Summary

The White House Health Care Interdepartmental Working Group was created to gather information on previous health care reform initiatives, generate ideas, and formulate alternative options and present those options for consideration by the Task Force on National Health Care Reform. The Interdepartmental Working Group records consist of documents used, created, received, and maintained by more than 500 working group participants. The collection is arranged in the following six series: Participant’s Working Papers, Briefing Books, Tollgate Books, Audit Groups, Documents Not Produced, and Computer Disks.
