FIRST LADY HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON TO VISIT SOUTH ASIA

WASHINGTON, DC -- First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton will make an official visit to five countries in South Asia March 24 - April 6, 1995. Her visit to Pakistan, India, Bangladesh, Nepal and Sri Lanka is part of the Administration's continuing efforts to develop and strengthen U.S. relationships in this increasingly important part of the world.

"As an advocate of children, families and communities the First Lady is the best imaginable emissary to deliver a message to South Asia that this administration's concern for those countries is deeper than traditional geopolitics; that there is truly a human dimension to politics, policy and diplomacy," said The President.

In each country Mrs. Clinton will meet with women representatives of government and nongovernment organizations (NGOs), religious institutions, education, business and the arts. The First Lady will also visit communities to see first hand how men and women are creating a "seamless" web of services as well as training, educational and economic opportunities which support, empower and nurture children and their families.

"Providing support, rebuilding community and protecting the future for children and families is vital to the national interests of developing and developed countries alike. Increasingly, the leadership of women plays an important role in shaping practical and effective responses to the global concerns of poverty, lack of educational and employment opportunities, inadequate housing and poor health care," said Mrs. Clinton.

In December, Mrs. Clinton hosted the Symposium on Children of the Americas in Miami. The summit participants discussed successful models for addressing the health and education needs of children in the hemisphere. Most recently, Mrs. Clinton addressed NGO representatives attending the United Nation's World Summit on Social Development in Copenhagen, Denmark and urged governments "to recognize that increasing opportunities for women around the world are essential investments for the future." The First Lady's tour of South Asia affirms the administration's commitment to sustainable development in the region and underscores America's interest in the social challenges which face families and children all over the world.

Commerce Secretary Ron Brown has visited India. Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary and Secretary of Defense William Perry have recently visited India and Pakistan. Their efforts focused on revitalizing commercial and security relationships in the region.

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release

March 2, 1995

Statement by the Press Secretary

Vice President Al Gore and the Hillary Rodham Clinton will attend events surrounding the UN's World Summit for Social Development in Copenhagen later this month.

The Summit will bring together world leaders and representatives of non-governmental organizations (NGOs) to focus on critical social issues -- poverty, unemployment and social disintegration -- that threaten development and global security. Some 125 heads of state or government are expected to attend the Summit. In addition, more than 2400 NGOs are expected to be in Copenhagen during the proceedings.

The Vice President will attend the Summit on March 12 and deliver a speech to the delegates from participating nations. The First Lady will be in Copenhagen on March 7 to address the "NGO Forum" that will run concurrently with the Summit.

The core issues of the Summit -- combating poverty, creating jobs and promoting people's participation in development -- reflect the Clinton Administration's agenda of "putting people first," and sustainable progress in these areas ultimately will contribute to the security and prosperity of the United States by promoting a more stable and prosperous world.

As reflected by the First Lady's participation in the NGO Forum, the U.S. will also stress the importance of dynamic civil societies -- and crucial role of the private and non-governmental sectors -- in the process of economic growth and development.

EXCERPTS FROM FIRST LADY HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON'S REMARKS AT THE 17TH ANNUAL MOTHER OF THE YEAR AWARDS LUNCHEON

WASHINGTON, DC -- The following are excerpts from prepared remarks by First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton upon receiving the 1995 Outstanding Mother Award presented by the National Mother's Day Committee in New York City on Thursday, April 13, 1995:

"I come back to one thought: my mother, a homemaker who never had a career outside the home, inspired me to make the most of whatever opportunities came my way in life. My aspirations turned out to be different from hers. But without her support and encouragement, I could never have fulfilled them. She respected my choices. She supported me at every step."

"The fact is that mothers in America today -- whether they work inside or outside the home -- have more responsibilities, obligations, and expectations placed on them than ever before. Somehow, while handling childrearing, the care of aging parents, career decisions, economic pressures, and all of the accompanying exhaustion and stress, mothers are supposed to live neatly integrated and balanced lives. Yet we all know that in reality modern motherhood is seldom neat. It is a constant and delicate juggling act."

"Whether mothers are talking about child care, the minimum wage, family leave time, good schools, safe streets, or the need for close-knit communities, their issues are in many ways the central issues of our time. They are the issues that will define our culture for many years to come. They are the issues that speak to our collective concern about the erosion of family values and the importance of investing in our children and securing our future as a nation."

FIRST LADY HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON RECEIVED THE MISS AMERICA ORGANIZATION'S ANNUAL
"WOMAN OF ACHIEVEMENT AWARD"

"The Miss America Organization has always understood the value of investing in women -- and the importance of community service. I commend the Miss America Organization for their commitment to the future of this nation."

-- First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton

WASHINGTON, DC -- First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton was presented with the Miss America Organization's "Woman of Achievement Award" today, Monday, May 22, 1995, at the White House. The award was presented to Mrs. Clinton by Heather Whitestone, the current Miss America. The award is given annually by the Miss America Organization to a woman who has demonstrated exemplary commitment to social causes and issues.

Mrs. Clinton was selected for this honor because of her dedication to community service which encompasses over 25 years of working on behalf of children and families. As a recipient of the award Mrs. Clinton received a grant of $25,000 to be awarded to the charity of her choice and a crystal commemorative sculpture.

The Miss America Organization and the First Lady have a shared belief in the importance of community service. In conjunction with their 75th Anniversary, the Miss America Organization this year established an "institutional platform" of community service by partnering with the Corporation for National Service. The partnership between the Miss America Organization and the Corporation for National Service involves the participation in community service projects by Miss America contestants, title holders and the current Miss America.

Following the presentation, Mrs. Clinton took the opportunity to applaud the Miss America Organization for being the single largest provider of scholarships to women in the world. Since 1945, The Miss American Organization has awarded $100 million in scholarships for women; $24 million was awarded in 1994 alone.

PREVIOUS "WOMEN OF ACHIEVEMENT" AWARD WINNERS INCLUDE:

First Lady Betty Ford, for her dedication to championing cancer awareness and chemical dependency recovery. 1989

First Lady Rosalyn Carter, for her work on behalf of persons who are mentally ill and handicapped. 1990
