REMARKS BY THE FIRST LADY
TO THE GIRL SCOUTS,
FROM THE WHITE HOUSE

MRS. CLINTON: This year marks the 82nd year of the Girl Scouts, and as a former Scout, I'd like to encourage girls to take advantage of all that scouting offers. I learned through Girl Scouts to have leadership skills, to serve my community, and I made lasting friendships.

Through field trips, camping, and public service, scouting encourages girls to discover the world around them. Best of all, girls become a part of the Girl Scouts' community, and that is a community with a strong tradition of making today's girls productive women of tomorrow.
