charter schools and civil rights.

Please let me know what you think. Thanks.

TEXT:

We should be ready to publish within a couple of weeks guidance on the issue of when someone counts as a "public charge" for immigration purposes. The guidance is designed to ensure as far as possible that legal immigrants will not suffer adverse consequences if they apply for benefits (e.g., Medicaid) to which they are entitled. The immigrant community will be very pleased with this guidance, and the Vice President really should announce it.
