Scope and Content Note

Andrea Kane served as Associate Director for Domestic Policy for the Domestic Policy Council from 1997-2000 and Special Assistant to the President from 2000-2001 where she served as Senior Advisor for Welfare and Working Families. From 1997-1999, Kane provided advice, edits, and acted as a liaison between agencies, the White House, and congressional staff members for federal rules, regulations and policy decisions that related to welfare reform and the welfare-to-work program. In early 2000, she took over Cynthia Rice’s position as the lead of a four-person welfare reform team in the Domestic Policy Council. This collection highlights Kane’s work on Clinton administration initiatives falling under the umbrella of welfare reform including tobacco, IDA [Individual Development Account], food stamps for legal immigrants, child support and responsible fatherhood, domestic policy budgetary priorities, second chance homes, welfare-to-work, TANF [Temporary Assistance for Needy Families], charitable choice, housing assistance, teen pregnancy, and transportation assistance. The records include correspondence from members of Congress and congressional staff, federal agencies, and the non-profit community, emails, Q&A’s, radio address transcripts, speech transcripts, draft radio address and speeches, fact sheets, press releases, faxes, memoranda, news articles, newspaper clippings, pamphlets, handwritten notes, books, reports, draft federal regulations and rules, forms, talking points, briefing materials, draft legislation.
