Presented to President Zedillo:

On the occasion of the State Visit of Mexico, President Clinton presents to President Ernesto Zedillo a sterling silver cache pot with an inscription marking the occasion. Every U.S. President has had a signature gift to present to foreign heads of state marking an Administration. The sterling cache pot is oval in shape like the Oval Office. The top edge of the piece has an etched design that copies the ceiling cornice of the Oval Office. An ornate decoration is etched across the front of the cache pot that is the same decoration as is on the fireplace mantle in the Blue Room of the White House. The flower in the center of the decoration is a dogwood blossom, from a tree found frequently in the President's home State of Arkansas. The Presidential Seal is etched on the bottom side of the piece.

To Mrs. Zedillo:

Judith Lleber, one of the foremost designers of handbeaded evening bags, has designed a trio of red, white and blue handbeaded items to go into an evening bag. The lipstick, heart shaped box and compact are all of an American flag design.

From Mrs. Zedillo to Mrs. Clinton:

A handsewn black and white long scarf.

From President Zedillo to President Clinton:

A mexican sterling silver pear object with a variety of etched designs on the facade.

LIMÓN DANCE COMPANY
at the White House

Paul Dennis	Carl Flink	Merle Holloman	Pamala Jones
Roxane D'Orleans Juste	Marc Kenison	Carla Maxwell	Carlos Orta
Jeffrey Schmidt	Sean Sullivan	Nina Watt	Cheng-Chieh Yu

The LIMÓN DANCE COMPANY celebrates its 50th Anniversary Season this year as America's first modern dance repertory company. The Company is the living embodiment of the movement technique and philosophy of theater developed by Jose Limón and his mentors, Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman. Their innovative works have since become recognized as great masterworks of American dance. Ms. Humphrey served as artistic director from the Company's inception in 1946 until her death in 1958, and her works have always been a major component of the repertory.

José Limón, born in Culiacan, Mexico, believed man could "dance as Michelangelo's visions dance and as the music of Bach dances". He created 74 works before his death in 1972, and through him the American male dancer achieved a new-found distinction. Since Limón's death, the Company has produced over 50 works by more than 30 choreographers.

Over the past five decades, the Company has performed in all fifty states and in over thirty foreign countries. In 1954, the Company was the first group to tour under the State Department's Cultural Exchange Program, which included a 1973 visit to the former Soviet Union.

The current group of 12 dancers is a multi-racial and multi-cultural ensemble, including three artists who worked closely with José Limón. The mission of today's Limon Company is to produce vital exciting dance theater of the highest quality, to be at the vanguard of the international dance scene, and to provide a home for the masterpieces of the modern dance repertory.

PROGRAM

Excerpts from A CHOREOGRAPHIC OFFERING

First performance August, 1944 at the American Dance Festival at Connecticut College, New London, Connecticut by the José Limón Dance Company. This work, commissioned by the American Dance Festival, is in memory of Doris Humphrey, Limon's mentor and artistic director from 1946 until her death in 1958.

THE MOOR'S PAVANE (Variations on the theme of Othello)

First performance, August 1949, at the American Dance Festival, Connecticut College by the José Limón Dance Company. Though subtitled "Variations on the theme of Othello", this dance is not intended as a choreographic version of Shakespeare's play. In the form of a pavane and other dances of the high Renaissance, the legend is told of the hapless Moor, his wrongfully suspected wife, the Moor's treacherous friend, and his wife. The four characters portray the tragedy of Everyman, and the dance is, therefore, timeless in its implications.

Mariachi "Los Amigos"

Mariachi "Los Amigos" was formed in 1979 by a group of eight musicians from four countries of the Americas. They came together in the Washington, D.C. area to play the traditional and popular music typical of the Mexican mariachi ensemble. Mariachi music originated in west-central Mexico, and today is usually identified with the region in and around the city of Guadalajara in the Mexican state of Jalisco. Since the 1930s, it has been one of the most popular folk-based musics in all of Mexico, the southwestern United States, and beyond. The música ranchera (literally, "country music") the mariachi plays evokes a passionate and at times vigorous home-grown, country perspective on life. At the same time, the mariachi typically includes in its repertoire sophisticated arrangements in a contemporary musical idiom appealing to modern urban tastes.

Mariachi "Los Amigos" mainly plays what its members love the most--"straight-ahead" traditional mariachi music, played by violin, trumpet, vihuela (rhythm-guitar), guitarrón (bass guitar), and plenty of singing. Their repertoire includes fast, rhythmically driving dance tunes called sones rooted in the 19th century, Mexican polcas and waltzes, popular canciones rancheras ("country" songs), romantic songs called boleros, syncopated huapangos, and other musical forms. Their performances include mariachi favorites like "Jarabe Tapatío" (The Mexican Hat Dance), "Cielito Lindo," "Guadalajara," "La Paloma," "Volver, volver," and the world famous "La Bamba."

