SUBJ: Meeting with AMA

DATE: January 26, 1993

Dorothy Moss, Exec. Director of the AMA, has called to set up a meeting with me and wants to also bring in the Vice-President for Governmental Affairs. Needless to say, the topic is health care.

How do you all want to handle appt. requests with major groups like this as well as Senators, Representatives, etc.? Shall I do the first appointment as a courtesy to build relationships for Domestic Policy across the board, or do you all wish to meet with them initially? In most cases, I think it is not a good use of our time to have more than one of us at any one time sit down with them, especially in the early days.

Please advise. Thank you.

Dear Ms. Rasco:

On behalf of the American Medical Association I want to congratulate you on your position as Director of Domestic Policy for the Clinton Administration. President Clinton has stressed that domestic issues will be the main focus for his Administration, and so yours will certainly be an exciting and challenging job. We wish you well.

The AMA welcomes the opportunity to work with you and the Clinton team as you begin the start of this Administration. Health system reform, Medicare, Medicaid and a wide range of public health issues will certainly be at the top of the agenda for you and the 103rd Congress. These issues are interrelated and complex and require a new partnership between the medical profession and government.

The AMA is ready to begin that partnership. Physicians are committed to working with you and your colleagues to devise effective strategies to address critical health issues. We believe that cooperation and negotiation should supplant the adversarial and highly regulatory approach that led to many inefficiencies in our health system.

The AMA has been concerned about public health and health system reform for many years. We believe that physicians' experience at the center of the health care delivery system provides a "real world" perspective that is essential as we confront the myriad of health care issues.

The enclosed book outlines AMA positions on priority health policy issues facing the Administration and the 103rd Congress. It also provides background information about the AMA policy making process and some of our program initiatives.

I have called your office and requested a meeting with you to discuss ways that the AMA can work with you to advance health care reform and other health related programs and priorities. I hope we have the opportunity to meet soon. The AMA looks forward to working with you throughout the Administration to achieve real progress in resolving current health policy concerns.

Sincerely,

Dorothy J. Moss
