Summary

This collection includes scheduling documents, press guidance, and other records regarding telephone calls that took place between President Clinton and Russian President Boris Yeltsin on June 13 and 14, 1999. Many of the documents regarding the conversations that took place between the two presidents on these dates have been restricted for reasons of national security.

Scope and Content Note

The materials in FOIA 2006-1185-F are a selective, not necessarily all inclusive, body of documents responsive to the topic of the FOIA. Researchers should consult the archivist about related materials. FOIA 2006-1185-F consists of records concerning two telephone calls between President Clinton and Russian President Boris Yeltsin. These calls took place on June 13 and 14, 1999. It should be noted that many of the documents regarding conversations between Presidents Clinton and Yeltsin on these dates have been withdrawn due to national security restrictions. Documents responsive to this FOIA were entirely found within the NSC Cables, Emails, and Records Management Systems (RMS). The NSC Emails contain discussions referencing planning for the telephone calls. These discussions include scheduling documents, press guidance, and comments regarding the transmission of documents related to the telephone conversations, such as talking points and telcons. The NSC Records Management System includes documents related to preparation for the telephone calls and to the telcons of the conversations.