Mariachi "Los Amigos" has performed at many of the Smithsonian museums, the Organization of American States, dozens of federal agencies, the DC and Baltimore Hispanic festivals, and hundreds of community and private events. The group has accompanied many notable Mexican music personalities such as María de Lourdes, Antonio Aguilar, Flor Silvestre, Soyla Flor, and Lucía Méndez and has toured to many states along the eastern seaboard, including Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Georgia, West Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

FIRST LADY HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON TO VISIT LATIN AMERICA

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton will make an official visit to four countries in Latin America October 12 - 17, 1995. Her visit to Nicaragua, Chile, Brazil and Paraguay is part of the Administration's continuing efforts to strengthen U.S. relations with countries in our own Western Hemisphere.

" At the Summit of the Americas, the leaders of our hemisphere agreed that our mutual prosperity depends upon the welfare of our children, families and communities. With her deep interests in health and education, and in women and children, the First Lady will be a strong spokesperson for this administration's commitment to the fundamental social values that unite this hemisphere," said The President.

In Paraguay, Mrs. Clinton will attend the Fifth Conference of Wives of Heads of State and of Government of the Americas. Mrs. Clinton will address the conference on the goals established at the Summit of the Americas in Miami last December, with special attention to the Summit initiatives in health, education and women's rights, particularly as they relate to children.

Throughout her trip, Mrs. Clinton will meet with governmental leaders and with women representatives from official agencies, non-governmental organizations (NGOs), education, health, business, religious institutions and the arts. The First Lady will visit communities to see first hand the progress being made in eradicating poverty and investing in people, through better schools, health services and employment opportunities.

" The United States has a vital stake in the economic prosperity and social well-being of our hemispheric neighbors. In Miami, the leaders of our hemisphere committed their nations to a powerful agenda for addressing our common social concerns in a better future for our children and families. I look forward to meeting with the men and women who are working to build a hemisphere that is more democratic, more prosperous and more just," said Mrs. Clinton.

FIRST LADY HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON AND RUSSIAN FIRST LADY NAINA
YELTSIN TAKE ANOTHER STEP IN THEIR CONTINUING EFFORTS ON BEHALF OF RUSSIAN CHILDREN

WASHINGTON, DC -- On behalf of First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton, U. S. Ambassador to Russia Thomas Pickering and Jeffrey Lack, Vice President, CIS for the American company Bristol-Myers Squibb, yesterday presented $350,000 worth of Phenyl-Free to Mrs. Naina Yeltsin and Dr. Vladimir Kocherovets, Deputy Minister of Health to the Russian Federation, at a reception in Moscow. "I am grateful to Bristol-Myers Squibb for donating this medicine, which will make a real difference in the lives of Russian children," said First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton.

Phenyl-Free is a nutritional formula used to treat children suffering from Phenylketonuria (PKU), an inherited disease that affects the central nervous system in children. Diet therapy such as Phenyl-Free is the only known method of treatment.

In addition to the donated medicine, Bristol-Myers Squibb will sponsor an educational exchange on the diagnosis and treatment of PKU disease. Two Russian physicians, Dr. Alexander Baikov, head of the Moscow and Russian Centers for Neonatal Screening, and Dr. Anna Khatunova, the PKU specialist for the Ministry of Health of the Russian Federation, will visit Georgetown University Medical Center in Washington, DC later this year. Dr. Owen Rennart, Chairman of Pediatrics at Georgetown University Children's Medical Center, will travel to Russia to conduct a symposium for 20 Russian PKU specialists in early 1996.

The initiative originated during a visit to the United States by President and Mrs. Yeltsin in the fall of 1994. Mrs. Clinton invited Mrs. Yeltsin and Dr. Kocherovets to visit Georgetown University Children's Medical Center and participate in a roundtable discussion with American doctors and health care professionals to discuss children's health issues in the U.S. and in Russia. During the visit, Mrs. Yeltsin discussed with Mrs. Clinton the many problems associated with PKU disease and treatment in Russia. Following the visit, Mrs. Clinton convened a meeting with executives from Bristol-Myers Squibb and Dr. Rennart to discuss ways to respond to Mrs. Yeltsin's concerns.

Bristol-Myers Squibb estimates that the donated medicine will care for 125 children for one year.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION REGARDING
FIRST LADY HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON'S BOOK

IT TAKES A VILLAGE
AND
OTHER LESSONS CHILDREN TEACH US

WASHINGTON, DC -- For more than 25 years, Mrs. Clinton has worked on behalf of children and their families. In It Takes A Village and Other Lessons Children Teach Us, Mrs. Clinton shares her passion, convictions and insights gleaned from her experiences as mother, daughter, advocate, attorney and First Lady.

