Summary

This collection consists of the records of Lissa Muscatine from her time in the First Lady’s Office. Muscatine served as a Presidential Speechwriter, 1993-1995, Special Assistant to the President and Presidential Speechwriter, 1996-1998, and Deputy Assistant to the President and Director of Communications for the First Lady, 2000-2001. This series highlights the First Lady’s various domestic and international trips and events, including her speeches, schedules, and related press releases about the events, and the press credentials of those covering the events. This collection also contains records relating to the First Lady’s press interviews and television appearances, as well as her column Talking It Over. Background material includes articles and news summaries used by the Press Office in drafting statements, press releases, and speeches and responses of the First Lady. The collection also contains files created by Marsha Berry, who preceded Muscatine as Director of Communications for the First Lady from 1996-1999.

Scope and Content Note

Alison “Lissa” Muscatine served as a Presidential Speechwriter, 1993-1995, Special Assistant to the President and Presidential Speechwriter, 1996-1998, and Deputy Assistant to the President and Director of Communications for the First Lady, 2000-2001. While serving in her position as Communications Director to the First Lady, Muscatine coordinated with the press on the First Lady’s schedules, events, interviews, travel, and issued statements on behalf of the First Lady’s Office. Prior to entering public service, Ms. Muscatine was a reporter and editor at the Washington Post, the Washington Star, and the Delta Democrat Times. She received her B.A. in history from Harvard University and was awarded a Rhodes scholarship to Oxford University. While working as a speechwriter, Muscatine’s work was split between the President and the First Lady. She assisted the First Lady with speeches (including the First Lady's speech at the United Nations Fourth World Conference on Women in Beijing), her column Talking it Over, and her 1996 book It Takes a Village. After the White House, Muscatine spent two years collaborating with Hillary Clinton on her book 2015-0275-S http://www.clintonlibrary.gov 2 "Living History," worked as a speechwriter for Hillary Clinton's 2008 Presidential Campaign, and as Chief of Speechwriting and Senior Adviser to Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton at the U.S. Department of State, 2009-2011. As of 2017, Lissa Muscatine and her husband are co-owners of Politics and Prose Bookstore in Washington, D.C. This collection highlights the First Lady's various domestic and international trips and events, including her speeches, schedules, and related press releases about the events, and the press credentials of those covering the events. The records show how the First Lady's Press Office coordinated with the traveling press and assisted with visas, hotel accommodations, transportation, activities, photo opportunities, and international filing stations. This collection also contains records relating to the First Lady's press interviews and television appearances, as well as her column Talking It Over. Background material includes articles and news summaries used by the Press Office in drafting statements, press releases, and speeches and responses of the First Lady. There are also files from Marsha Berry, who preceded Muscatine as Director of Communications for the First Lady from 1996-1999. The records include correspondence, memos, schedules of the First Lady, news clippings, news summaries, press releases, reports, speeches, faxes, email, notes, phone logs, publications.
