I want to again thank you for setting up this meeting yesterday. I was extremely pleased with the discussion, it is the type meeting I had envisioned. It was a real plus having people coming from somewhat different points within the system all in the room together; I thought the number of outsiders was good, would not want more. I've asked Jill to check with you all to see if we can set up 15 minutes or so today for us to talk in my office as a feedback session.

Because the word was out there in the child welfare world the minute the first call of invitation went out as evidenced by calls and faxes I received starting then (and I must add folks are very excited we're focusing on this, not a lot of pleas for invitations yet, just ideas on topics to cover), we need to:

- a. Make sure we have at least one minority among each group of outsiders we have into the meetings.
- b. Make sure we are inviting (realizing it will have to be done well in advance to be realistic) at least one person from outside the East Coast area to each subsequent chat.
- c. Discipline ourselves to go into each session not referring to the discussion in the other chats explicitly or it will indeed be seen by the network of those in this field as an exercise to reach the consensus we are not seeking to do.
- d. OMB intends only to send one to each session and I will back that decision Nancy-Ann shared with me yesterday in an email to her and to Ken.
- e. We need to tell HHS we were very pleased with our session and the size and that one HHS rep is sufficient. I don't think we need anymore people in the room. We need to stress to them I meant it when I said in that meeting yesterday that we are not going to be producing papers...I don't want a Carol Williams summary memo floating all over HHS or it will appear in a national child welfare newsletter within a month.

Thanks.