Carolyn Reidy, President and Publisher of the Simon and Schuster Trade Division, and Senior Editor Rebecca Saletan approached Mrs. Clinton with the idea of writing a book based on her views about children and families. Both had worked with Mrs. Clinton's mother-in-law, Virginia Kelley, on her autobiography Leading With My Heart. The First Lady agreed to write a book early last year.

The initial deadline for publication It Takes A Village was Christmas 1995. Like many first-time authors, Mrs. Clinton missed the original deadline. According to Mrs. Clinton, "With each draft the book took on a new shape until finally it was what I wanted it to be, a continuing meditation on the needs of children and their families."

Mrs. Clinton wrote the book in the White House residence, during her vacation last summer in Jackson Hole, Wyoming and at Camp David. Simon and Schuster selected Barbara Feinman, a Washington-based writer and editor to help Mrs. Clinton as she began to write her book. Barbara Feinman assisted Mrs. Clinton for approximately seven months on researching, producing notes from a series of her taped conversations with the First Lady and the initial drafting of some chapters of the book. Mrs. Clinton wrote many drafts, making substantial changes, which nearly doubled the size of the planned-for book.

Additionally, Simon and Schuster hired a fact-checker and a typist to assist Mrs. Clinton with the project. Word processing equipment, a facsimile machine and copier were also provided to Mrs. Clinton by Simon and Schuster.

Mrs. Clinton consulted experts, advocates, family members and friends, many of whom volunteered to help with and critique drafts of the book, and others who took her invitation to heart when she asked that they send or call her with their best parenting stories. Mrs. Clinton's Chief-of-Staff, Maggie Williams, volunteered her personal time and took a one-week leave of absence without pay to review and comment extensively on one of the final drafts of the First Lady's book. Lissa Muscatine, a speechwriter for Mrs. Clinton, volunteered her personal time to be one of Mrs. Clinton's key readers and draft commentators. (Government regulations permit federal employees to engage in non-conflicting outside activities provided they do so on their own time.) The President also read drafts of the First Lady's book, offering his advice and comments.

Mrs. Clinton's acknowledgment list began with more than sixty people. In the end, she acknowledges her "book writing" village universally, saving her most personal thanks for those to whom the book is dedicated. The dedication reads:

For the family that raised me,
the family I joined and the family we made.

The 320-page hardcover book arrived in bookstores January 10th and 11th and will be sold for $20. Simon and Schuster has an initial printing of 350,000 copies. There are no bulk sale arrangements. Any such requests that arise will be handled by the publisher.

Although government ethics laws and regulations do not prohibit the First Lady from earning income, Mrs. Clinton chose to receive no advance from Simon and Schuster. Mrs. Clinton will receive 15% of the suggested retail value of each book. All proceeds from the book, after taxes, will be donated to charity -- specifically, to children's hospitals. In making these donations, Mrs. Clinton will be advised by the National Association of Children's Hospitals and Related Institutions.

Simon and Schuster has developed and will sponsor a promotional tour for Mrs. Clinton that includes travel to Little Rock and Blytheville, Arkansas; Ann Arbor, Michigan; Chicago, Illinois; New York City, New York; and Boston, Massachusetts between January 16th and January 20th. From February 6th to 9th, Mrs. Clinton will travel to Dallas, Texas; Denver, Colorado; Los Angeles and San Francisco, California. Early primary states, New Hampshire and Iowa, will not be a part of Mrs. Clinton's book tour. While Mrs. Clinton hopes to fulfill two Democratic Committee commitments made prior to the writing of the book, she has no plans to attend other political events during her book tour.

Simon & Schuster will pay the costs of the book tour. Mrs. Clinton always travels with one official aide to assist in the conduct of her duties as First Lady. Depending upon the level of non-book related press interest in Mrs. Clinton as she travels, a second aide may also accompany her to address non-book related press matters. Staff and assistance for book promotional events in each city will be retained by Simon and Schuster.

Mrs. Clinton will be available for national, regional and local media interviews. All interviews will be arranged by Simon and Schuster. Requests should be submitted to Victoria Meyer, Simon and Schuster, 1230 Avenue of the Americas, NY, NY, 10020 Office: 212-698-7530, Fax 212-698-7336. Media questions about the book should be directed to Sue Vogelsinger, Office: 202-347-2666.

Dr. Lucius Wright, Jackson, Mississippi

(Contact: Bill Marks, ACOG, 404-224-1208 or 770-987-9565)

Lucius Wright, chosen as a community hero who will carry the Olympic torch through Jackson, is a retired Army Lt. Col., distinguished Vietnam veteran, and educator in the Jackson Public Schools. Having seen the problems of inner-city youth first-hand, Wright founded an organization that unites police and young people in community service and another that engages young people in combating drug abuse and setting goals for themselves. The Olympic Torch Relay originates in Los Angeles on April 27th.

