April 1997

Dear Education Reformer,

Greetings from the Thomas B. Fordham Foundation and a small band of incurable optimists about the prospects for renewing primary/secondary education in the United States.

The booklet that is enclosed tells more about the Foundation, what we believe, and what we're about. Part of our mission is to identify people who are serious players in the education reform field--governors and legislators, CEO's and journalists, community activists and parents, as well as educators--and provide them with important information that will assist them in waging the battle for real change. In time, we hope you'll open any envelope carrying our logo with confidence that what's in it will warrant your attention.

In that spirit, we intend from time to time to send you worthwhile things to read. Enclosed herewith is the first issue of Selected Readings on School Reform, a quarterly compilation of education articles (and our reactions to them) intended to keep you abreast of new developments in the world of education reform.

We hope you will like being on our list. Let us know if there are other education movers-and-shakers we should add to it. (Of course, you should also let us know if you'd rather not be on it!) Besides this old-fashioned form of communication, you may also be interested in looking at--and perhaps contributing to--our web-site: <http://www.edexcellence.net>. You can send us e-mail that way, too, as well as to gvanourek@aol.com.

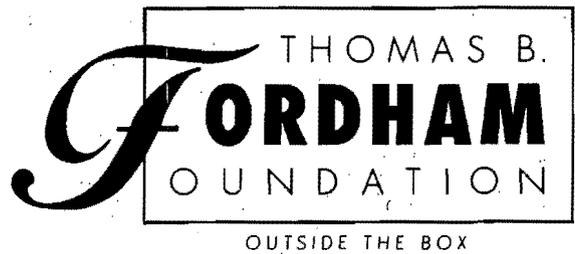

If you still use phones and faxes, we have those as well. The numbers, and our address--we're quartered in Hudson Institute's Washington office--are on this letter. Please jot them down for future reference.

We hope you will like hearing from us. We'd welcome feedback, advice, and news from your corner of the education reform world.

Sincerely,

Chester E. Finn, Jr
President