Sgt. Jennifer Rodgers, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

(Contact: Bill Marks, ACOG, 404-224-1208 or 770-987-9565)

Sgt. Jennifer Rodgers, chosen as a community hero who will carry the Olympic torch through Oklahoma City, is a member of the Oklahoma City Police Department and was one of the first people to rescue victims in the bombing of the Federal Building. Rodgers represents the selfless dedication that she and so many others showed during this tragedy, and reminds us of the strength of community that prevailed in the end. The Torch Relay originates in Los Angeles on April 27.

General Barry R. McCaffrey

(Contact: Lower Press Office, 202-456-2580)

General McCaffrey, one of our most experienced and decorated military commanders, is the President's choice for Director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy. As Commander of U. S. forces in Latin America, McCaffrey built an international and interagency coalition that has achieved significant successes against narcotraffickers attempting to bring cocaine into the U.S. His service and leadership in Latin America will build upon the success of his predecessor, Lee Brown, by dismantling the Cali Drug Cartel. McCaffrey is perfectly suited for this position--a proven military leader who commands respect from young Americans, pursues goals with efficiency and order, and expects positive results.

Richard Dean, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

(Contact: University Club, Tuesday)

Richard Dean has worked for the Social Security Administration for 22 years. During the tragedy of the Oklahoma City bombing he saved the lives of three women in the Federal Building. Dean was furloughed during the first government shutdown last November and worked without pay during the second shutdown. He is a vivid reminder that the people who serve this country daily do not deserve to be caught up in the closing down of the government.

Aaron Feuerstein, Malden Mills, Lawrence, Massachusetts

(Contact: Tom Mendl, Hay-Adams Hotel, Tuesday; after, 508-685-6341)

Aaron Feuerstein captured the heart of the nation with his generosity towards his employees after his factory burned down on December 11, 1995. With 2,400 employees out of work two weeks before Christmas, Feuerstein paid the idle workers for the month, committed to the next month as well, and promised the employees their Christmas bonuses. Feuerstein's actions prompted an outpouring of charity and compassion from the community. The president of a South Dakota firm, who is a customer of the plant, personally delivered a $30,000 check to Feuerstein. The Bank of Boston donated $50,000 to start a statewide Malden Mills relief fund. The local hospital is offering free care to the fire victims, restaurants have given free meals to residents evacuated from their homes, and local residents made their homes available to those affected.

Elie Wiesel and Marion Wiesel

Elie Wiesel, a Nobel Peace Prize Winner and Boston University Professor, has worked on behalf of oppressed people for much of his adult life. FIRST LADY HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON OPENS A NEW EXHIBITION OF
TWENTIETH-CENTURY SCULPTURE AT THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, DC -- First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton today officially opened a new exhibition of 20th-Century American Sculpture at the White House. The pieces for this third exhibit are on loan to the White House from eight southwestern/western art collections. The sculpture was installed in the First Ladies Garden in October '95 and will be on display through Spring '96.

Mrs. Clinton said of the exhibit, "These ten sculptures selected celebrate the special genius of American artists and their enduring capacity to stir our imagination and touch our hearts. I hope this celebration of America's creative spirit will enable each of us to gain a greater appreciation of the rich cultural traditions we share as a nation and as a people."

The curator of the exhibit is Mr. Peter C. Marzio, Director of the Museum of Fine Arts in Houston, Texas. The ten works of art focus on American Sculpture from 1915 to the present. The pieces represent the transformations that have shaped the course of sculpture across this century.

As Chair of the Committee for the Preservation of the White House, Mrs. Clinton and Committee members began to discuss the possibility of displaying American 20th-Century sculpture in the White House in January, 1994. J. Carter Brown, Director Emeritus of the National Gallery of Art, and a member of the Committee for the Preservation of the White House, contacted the Association of Art Museum Directors regarding the possibility of loaning pieces of 20th-Century American Sculpture to the White House. Under the auspices of the Association of Art Museum Directors and through the generosity of the Iris and B. Gerald Cantor Foundation, the first exhibit of 20th-Century sculpture, which featured pieces from midwestern art collections, opened in October 1994 and was on display in the First Ladies' Garden until February 1995. The second exhibit featured pieces from southeastern art collections and was on display from April 1995 through September 1995. This third exhibition in the series features eleven pieces from southwestern/western art collections. The Committee for the Preservation of the White House hopes to continue the exhibition with pieces of sculpture from every region of the country.

Visitors will be able to see the sculptures from the East Colonnade as they begin their tour of the White House.
